Novice showman has top steer

By DIETER KRIEG

HARRISBURG – Less than five months ago, 14-year old Brett Holzhauer had never led an animal into a show ring. Two days ago he became the champion of the most celebrated event at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Holzhauer's winning of the grand champion baby beef banner on Thursday stands as the final chapter of a Cinderella story which began last Spring when Brett's father, Robert Holzhauer, encouraged him to take a 4-H beef project.

The young man's victory represents more than a personal or family triumph. As is the case every year, county prestige is at stake. This year the laurels returned to Lancaster County, after having been in the Garden Spot two years ago, and "almost" in 1977. Last year's owner of the grand champion baby beef animal was Janice Kaylor of Elizabethtown. Although she is a Lancaster County girl, she keeps her animal on her grandfather's farm in Dauphin County, which allows her to be a member of the Dauphin County Baby Beef Club.

Miss Kaylor, taking a carefully groomed Chianina-Angus crossbred into the arena, wound up as reserve champion this year.

The Baby Beef Show is one of the few events held in the Large Arena during the Farm Show which is granted full use of the facilities. The animals and attending 4-H'ers, ring crew, and officials don't have to share the turf with anyone. It's a big event, drawing news reporters and photographers from all over the state.

With several thousand spectators filling the seats of the arena, and hundreds more crowding around the ropes near the outside perimeter of the showing area, the Baby Beef Show generates interest unmatched by any other competitive event held here. There's excitement in the air as the show goes on,

Gruber has market hog champ

By JOANNE SPAHR

HARRISBURG – Ten-year-old Seth Gruber proved a point on Thursday morning. For the second year in a row, he has shown that fathers really can teach their children the ropes in the livestock business. Seth is the son of Henry Gruber, New Tripoli R2, head buyer for Arbogast and Bastian, Inc., Allentown, Pa., and this year Seth showed the grand champion of the junior market swine show at Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

The elder Gruber, who has been buying hogs for 19 years and judging contests for quite a few, says he and his son picked the animal out together.

Bred by William Nash, Frankford, Ind., the 210 pound lightweight division champion was selected over the heavyweight division champion shown by Greg Stricker, Bernville R1. A Hampshire, the champion's sire was "Stump."

Last year Seth's light heavyweight was also named grand champion. The fact that the Lehigh County 4-H Swine Club member has only been involved in 4-H for the two years he has

Kucemchak's market lamb wins

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG – Julie Kuzemchak, Pleasant Gap, Center County, an "almost 13" 4-H'er won the grand championship honors in the junior market lamb class in Thursday's competition at the Pa. Farm Show. This was the youth's third year in 4-H competition, and first year to compete in Harrisburg. She showed a 116 lb. Suffolk wether, that she bought in Columbus, Ohio, for her project.

Reserve champion market lamb was shown by Sarah Brubaker, Lancaster. Her 112 lb. Suffolk lamb came originally from the state of Indiana.

Reserve champion pair were a pair of Hampshires shown by Brian Zerby, Knoxville, in Tioga County.

In the junior breeding sheep classes, Chester County dominated the championship spots, winning four of the six breed championships. John Arrell, Jr., Lincoln University, had the champion Cheviot ewe;

How many of your eggs make it safely through the egg handling maze of cages, nests, belts, washers, and packers?

There are many ways to look at the vital statistics of a laying flock. If you're looking only at egg numbers maybe you should be looking closer at the bottom line of your egg gradeout sheet.

From calf to cow, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

Are you in the dairy business to stay?

Are you ready to devote an hour or so of your time planning for a more profitable future?

If your answer to both questions is yes, you owe it to yourself to read what we have to say.

Unlike many other feed companies, we develop custom feeding programs for each individual dairy.

It all starts with a Pennfield man reviewing your total operation with you. Your goals. Your records. The health and overall condition of your milking cows and young stock. Your management practices. Your roughage feeding program. And other factors that have an effect on your profit potential.

We also conduct laboratory analysis of the roughages you feed to determine their nutrient content.

With the aid of computers, we then design a balanced feeding program specifically tailored to your operation and goals—a program that can improve your profits by reducing expenses, increasing production, or both.

For example, while using a Pennfield customized feeding program, 30 herds this past year averaged 1,688 lbs. more milk and 64 lbs. more fat per cow than the previous year.

There is no cost—or obligation—for this unique service. But you must take the first step by writing or phoning us. Do it today.

Livestock market and auction news

Omaha Cattle

January 12, 1978

CATTLE: Compared with the previous week's close - closing prices on slaughter steers and heifers were 25-50 cents lower largely in reaction to the mild downturn in carcass beef prices. Cows were firm to 50 cents higher and bulls firm.

Four day receipts 15,800 as compared 11,900 previous week and 14,800 a year ago. Fed cattle prices were forced slightly downward as carcass trading weakened, but there was still a generally good demand as most buying interests were in need of cattle for immediate slaughter requirements. Best demand continued to center on choice and prime relatively clean steers and heifers as mud became an increasing problem; a large share of the cattle were dirty or slightly muddy, and some loadlots carried a substantial amount of mud. Slaughter steers made of approximately 41 percent of the week's total and heifers 33 percent; there was a fair percentage choice, but still a sizable volume mixed good and choice. Cows contributed 13 percent and feeders 11 percent.

STEERS: Part load Choice and Prime 3 1347 lbs. 45.00 early, six loads same grade 3-4 1198-1266 lbs. 44.10-44.50. Choice 2-4 975-1250 lbs. closed 43.00-44.00. Mixed Good and Choice 2-4 950-1250 lbs. ranged 42.00-43.00, occasionally 43.25, some mostly Choice but quite muddy 42.50-43.00. Good 2-3 37.50-41.75. Standard and Good 2-3 36.00-37.50.

Average of LS-214, detailed quotations, for Choice 900-1100 lb. steers this week 43.55; Choice 1100-1300 lbs. 43.68. Average weight steers first three days 1146 lbs. as compared 1135 lbs. previous week. Average weight heifers first three days 990 lbs. as compared 985 lbs. previous week.

HEIFERS: Part load Choice and Prime 3-4 930-1067 lbs. 43.00 on opening session, moderate volume same grade 954-1100 lbs. 42.35-42.75. Choice 2-4 875-1050 lbs. closed 41.00-42.25. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 850-1000 lbs. 39.50-41.00. Good 2-3 35.00-38.75. Small lots Standard and Good 2-3 32.00-34.50.

COWS: Utility and Commercial 2-4 26.50-28.00, a few 28.50-29.00, some Heiferette type 29.50-32.00. Canner and Cutter 22.50-26.50.

BULLS: 1-2 1400-2300 lbs. 29.00-33.00, individual 1 33.50-34.50, load fed bulls 35.00.

STAYING COMPETITIVE WILL BE THE ANSWER.

REPEAT — STAY COMPETITIVE. ALL INDICATIONS ARE THAT THINGS WILL BE TIGHT THE NEXT 24 MONTHS, WITH EGG PRICES HOVERING AROUND THE BREAK EVEN POINT FOR PRODUCERS.

1. Good sanitation, insect control, treatment of infection and disease, worming and rodent control all have to be carried on continuously for healthy birds and healthy profits.
2. Simply stated, good pullets peak high; poor ones do not.
3. The move from the pullet house to the layer house can be in some cases a severe stress and depress that potential.
4. A few chickens saved or lost certainly influences the potential return of the house.
5. Since feed intake is a poor guide for pre-peak layers we must seek a substitute and the best substitute is in house temperature.
6. Feed intake and performance fortification levels - The Purina Laying Chow Bio-Rating gives the relative fortification of amino acid, vitamins and minerals. Bio Layena 100 is the base product. For example, Bio Layena 114 contains 7% more fortification than Bio Layena 107 and 14% more than Bio Layena 100. Each of the above feed intake ranges represent approximately 7% less feed consumption than the previous range. Thus a drop of 7% in feed intake (approximately 1½ pounds/100 hens/day) is compensated for by an increase of 7% in ration fortification.
   In this way daily intake of amino acids, vitamins and minerals remain constant. The correct level of fortification is exactly matched to the hen's feed intakes. If during stress conditions a more highly fortified ration is desired, just choose the amount of extra fortification by checking the Bio-Rating of each Purina Laying Chow. Always use local judgement on whether to change the ration, since feed intakes will vary due to wastage, strain, etc.
7. Failure to reach the highest level of production and to maintain high levels many times is due to disease. Therefore it is essential that prior to this time the flocks should have received sufficient vaccination properly administered to provide full and complete resistance.

CONCLUSION: Nutritional programs and management practices during housing through 36 weeks of age can have considerable effect on peak and subsequent performance. It is our challenge to start with a quality pullet and do nothing that harms its "performance potential". But too we must be concerned about not feeding excesses of nutrients that are costly and hurt income potential.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

By DIETER KRIEG, EDITOR

Needed improvements for '79

Exhibitors and visitors to the Pennsylvania Farm Show were generally pleased and even excited about the way the activities unraveled, but they do offer some suggestions for improvement which are worthy of strong consideration.

In the Large Arena, for exmaple, exhibitors and animals are plagued year after year by a few unruly troublemakers who throw trash and even firecrackers. On Thursday, during the Baby Beef Show, someone tossed a firecracker which exploded near a little girl Isn't there something we can do about this, or must a child or an adult have his ear drums blown out first. If the State Police isn't around, maybe we should grab the troublesome characters ourselves and show them they're not wanted

In the dairy barn, exhibitors are asking for a maternity pen. That's certainly a justified request and it's a wonder how it was overlooked in the first place.

The beef barn has drainage and ventilation shortcomings. They'll hopefully be taken care of before next year's big show.

Last, but certainly not least, we've got to keep thinking about adding more usable space. More than a half acre of exhibit area will be lost now that the 1978 Farm Show is over. Unless something is done to counterbalance that loss, 1979 is likely to go down as a year of disappointment at the Farm Show.

COMMENTS FROM READERS

Strike is not the answer

Editor, Lancaster Farming: I have been reading, hearing and watching this farm strike when I've not been busy fixing fence, calving or lambing. Fellows, believe me, I am on your side in sympathy only. I now feel our salvation is not strike and complain, but to listen to the economic warnings of our trade papers and magazines, stop trying to out-guess our neighbors and tend to business.

For starters, do not plant more crops than you personally need to feed your animals. If you are just a grain operator, close down for one season and take a job in town, go fishing, whatever, but give the world a chance to eat up this surplus.

I am a cow-calf operator and was a hard head for a while but when we culled 40 per cent of our cows, sold our hay and switched to a flock of sheep, we actually made more income with less effort. Then this year we cut corn planting in half and we lost even less.

One more word to the wise cowman, the buyers are around all of a sudden looking for replacement heifers, cows are in short supply and the price of calves is going up. Please do not get greedy and expand because we will flood the market in four to five years and we will be in trouble again. History does repeat itself, and rather quickly.

TO CHECK STAND-BY GENERATORS

Weather conditions are very uncertain at this time of the year, and all of us should be prepared for emergencies. Electric power is a very important part of most farm operations, and without it, we are nearly shut down and severely hampered. Therefore, some emergency equipment is needed to operate all of the mechanical devices now being used on many farms. The stand-by generator is the one piece of equipment that can keep things moving while the power is off because of severe weather. Many producers have one, but may not have used it recently. We suggest that this type of equipment be readied for an emergency at any time.

TO SEGREGATE NEW ANIMALS

One of our very good veterinarians of years ago tried to impress on livestock producers that sanitation and segregation were the two most important things in good livestock management. The segregating of new animals brought into the herd is a "must"; otherwise, great risk is being taken. When thse animals are kept separate for 30 days and then tested for various infections, and found negative, then it is safe to place them with the rest of the herd or flock. In this same line of management, animals that are returning to the farm from a show or sale, should also be segregated for the 30-day period. The animals themselves may not become infected because they have been treated against the infection; however, other animals in the herd do not have the resistance and may come down with various infections. Segregation is very important for good herd health.

TO THAW PIPES CAREFULLY

Frozen pipes are quite common when temperatures get near zero; the thawing of the pipes in buildings can be dangerous. Blow torches or any open flame is very dangerous and should not be used; neither should electric welders. All of these are dangerous and can start fires. The wrapping of the pipe with burlap or rags and then pouring on hot water can get the job done. Electric hair dryers have been used to blow hot air on the frozen pipe area. Prevention is always better than the cure; try to prevent the freezing and save all the trouble. The use of electric heating cable wrapped around exposed pipes is giving good results.

TO ALLOW LIVESTOCK ROOM AND EXERCISE

The confining of any type of livestock into cramped, stuffy quarters is not recommended; this is especially true of beef cattle and young dairy animals. They need fresh air and daily outside exercise for top performance. The skeletal structure, and especially the feet and legs will be much better, if they are permitted more outdoor freedom. Tightly confined animals tend to have more trouble with body lice and ringworm infection. When given the chance most animals will spend far more time outside the pen or building, than inside; they will do better under this kind of management.

THE PRICE OF VISIONS

Lesson for January 15, 1978

Background Scripture:
Daniel 1.
Devotional Reading:
Habakkuk 2:15-20.

Sri Chinmoy, a teacher of meditation from India, has remarked: "Some people will do anything for their own advancement except work for it." In other words, many of us are desirous of the fruits of God's gifts, but we do not want to pay the price. We are perhaps like the woman who listened as a great pianist played a stirring Polonaise by Chopin. "I'd give everything to play like that." Turning to her, the pianist said: "Yes, that's what it takes: everything."

Indulge yourself!

We live in an age when the terms self-denial and self-discipline are virtually unknown. Our culture's message is basically: "Indulge yourselves – you have it coming to you." Many of us are caught up in a frantic effort to enjoy ourselves to the fullest: to get as much as we can as often as we can. We are perhaps often like the comic strip character who asks his big sister: "Did I have a good time today? Sometimes I can't tell." The assumption is that if we consume as much of the world's goods as we can, we will have a "good time." Often, however, that assumption is obviously wrong.

The first chapter of the Book of Daniel presents a challenging counterview. Daniel and his compatriots are given what must seem to be "an offer they can't refuse:" they will live and be educated in the palace of the great Babylonian King Ashpenaz eating the same sumptuous food and drink enjoyed by the king and his court. They will be the envy of their fellow Israelites with the "good life" that has suddenly become theirs.

The good life?

Daniel, however, "looks the gift horse in the mouth" and doesn't see the offer as "the good life." He knows the rich food and drink of the king, no matter how good it all looks and tastes, will be unhealthy with too much quantity, too much richness. So he persuades the king's eunoch to allow him to pursue a vegetarian diet.

The eunoch consents but he has a problem. If Daniel's diet makes him weak and listless, the eunoch will be in trouble with the king. So a demonstration is arranged; Daniel and his associates will be tested in comparison to the servants of the eunoch who eat the king's rich food. The result of the test: "So the steward took away their rich food and the wine they were to drink, and gave them vegetables."

The point of the story is not a pitch for a vegetarian diet. It is rather to demonstrate what can happen in our lives when we dare to discipline ourselves. The "good life," the writer is saying, is the disciplined life. Because Daniel thought more of his soul than his appetites, he "had understanding in all visions and dreams." All of us would like to experience the visions and revelations of the great men of faith, but are we willing to pay the price?

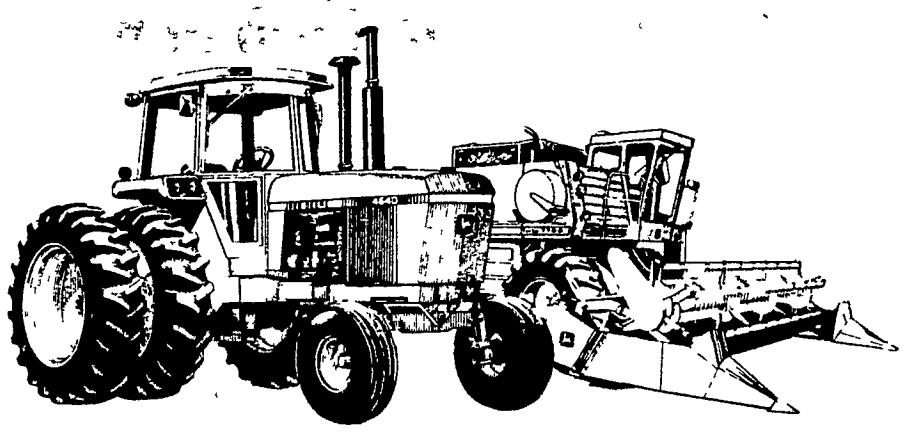
SAVE $100's EVEN $1,000's

We're bargaining beyond our usual good deals on new John Deere 2-W-D Tractors and Combines—through January



Good deals are everyday business at our store But now through January 31, the deals will be extra big—on 40- to 180-hp tractors and self-propelled combines How big? $100's, even $1,000's bigger For good reasons We want to encourage early orders—both on the few models in stock and for models ordered to customer specifications from the tractor and combine factories Because when you order early, we can figure your trade-in at top value, knowing we'll have it in time to sell before the next work season Early ordering also helps to substantially raise the amount you'll save, by eliminating the expense of carrying a machine in stock at high interest rates

Order now—and no finance charges will be imposed from now until March 1 on tractors from now until the next season of use in our area on combines So take your choice at bigger than usual savings on

- 40-hp 2040, 50-hp 2240, 60-hp 2440, 70-hp 2640, and 80-hp 2840 Tractors
- The New Iron Horses™: 90-hp 4040, 110-hp 4240, 130-hp 4440, 155-hp 4640, and 180-hp 4840 Tractors
- Combines: 4400, 6600, SideHill 6600, 6602 Hillside, and 7700

Truck owners called to attention

HARRISBURG — Rep. Noah W. Wenger, R-Lancaster, urges Pennsylvania truck owners to immediately become familiar with the state's new laws on truck weights in order to avoid costly fines and dangerous driving situations.

Wenger said he can provide truck owners with a brochure entitled "Is Your Truck Weight Legal?" He said owners can receive the pamphlet by writing him, Rep. Wenger, P.O. Box 109, House of Representatives, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120.

The Pennsylvania State Police and Department of Transportation are distributing brochures to the trucking industry and are making them available at the interstate highway roadside rests and county maintenance buildings.

"This pamphlet provides an outline of weight limits established in the new vehicle code which took effect on July 1, 1977," Wenger said.

"PennDOT and the State Police initiated a cooperative truck-weight enforcement program throughout the Commonwealth on August 29, 1977.

"There has been a network of permanent scales and mobile teams of State Police and certified technicians set up state-wide.

"Equipment utilized in the program will be the most modern and efficient in the United States, permitting a minimum of "down time" for truckers throughout the weighing process.

"This brochure contains answers to many questions for which even professional truckers, who are basically aware of most limits, may not realize. It includes a detailed weight and fine schedule for violations of gross weight restrictions."

Wenger said the goal of the strict enforcement of the new weight limits for trucks is to make the highways safer for all motorists and help reduce highway maintenance costs.

Protects 4 more miles of corn between hopper refills

Dyfonate® 20-G insecticide does it. At 30 pounds of rootworm insecticide per hopper, Dyfonate protects 15 miles of corn row from rootworms. Compared to 7 miles to 11 miles for most other rootworm insecticides.

Dependable Dyfonate 20-G has other important benefits

- Economical—lower cost per acre than most rootworm insecticides.
- Granules of Dyfonate don't wear out metering equipment.
- Dyfonate doesn't have an offensive odor. And it's easy handling.
- Dyfonate controls rootworms for sure in early and late-planted corn.
- Dyfonate also controls symphylans—tiny soil pests that destroy much corn in this area.

Get better corn yields without lodging. Use Dyfonate for rootworm and symphylan control. Always follow label directions carefully. See your Stauffer supplier now. Stauffer Chemical Company, Agricultural Chemical Division, Westport, Connecticut 06880.

Donald Hershey honored as Master Farmer

CAMP HILL – Six farmers, three from Pennsylvania and one each from Delaware, Maryland, and West Virginia, were honored here at the Penn-Harris Motor Inn on Tuesday afternoon. All were given the prestigious Master Farmer Award, given annually by Pennsylvania Farmer magazine and the Penn State Extension Service.

The awards luncheon, held in one of the Penn-Harris' magnificent ballrooms, was attended by executives of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Penn State personnel, previous Master Farmer Award winners, and invited guests.

The Master Farmer Award is one of the highest awards bestowed on farmers in this region. The three Pennsylvanians who won the conveted award this year are Donald Hershey of Lancaster County, Richard Packard of Bradford County, and Thomas Styer of Bucks County. John Myers won the honor in Maryland, Russell Linger was cited in West Virginia, and William Vanderwende was the winner in Delaware.

The recognition luncheon was attended by several hundred agriculturalists.

Grain market opportunities explored

BALTIMORE, Md. - The United States will remain the world's granary, with this country producing and storing grain to capitalize on developing market opportunities, a grain export executive said recently.

Clarence D. Palmby, vice president of Continental Grain Company, emphasized that any alternative to such a posture "would simply not be acceptable public policy."

Palmby described the global grain market as uncertain, adding "it will be almost automatic that the U.S. will in some years accumulate inventories."

He advocated grain stocks held by producers, with government as an owner of last resort. "By maintaining title, at least the decision on when to sell will be in the hands of the farmer."

Palmby pointed out that grain surpluses in the United States have, in the past, been utilized to build markets. "Let's focus on opportunities not only this year, but over a longer period of time," he told the Mid-Atlantic No-Till Meeting sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Maryland.

He recalled that huge inventories of wheat in the United States in the 1950's and 1960's caused Japan to increase greatly consumption of bread and wheat products.

"Stocks of corn and sorghum in this country during the 1960's brought an increase in feed manufactured and consumed in Japan from practically nothing some 20 years ago to 20 million tons today."

He said that without this assured feed supply, commercial layer, pork and broiler industries could not have been developed. "As a direct consequence, Japan has become the number one market for U.S. farm products."

Palmby noted the direct effect of recently established 200-mile fishing zones on both Soviet and Japanese protein intake.

"More than half the protein needs of the Japanese have been met through fish consumption, six times the per capita requirement of Americans. Fish likewise forms a major source of protein in the Russian diet."

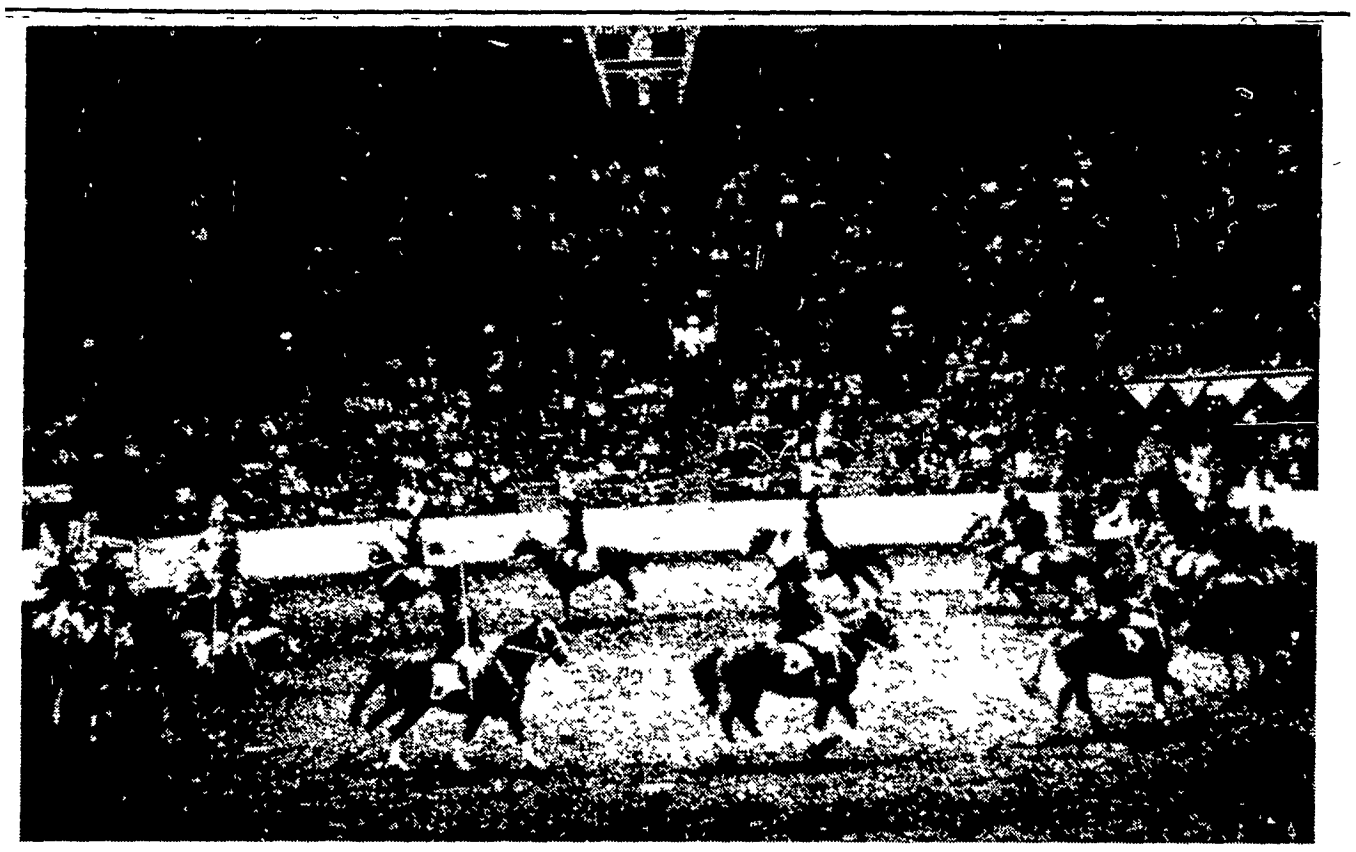
With the new international policies, he went on, the volume of fish available to the Japanese is smaller, and the price higher. The Russian fishing fleet also is recording lesser catches.

The marketing implication, as Palmby sees it, is that with lower levels of fish-derived protein, these countries must turn to other high protein food items, such as poultry, pork, eggs, dairy products and beef. "With world fish catch down, less fishmeal is available for livestock and poultry feed."

"The replacement candidate is soybean meal."

According to Palmby, the probability of price controls or ceilings on the country's raw agricultural commodities will vary in direct relation to price protection or support levels on the low side. He cited broad public support for farm programs, particularly from consumer-oriented legislators.

Another factor, he continued, is the "flutter which occurs in the executive branch of the federal government as raw agricultural prices are impacted by foreign demand."



On Monday night at the Farm Show, visitors were treated to an award-winning riding exhibition put on by the Zembo Mounted Patrol. The group has won recognition in international contests.

Angus queen chosen for '78

HARRISBURG – Fifteen-year-old Sarah Fretz, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fretz, Zionsville, Pa., Lehigh County, was named the 1978 Angus queen at the Pennsylvania Angus Association meeting on Tuesday evening of Farm Show Week.

Sarah Fretz

Miss Fretz succeeds Rebekah Woods, Angus queen for 1977.

Discussion at the business meeting included the next Pennsylvania Angus Association field day to be held at Stonylonesome Farm, Inc., Stahlstown R1. The date for that field day is July 22.

The Angus breeders also discussed the Secretary of Agriculture's proposal to make the Farm Show into show of champions. The general opinion of the members present was to oppose this move. All members were urged to write their sentiments to the members of the Farm Show commission.

Special poultry awards given at Farm Show

HARRISBURG -- A number of York, Lancaster Lehigh, and Cumberland County poultry exhibitors walked away from this year's Pennsylvania State Farm Show with special poultry awards.

Cumberland County garnered five of 13 best-of-show honors for capons, turkeys, and FFA chapter poultry exhibits. York County took four, Lehigh two, and Lancaster County, one special honor.

The best capon of show went to Kerry Zinn, Dover Pa.; best live capon, open class, to Ray Hoover, Mt. Wolf R1; best live capon, junior classes, Kerry Zinn, best dressed, Marvin E. Peifer, Manheim R1; and best dressed junior division, Kerry Zinn.

Kutztown Area FFA earned both the champion and reserve champion FFA pen.

In the turkey division, Konhaus Farms, Mechanicsburg, took the champion carcass, the reserve champion carcass, reserve champion turkey, best live turkey display, and best dressed turkey display. The champion turkey was exhibited by Meadow Brook Turkey Farm, York, Pa.

Kerry Zinn also took the first place 4-H Cornish and corss breeds capons.

Corn champs picked

HARRISBURG - Dennis Watson, of Ulysses, Potter County, captured the championship in 10-ear open pollinated dent classes at the 62nd Farm Show.

Winner in the 10-ear open pollinated flint or indian division was Zane Helsel, East Freedon R1, Blair County; and the 10-ear white popcorn division by Robert Buser, York R12.

Gwen Hower, Northampton R2, won the championship in 10-ear yellow popcorn classes; and Roy B. Mull, Lititz, Lancaster County, won the 10-ear strawberry popcorn division.

In 4-H competition, Gary Lee Crowl, Airville R2, York County captured the championship in hybrid dent District I classes. Winner in District 4-H competition was Greg Connor, of Mill Hall R1, Clinton County.

Glen Crowl, Airville R2, won the championship in District I 10-ear hybrid dent vocational classes; and Daniel Uplinger, of Brockway R1, Jefferson County, won in District II vocational classes.

Junior breed champs named

HARRISBURG - David McElhany of Hookstown, swept the grand and reserve grand championships in Shorthorn junior beef breeding classes at the 62nd Farm Show. The McElhaney champion was "MSF Dutchess" and the reserve champion was "R H Elms Gloster."

In junior Hereford competition, "RGL Venus Anx Girl," shown by Marci Lynn Boron of Venus, won the grand championship. Reserve grand champion was "WHF Danielle," shown by Jeff Claycomb of Osterburg.

Janice Kaylor of Elizabethtown, captured the Charolais grand championship with "K Hanging Karen." Timothy Caldwell of Windsor, exhibited the reserve champion Charolais, "Royal Countesso of WMF."

The grand champion Angus was "Seldom Seen Miss Lucie," exhibited by Cecil Teets of Freedom. Reserve champion was "Seldom Seen Blackcap," also shown by Cecil Teets.

"Which Hybrids do I plant? The Senecas—what else!"

Last year, the incredible Senecas, 137, 140 and 149, sold out again for the third year in a row

Big early yields that get safely into the bin, bunk or silo is the main reason Quick come-up fast dry-down cold, wet weather tolerance and fantastic standability are among others All good reasons why you should include the Senecas in your corn program for '78

"For the serious dairyman who's shooting for more tons of silage, I think Furadan is a good solution. Because it controls those insects that cut yields in this area."

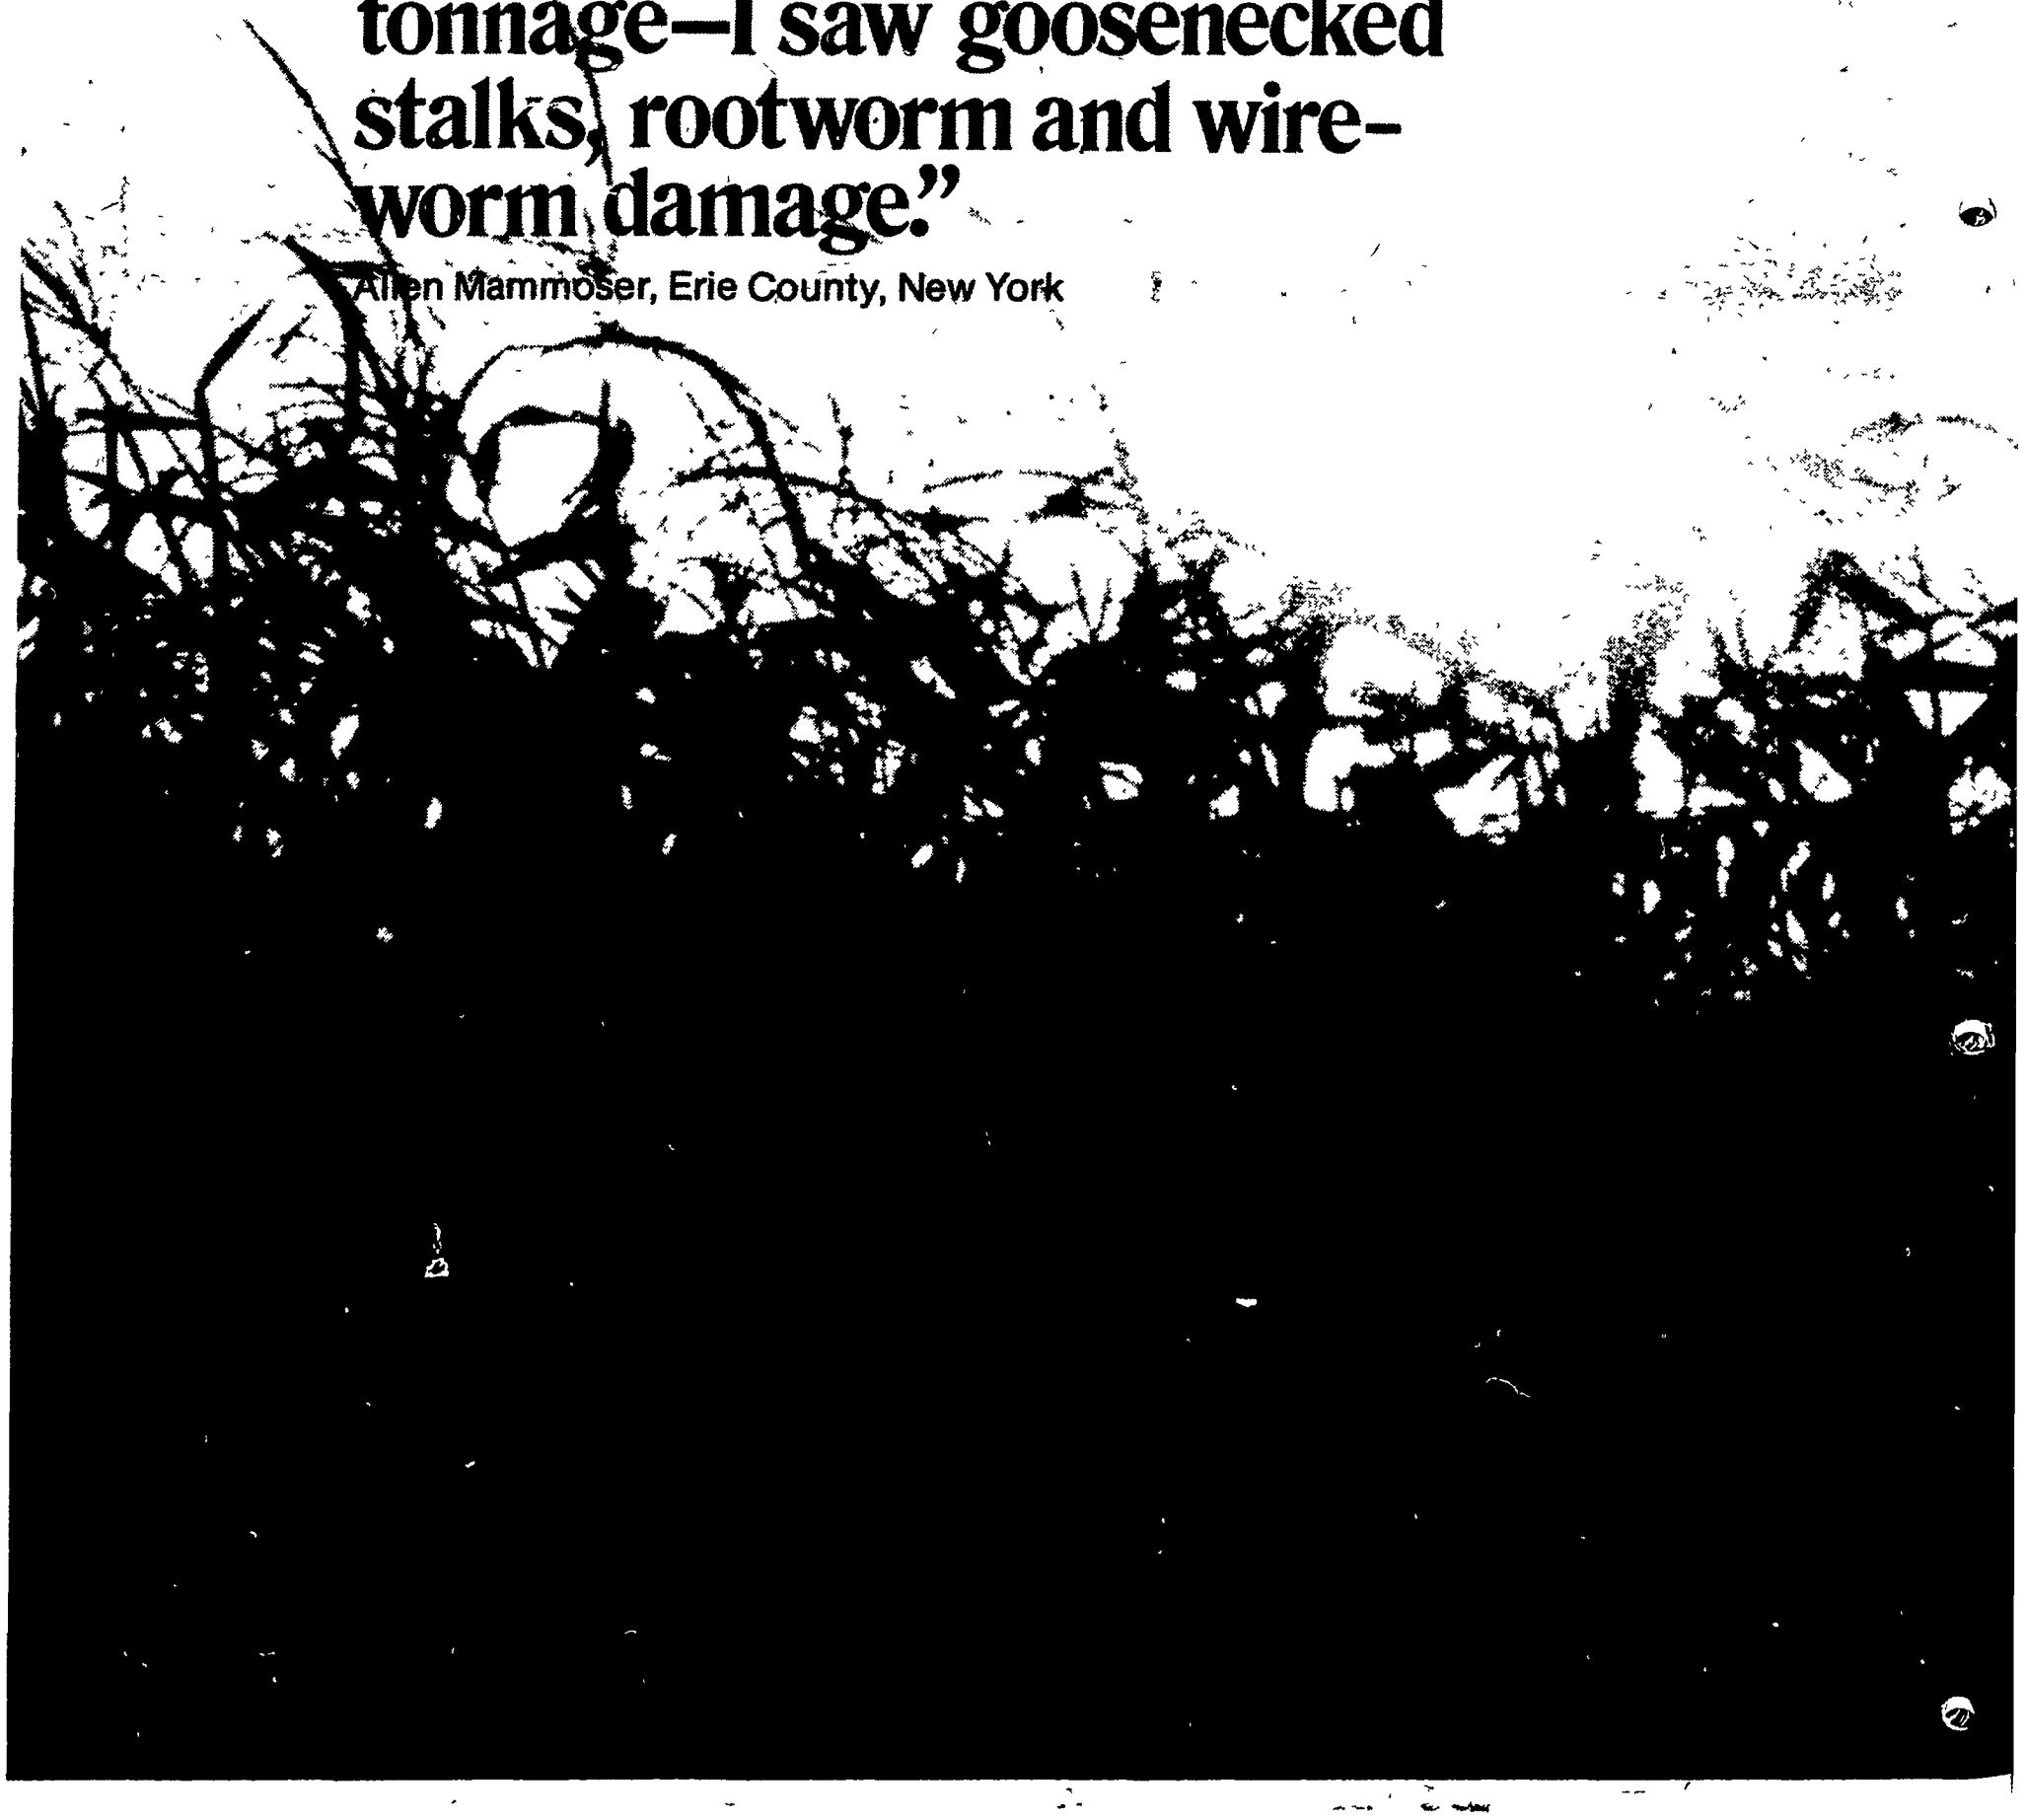
Chuck Dodd, Warren County, Pennsylvania

"Insect problems can cut silage yields in half in this area. Some guys think I've got a different type of fertilizer or something, but the only difference is Furadan."

Donald Zittel, Erie County, New York

"I figure that where I didn't use Furadan, I lost 10 to 20% of my tonnage—I saw goosenecked stalks, rootworm and wireworm damage."

Allen Mammoser, Erie County, New York



"We ran a test that convinced us how well Furadan works. We applied Furadan to three-fourths of a field. And the difference was 1,400 pounds of ground ear corn per acre." Larry Rater, Chautauqua County, New York

Why do top-notch dairymen use Furadan® insecticide-nematicide for their corn?

Because they've seen tons of silage lost from insects and nematodes.

And they know Furadan controls more pests than any other corn soil insecticide.

Instead of convincing you with our tests, we asked Furadan users to talk about their battle against damaging corn insects. And they said it better than we could.

If you're not sure how Furadan fits into your operation, talk to a dairyman who's tried it.

Or call your farm chemical supplier. He'll explain how Furadan stops more pests. And saves more corn. FMC Corporation, Agricultural Chemical Group, 2000 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19103.

Stop. All pesticides can be harmful to health and the environment if misused. Read the label carefully and use only as directed.

Kaylor has reserve in Charolais show

HARRISBURG – Janice Kaylor, Elizabethtown, took reserve senior champion female honors in the Charolais breeding cattle classes with her late Summer yearling hiefer, "K Hanging Karen." The show was held on Wednesday winning grand champion female honors of that show was J.C. Enterprises, Ringgold, Jefferson County. "JC Miss Elevation" was their grand champion which was first named junior champion female.

Royal Charolais Co., of Youngwood, Westmoreland County, showed the reserve grand and reserve junior champion RCC Royal Lady. Royal Charolais Company also showed the senior champion.

In bull classes, "Riverwood Gallant," exhibited by J.C. Enterprises, Ringgold, Jefferson County, won the grand and junior championships.

Reserve grand champion and calf champion was "RCC Royal Commander," exhibited by Hill-Dale and Royal Charolais, of Youngwood, Westmoreland County. Royal Charolais also showed the reserve calf champion, "RCC Royal Victor, and reserve junior champion, "RCC royal Enterprise."

Edward Martsolf, of Enon Valley, Lawrence County, showed the senior champion, "GVF Polled Champion."

taken the Farm Show top titles says quite a bit for the youngster's show record.

The elder Gruber manages A & B's farms where approximately 150 sows are kept, and commercial gilts are sold for breeding purposes.

A second win on Thursday for Gruber came when one of his animals was also named reserve champion heavyweight. This animal was second in rank to the heavyweight which became reserve grand champion, overall.

Greg Stricker who showed the reserve champ, overall, was first named heavyweight division champion with his 239 pound Duroc crossbred gilt. At nine years old this is Greg's first year at showing. He is a member of the Berks County 4-H Swine Club, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stricker.

Taking the championship of the light heavyweight division was Jay Bomgardner, Annville, with a homebred 226 pound Hampshire. Three days previous to the Thursday market hog competition, Jay's brother Charles had earned top honors in Hampshire breeding swine competition. The two brothers are in partnership, along with a third brother, in Blue Mountain View Farms.

Jay, who is president of the Lebanon County 4-H Livestock Club, has never even had a first placing in the market swine competition, prior to this although he also had a champion bred gilt last year.

Happy with his accomplishment, the youth admitted that he had aimed for the market hog title this year, and while he didn't garner the overall championship, he was pleased to go as far as he did.

Another area title winner was Tony Eberly, Denver R2, from Cloister FFA of Ephrata High School, who showed the middleweight reserve champion.

Flood waters couldn't stop this exhibitor

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG — In the draft horse competition, there was one exhibitor whose horses came close to not making it to the competition this year or any year in the future, for that matter, for they were involved in the flood waters that invaded Cambria County this past Summer.

Harry J. Wright, Summerhill, who showed the reserve champion Percheron stallion and the first place two year old mare in this year's Farm Show, related how the floodwaters covered his 26 acre farm located 16 miles east of Johnstown.

He spoke of the little creek located on the side of the hill at the edge of his farm. On the night preceding the flood, he said, as usual he brought the eight horses into the stable to be fed. But, because of the heavy rain, he didn't let them out into the pasture right away. But finally about 10:30 p.m., he put all but one of them back on the hill for the night. One mare stayed in the barn.

He added that the Collie dog tied by the stable barked furiously as he went by, but he couldn't figure out why because nothing seemed wrong. His Dalmation, which was afraid of the thunder, stuck close by his side, and followed him into the house. Because of its fear, he put it into the basement before he went to bed.

Awakened around 5:30 a.m., he was amazed to see water surrounding the house and covering most of the farm's lower lying area. Quickly checking the basement, he found the Dalmation huddled on the top step of the cellerway, standing in about four inches of water. The Collie outside had drowned.

In the stable the mare left inside was standing in water halfway up her neck. Wright noted that if the water sould have been one foot higher, the horse would not have been able to survive. When he and his sons could get into the stable to rescue her, the water was still up to her stomach, and the mare was too terrified to move.

Total losses of equipment and damages of his property, Wright estimates at between $35,000 and $40,000. His new 1977 cattle truck was completely submerged as was his 1974 model pickup truck. A camping trailer was floating in the yard for awhile but a fence kept it from being swept away. Extensive damage was done in his butchering shop as well as in his basement, where among other things, a freezer with a fresh side of beef in it, was upset. Wright also owns two Weber wagons which were damaged by the high waters.

Wright has been in the Percheron business for about six years, mainly because he enjoys showing the animals. The 63-year flood veteran was raised on a farm that had Percheron horses and he uses his animals for showing, parades, as well as work on the farm including hay making and manure hauling.

He is the only draft horse exhibitor from Cambria County at the Farm Show and he wishes that the Cambria County Fair would reinstate the draft horse competition in its program. "There's just something about draft horses that no other horses have," he explained. "People just love to watch them, whether they're standing still or moving. I think something is missing in not including them in the fair."

Besides being in show competition, Wright has also had the distinction of having a team of his Percherons pull the Pa. Bicentennial Wagon at the Cambria County Fair in 1976.

Already looking forward to next year's competition at the Farm Show, Wright spoke about bringing more horses next year and entering more classes. "I've got a young stallion that is even better than this one," he added. "I'm anxious to see what he will do."

Harry J. Wright, Summerhill, shows his two year old mare, Commander's Hanna, which placed first in her class.

reaching a climax when the various class champions are called into the ring for final judging.

Dr. David Hawkins, associate professor of animal husbandry at Michigan State University, judged the show for the second consecutive year. As many other judges have done before him, he looked them over carefully and then walked to the microphone to address the crowd which anxiously awaited his verdict. The short speech is an acknowledgement of the show's quality and the hard work exhibitors and organizers put into it. It's a ploy to stretch the anticipation for just a moment or two.

A brisk walk back into the show ring followed the short speech, and during those seconds a hush fell over the crowd. Then each mind wonders who it'll be. Many have made their choice, and afterwards they'll stand willing to defend or argue the official's decision.

Hawkins walked to the left, then turned rapidly to the right. His right hand, meanwhile, is ready to deliver the traditional slap on the rump, designating grand champion!

A quick about face brought Hawkins back to the left and the the rear of Holzhauer's steer. Hawkins' hand came down and the crowd's silence exploded into cheers. Cameramen and reporters rushed to the scene, each more eager than the other to conduct the first interview. Television camera lights beamed down on the young Lancaster Countian. There was some shoving, and possibly even more confusion. The contest was over, but the big story was just in the making.

Perhaps somewhat disappointed, the contenders for top honors faded out of the picture. Despite their efforts and achievements, they were all but forgotten. The moment of glory belonged to Brett Holzhauer.

Brett's introduction into the show ring took place last August 20 when the Northeastern Chianina Association held its annual field day at Lauxmont Farms, Wrightsville. The young man's steer placed third in his weight class that day.

Other shows followed for Brett and his Chianina-Angus crossbred, named "Snowball," strangely enough. He was grand champion at the Solanco Fair, third in the Lancaster County 4-H Beef Round-up, and fist in his weight class at the Keystone Exposition.

Holzhauer, who lives on a 117 acre farm near Holtwood, said he had some confidence for winning. It's a victory every boy thinks about when he enters an animal in the Baby Beef Contest. He knew he had a good steer, and he figured his had as good a chance as any.

Holzhauer is quick to give most of the credit to "Snowball' himself. "It's mainly him," he said, "he was a really good calf." He purchased the animal from Fred Frey, noted Lancaster County beef cattle breeder.

Weighing 1250 pounds for the Farm Show contest, "Snowball" won his weight class and stood as lightheavyweight champion. In naming him grand champion, Judge Hawkins described him "as the outstanding steer of the show; very muscular with an adequate finish to get into the choice grade. He's the kind that would be profitable for all segments of the industry."

Hawkins placed the animal over his number two steer because of the champions longer body and thicker, more muscular body.

The grand champion was born May 24, 1976 and was fed corn, oats, and Calf Manna, a product of the Carnation Company. Asked whether the animal gave him any difficulties, Brett answered "no," adding that he represented some hard work, but that it's been fun. He wants to return next year and keep right on showing.

Hawkins, in summing up the show, called it one of high quality. Readers may find his placings for the various weight classes in the following paragraphs. Home counties follow exhibitors' names.

Heavyweight Champions

1. Tim Hess, 2. Fritz Frey.

Lancaster County had four animals represented in the final round of competition, while York, and Dauphin Counties each had two, and Bumberland and Franklin Counties had one each.

In trio competition by counties, the Dauphin County group placed first, followed by Chester, Cumberland, York, and Lancaster. Red Rose steers won the heavyweight division in that contest and subsequently grand championship status. York, a second Lancaster County group, Dauphin, and Chester followed in that order.

Farm Show steers were sold yesterday afternoon, results of which became available too late for publication this week.

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Kent Shelhamer takes pleasure in congratulating the winner of the most celebrated vent of the Farm Show. Brett Holzhauer of Holtwood had the top honor this year.

Janice Kaylor had the reserve grand champion baby beef at the Farm Show. The steer, named Archie II, came close to winning it all for the 16-year old girl from Elizabethtown. Had she won, it would have been her second baby beef victory in as many years. Jim Glass of the Chianina Association was on hand to congratulate the young lady. Archie is an Angus-Chianina crossbred.

The champion trio at the Farm Show this year was owned by Brett Holzhauer, Fritz Frey and Tim Hess, all of Lancaster County.

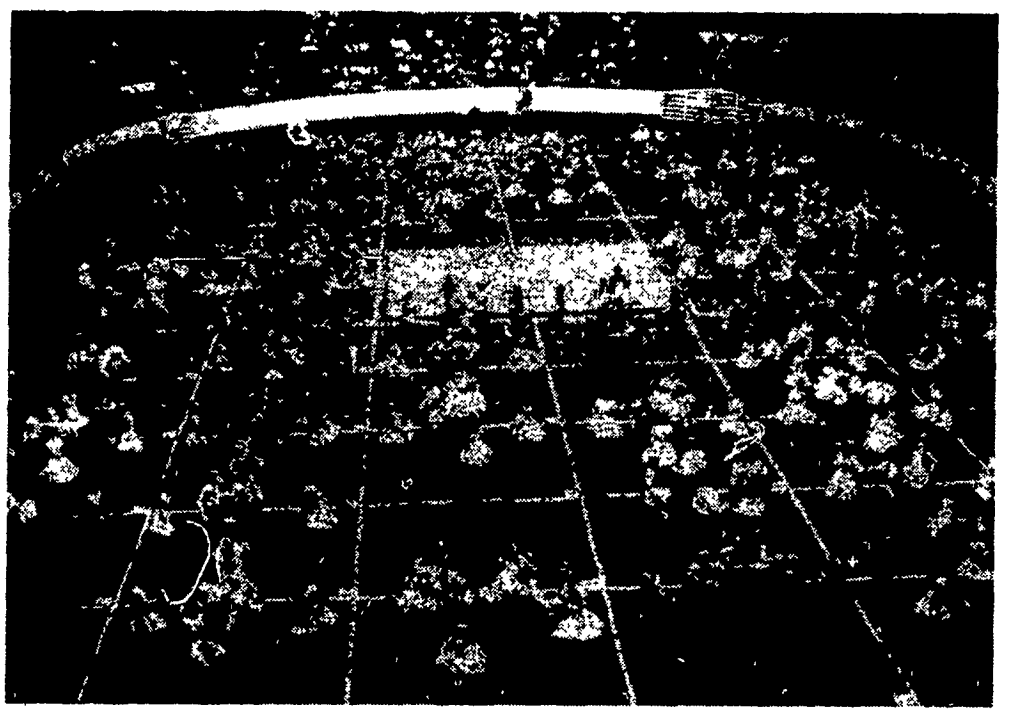
The Farm Show through the camera's eye

The youngest judge in the sheep barn this year was 4-year old Dawn Bixler. Here she's checking the wool and flesh quality of one of the sheep owned by her aunt and uncle, Brenda and Dale Fisher of Middletown. Dawn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bixler, Middletown.

While you were checking out the Farm Show, a lot of other eyes were taking a peek at you. Here are just a few of them.



Dancing across the large arena, Tuesday night, the square and folk dance contestants graced the Farm Show.

Russel Cornbower, New Freedom R1 (left) was the recipient of this year's Purebred Swine Breeder of the year award presented by the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders co-op. at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Cornbower, a Berkshire breeder, has been in the hog business for 40 years. Bestowing the award was Dennis Grumbine, Myerstown R2, president of the organization.

Ten-year old Allen Daubert of Pine Grove was a Brown Swiss exhibitor this year. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Daubert.

Christian Herr and his reserve champion Dorset ewe seem to take the Farm Show activities all in stride as another picture is taken.

Two counties dominate grain exhibits

HARRISBURG – Lehigh and Cumberland County exhibitors captured six championships in small grains judging competition at the 62nd Farm Show.

Ed Wickard Carlisle won the grand championship in oats classes; Hans Fritz of Lock Haven showed the grand champion sample of wheat; and Robert Enders of Halifax exhibited the champion barley sample.

Soybeans classes were won by Grant Grim of Dreinigsville; Japanese buckwheat classes by Clark Mantz, of New Tripoli; and Pennquad buckwheat by Donald Haas of Orefield.

David Keeschner of New Tripoli showed the winning rye sample, and Vernon E. Wickhard of Carlisle exhibited the champion timothy sample.

Five acre corn champions named

HARRISBURG – State corn growers who produced the highest yields in the machine and hand harvest divisions of the 1977 Pennsylvania 5-Acre Corn Club were honored Monday at the 62nd Farm Show.

Winners were announced by Dr. Joseph H. McGahen, Penn State Extension agronomist. The program is sponsored by the Penn State Extension Service and supported by the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growing Association, Pennsylvania Seedsmen Association, and commercial seed industry.

Winner of the shelled grain harvested class was Homer Campbell, of Elizabethville R1, with a yield of 217.3 bushels per acre. Campbell, who grew 525 acres of corn in 1977, used Pioneer Brand 3535. Plant population was 19,571 per acre in 30 inch rows.

In the ear corn harvested class, Dennis Brechbill, of Chambersburg R1, was declared champion with a yield of 212.3 bushels per acre. He grew 300 acres in 1977 using Pioneer Brand 3334A. Plant population was 21,133 per acre in 30-inch rows.

David and Richard Martin, of Volant R1, were named corn growing champions in the shelled grain harvested class over a three-year period. Their average yield during the three years was 174.5 bushels per acre.

Winner of the ear corn harvested class over a three-year period was George Stambaugh, of Newville R1, with a yield of 184.2 bushels per acre.

Second place in the 1977 shelled grain harvested class was won by David McCullough, of Sharpsville, with a yield of 216 bushels per acre. Gerald Shoop, of Milton, won third place with a yield of 190.5 bushels per acre.

There were 213 entries from 38 countries in the 1977 5-Acre Corn Club.

Kathleen Baroni, Downingtown, showed the champion Dorset ewe; David Lytle, Strawberry Hill Hampshires, New London, had the champion Hampshire ewe; and William MacCauley, III, Atglen R1, took top honors with his Suffolk ewe.

Other Lancaster Farming area winners included Christian Herr, who showed the reserve champion Dorset ewe, Sarah Lynn Brubaker, Lancaster, whose Hampshire was named reserve champion in its breed, and Tim Donough who showed his Southdown ewe to a reserve championship.

John Arrell, Jr. also showed the reserve champion Cheviot ewe, while Steve Calvert, Berlin R4, Somerset County, took both the champion and reserve champion honors with his Shrophshire ewes, Jeff Calvert, also of Somerset County, had the grand champion Southdown ewe. Gary Kwiswek showed the reserve champion Suffolk ewe.

In the showmanship classes, Kathy Baroni, of Chester County, won the 11 yr. and under class. Charla Janney, York County, placed highest in the 14 yr. and over class.

Grand champion showman came from the 12 to 14 year age class and was Wayne Hess, Conestoga R1, Lancaster County. The 14 year old youth showed a Suffolk wether market lamb. It was his first championship in showmanship in three years of competing in 4-H.

Charla Janney also won the sheep blocking contest held later in the afternoon as part of the show. Sarah Fretz, Zionsville R1, Lehigh County, placed second, and Christian Herr was third. Susan Hastings, Villanova, Delaware County, placed fourth, and Bethann Nehoda, Bucks County, took fifth.

The judge for the sheep competition was Buster Wilson, Rural Retreat, Va.

Lancaster Co. egg producer rates perfect score

HARRISBURG – Lancaster County egg producers and dealers won nine out of 12 best-of-show awards offered at the 62nd annual Pennsylvania Farm Show, Wednesday, with R.W. Sauder, Inc., Lititz, coming up with a perfect score for the second year since they began exhibiting. Lancaster County also earned the county plaque for the best display of eggs.

Nearly rounding out the best-of-show awards was Berks County who took two of the top honors.

Citations for exhibits of superior quality also went to six Lancaster County and two Berks County producers.

R.W. Sauder, Inc., Lititz, exhibited the best dozen white eggs, the best dozen eggs in the carton class and the best dozen eggs in the broken-out quality competition.

Dutchland Farms, Rheems, won best-of-show awards for five-dozen brown eggs, a dozen commercial eggs and five-dozen commercial eggs.

Nelson Breneman of Columbia R3, took top honors for his best dozen eggs in the farmer class.

The best entry in the commercial pack class was exhibited by Clay Reese Co., Inc. of 202 Seymour St.

In the junior class, the best dozen eggs was submitted by Gerald Hess of Conestoga R2.

Red Wing Farms, Fleetwood, garnered the best dozen brown eggs, and the best five-dozen brown eggs.

Lancaster and Berks County producers earning superior quality citations were Kreider Poultry Farm, Manheim; Dutchland Farms; Golden Acre Farm, Hamburg R2; R.W. Sauder, Inc.; Plain and Fancy Egg Ranch, Elizabethtown; Red Wing Farms, Fleetwood RD; Weaver Quality Eggs, Lancaster; and Clay Reese Co., Inc., Lancaster.

Lancaster County Extension Agent Jay Irwin, left, examines some of the prize-winning eggs submitted by Plain and Fancy Egg Ranch of Elizabethtown. With him are James Hess, production manager at Plain and Fancy, and Floyd Hicks, right, poultry specialist from the Penn State Extension Service.

Plain and Fancy Egg Ranch of Elizabethtown captured a total of 29 blue ribbons. Plain and Fancy dominated the egg judging on the opening day, as evidenced by the fact that they swept 26 blue ribbons out of 26 entries in the Producer Dealer Class alone.

James Hess, production manager at Plain and Fancy was on hand for judging as he remarked that the competition this year was a lot tougher than it had been in recent years, but "...we were still able to win more firsts than ever before."

Commercial Class (Dozen White) 1. Dutchland Farms; 2. R.W. Sauder; 4. Plain and Fancy Egg Ranch; 5. Kreider Poultry Farm; 6. Golden Acre Farm, Hamburg; (Brown - one dozen) 1. R.W. Sauder, Inc.; 2. Figure it for yourself.

You save money, day after day, with corn-soy and Vigortone.

Want to save money on your swine rations? When you take charge of ration content and quality, you start saving from the very first day.

To take charge of ration content, buy only what you don't grow on your own farm. Then, grind and mix the rations yourself — fresh — from pre-starter through finishing. You'll never have to worry about freshness again. Better yet, these steps alone eliminate several middle-man costs and handling fees.

To take charge of ration quality, follow Vigortone fortified corn-soy feeding programs. Vigortone swine pre-mixes assure that your rations always contain proper levels of major minerals, trace elements, vitamins, and other nutrients. In addition, corn-soy and Vigortone furnish the right level and balance of all essential amino acids.

This simple approach keeps your out-of-pocket feed costs low. What's more, it actually promotes better feed conversion for lower cost of gain.

Your figures will prove it.

Now is the time to compare.
See your Vigortone dealer soon. He's ready to compare the performance of Vigortone's low-cost swine feeding programs with any other you name.

Chester White breeder adds feather to cap

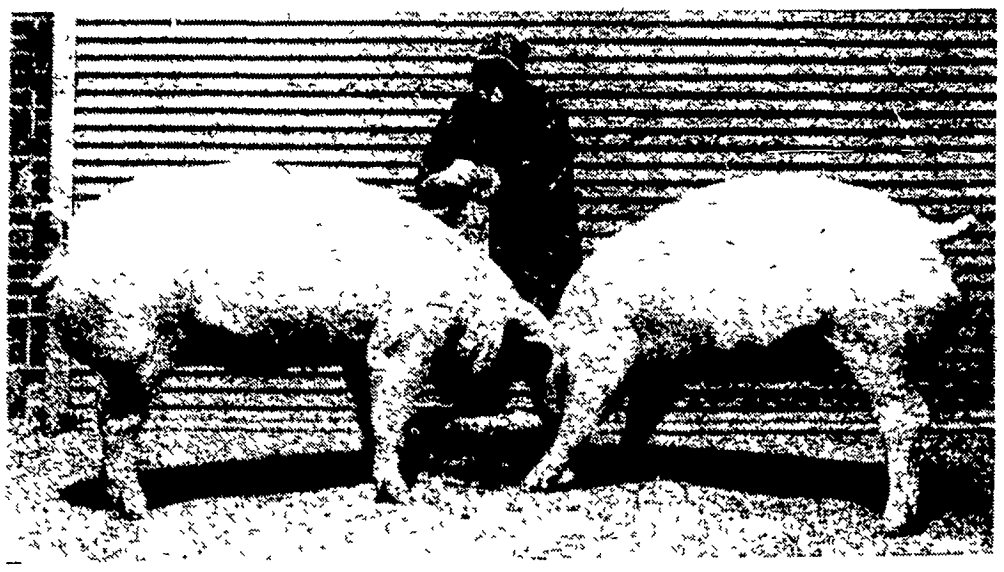
By JOANNE SPAHR

HARRISBURG – For four out of the past five years James T. Parlett, Airville R2, has shown the grand champion Chester White gilt at the State Farm Show, and this year he added another feather to his cap. Not only did this York County breeder take the grand champion animal, but he showed the reserve champion Chester White, as well, in Monday's breeding stock show.

With first place entries in the January, February, and March gilt classes, there was little doubt that Parlett would do anything but sweep the show. However, it was his second placed January gilt that actually took the reserve champion spot for him.

Parlett's grand champion gilt was sired by Super Boy, one of his top boars. According to the Chester White breeder, Super Boy sired the champion boar of the 1976 Chester White Summer Spotlight Show held in Sioux Falls, S.D., as well as the reserve champion gilt at that show. The Super Boy boar also bred the first, second, and third place boars of the Southeastern Spotlight Show held in Goldsboro, N.C.

An accomplished showman, Parlett prefers to restrict his entries to the Farm Show, the Maryland State Fair, the Keystone Livestock Exposition, and the various Chester White spotlight shows held throughout the year. At Keystone this year he showed the grand and reserve grand champion Chester White barrows as well as the grand champion crossbred. At the Maryland State Fair he has had the champion gilt for the last four or five years in a row.



Repeating past years' performances, James Parlett took both the grand and reserve grand champion Chester Whites at the Farm Show.

The next show coming up for Parlett is the 1978 Southeastern Spotlight show to be held in Georgia. He will be heading there on Saturday.

According to Parlett, the key to success in the swine breeding business is reading, listening, and staying one step ahead on the incoming trends in the business.

"You've got to have a good boar," he states, "and I more or less lucked out when we got Super Boy. He's done a real good job."

When asked to outline the four most important aspects to look for when breeding swine, he replied, "You breed for size, scale, length, and body. They are the four most important things."

Parlett's champion gilt was bred to Masterpiece, the sire to the champion barrows of the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

Window exhibit honors go to Cloister FFA

HARRISBURG – In their first Farm Show competition, the Cloister Future Farmers of America Chapter from Ephrata High School took a first placing in the vocational window exhibit contest held this week in Harrisburg.

The display, entitled "The Chicken Puts It All Together," told what was required to produce an egg and its food value.

A winner at two local fairs during the Fall, the Ephrata entry had already earned the chapter $80 before they decided to enter it in Farm Show.

The basic color scheme is bright yellow and bright blue – the FFA colors – and the exhibit features 25 live chicks. According to remarks from passers-by, these live chicks are probably the most striking aspect of the exhibit.

The chapter decided to go with the chicks mainly because other displays featured an attention-getting mechanical device, and the Cloister Chapter wanted the same benefits through a more unique avenue.

According to one of the members of the Ephrata High School junior class who helped to construct the blue ribbon winner, the first place display took a lot of work.

After initial construction for the local shows, the display was stored for three weeks. Then it was moved back to the Ephrata vo-ag shop by mid-December for touch ups.

This remodeling effort took several hours each day for the members involved and included replacing some stenciled letters, repainting backboards, and reworking a homemade scaled down barn which housed the chicks.

Then, it was hauled to Harrisburg where it promptly earned blue ribbon honors for its neat, attractive, and creative design.

According to one of the Ephrata chapter members, this year will probably be the start of a regular tradition now that they have achieved their initial success.

Since they concentrate on the various different areas of livestock, the next topic is expected to be beef.

The second place exhibit was entitled "Happy 50th Birthday" and featured a revolving Future Farmers of America birthday cake as well as literature and plaques on the FFA. The chapter entering it was Northern Lebanon High School.

In clearly printed, easy reading lettering on the backboard, comparisons between the 1928 and 1977 FFA were made.

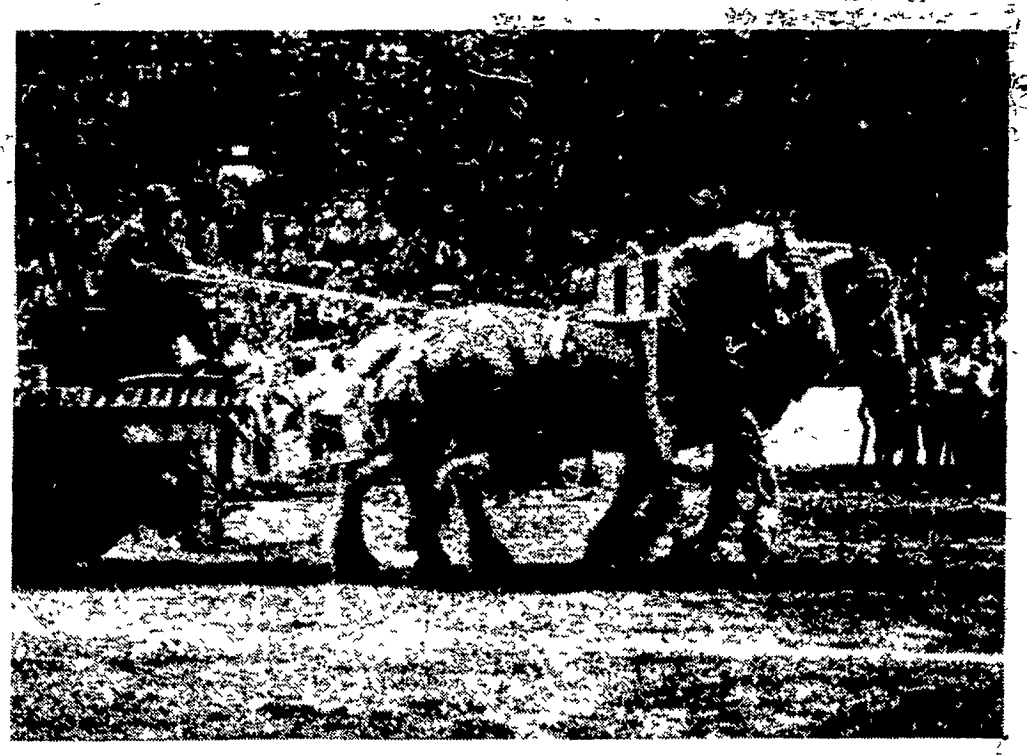
Al Dodge, Jr. from Susquehanna County, and his team of horses Pat and Bill, show how to pull the weight of 3250 lbs. in the lightweight division of the horse pulling contest.



Driving horses for 50 years, Leo Zandi, from Warren County, and his team of Prince and King, pulled 3250 lbs. to win the heavyweight class.

Strength tested in horse pulling contest

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG -- A capacity crowd was on hand at the Farm Show Wednesday evening to watch the horse pulling contest held in the large arena. Eleven teams weighing under 3200 lbs. competed in the lightweight division and twelve teams over that weight competed on the heavyweight level.

Al Dodge, Jr., from Susquehanna County, won the lightweight division, with his pair of horses pulling 3250 lbs. top weight. The two horses, Pat and Bill, having a combined weight of 3169 lbs. made the pull the required 27½ ft. their first try.

This was Dodge's third appearance at the Farm Show in the horse pulling contest. Besides working with draft horses, he also races and trains quarter horses.

Second place in the lightweight class went to the Iseman Brothers, Rural Valley, Armstrong County. His team, Tom and Jim a pair of geldings weighing 3163 lbs. pulled the 3250 lb. weight 5 ft. 4 in.

Glenn Stalker, Butler County, took third place, with his team of horses pulling 3000 lbs. 14 ft. 5 in.

In the heavyweight division, Leo Zandi, Sheffield, Warren County, captured top prize, pulling 25 lbs. easily on their first try. His team Prince and King, a pair of five year old geldings, together weigh 3800 lbs. Zandi, a veteran in horse pulling contests, claimed he had been diriving horses for over 50 years.

Second place winner in the heavyweights went to Stan Lepley, Myersdale, Somerset County, who pulled the 3250 lb. weight 19 ft. on his best try. The farmer's team consisted of Bill and Jim, a pair of eight year old chestnut geldings.

The Campbell Brothers, West Sunbury, Butler County, took third place, pulling the 3250 lbs. weight 17 ft. 3 in. Driven by Bill Patton, the team consisted of Toby and Pat, an eight year old sorrel gelding and 7 year old black gelding.

Judge for the event was Paul Wass, Indiana, Pa., with Jim Gallagher, Penn State, acting as superintendent.

Purebred, grade draft horse winners named

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG - Several breeds of draft horses were shown throughout the week of the Pa. Farm Show. Owners of the heavy breeds of horses competed in Belgium, Clydesdale, Percheron, and grade horse classes.

Charles B. Orndorff and Son, Corbly, captured nine championships in Belgian horse judging competition at the show. For many years, Orndorff entries have won the majority of championships in Farm Show Belgian competition.

H. A. Goal, of Indiana, exhibited the reserve senior champion stallion, and Herbert Frantz, of Waynesboro, Franklin County, showed the reserve junior champion stallion.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Messerschmidt and Son, of Myerstown R2, Lebanon County, exhibited the reserve senior champion mare.

Harry J. Wright, Summerhill R1, Cambria County, showed the reserve senior champion stallion.

In the grade horse classes, the first place winners were the Derroll Rhoderick family, Gettysburg R5. The Rhodericks' entrees placed first in the grade gelding or mare single class as well as the grade mated team class. In the single horse division, the Rhodericks had the top four placings in the class.

In the one hitched horse class, first place winner was Elvin Lapp, Kinzers R1. In the pair hitched horses class, Marjorie Rhoderick captured top prize. H. Messerschmidt and family, Myerstown R2, placed third, Charles Lindsay, Greencastle R3, placed fourth, and Elmer Lapp placed seventh.

Edgar Messerschmidt, Myerstown, showed "Celeste Promoter" a 7 yr. old Belgian mare to the reserve senior championship.

Martin receives Keystone Degree

HARRISBURG - Michael J. Martin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer E. Martin, Honey Brook R2, received his Keystone Farmer degree on Wednesday at the mid-Winter convention of the Future Farmers of America.

In his senior year at Pequea Valley High, he is currently serving as sentinel of Pequea Valley FFA and vice-president of Lancaster County FFA. He is a member of the National Honor Society and has been in the school chorus and drama presentations.

Martin's projects include swine breeding and dairy production. In his dairy operation, he has a Holstein cow and an Ayrshire heifer. In state dairy judging, he was the recipient of gold and silver emblems.

Martin is a member of the Weaverland Mennonite Church and youth group. He is also a bass singer with the Voices of Victory Mixed Chorus.

Michael J. Martin

His future plans include a job with Yoder's Meats, East Earl, and possible partnership with his father on their 104 acre dairy farm.

Manure feeding to be taught

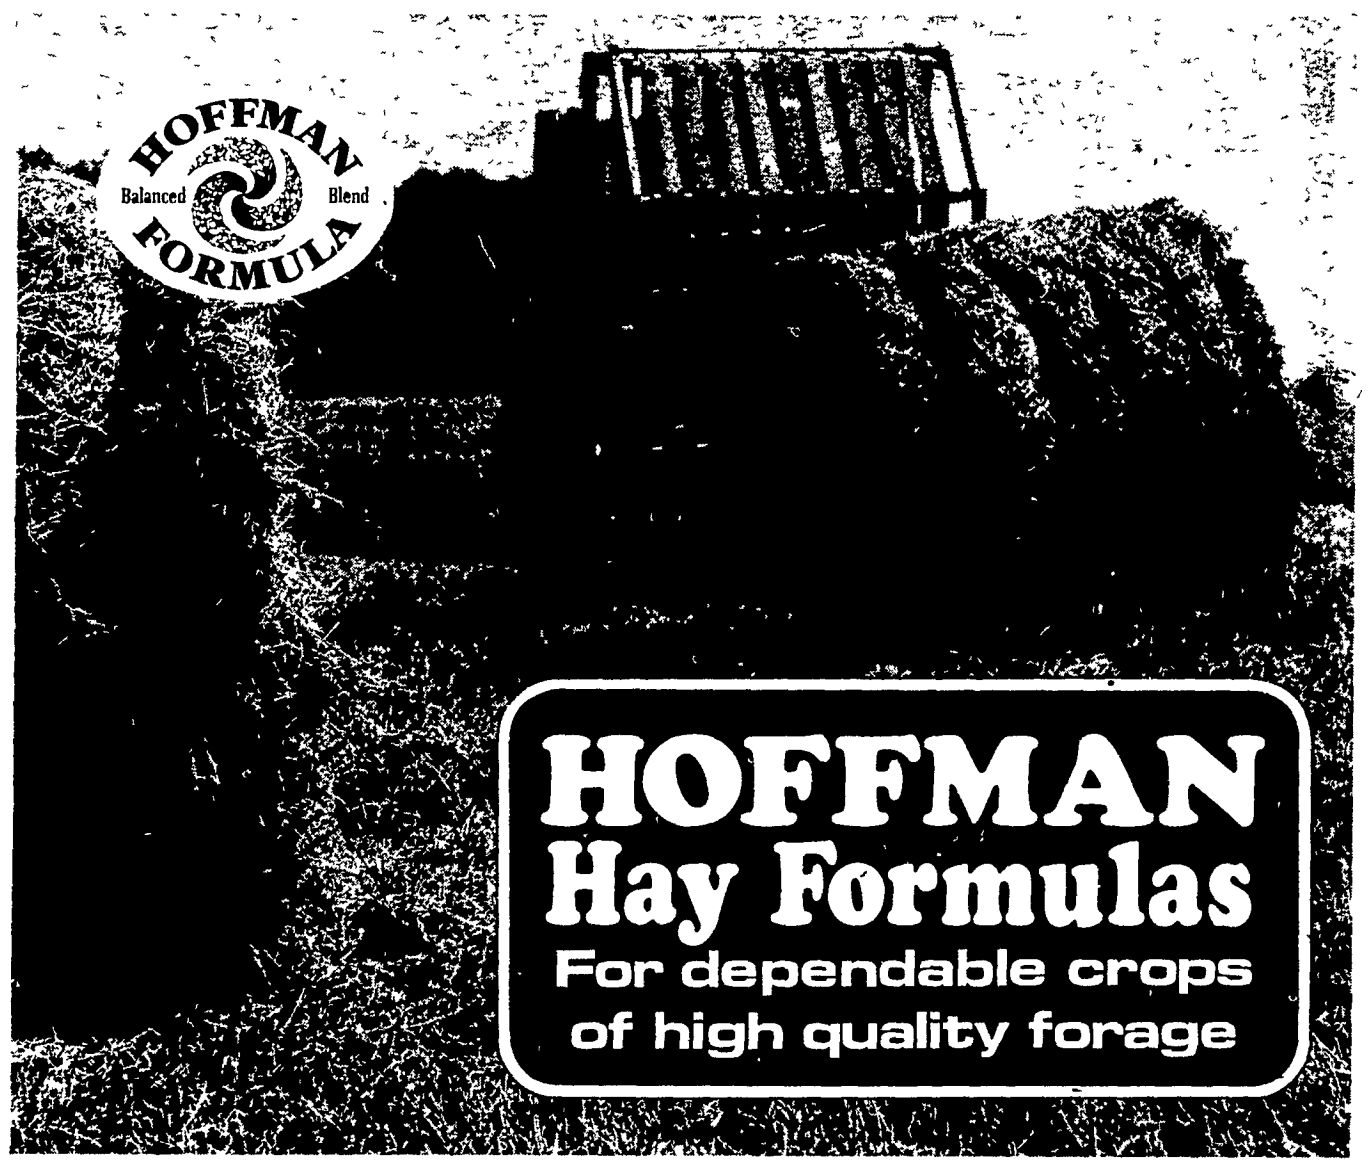
NEW HOLLAND – The Garden Spot Adult Farmer Association will sponsor an educational meeting entitled "Recycling Manure" on Jan. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the agricultural classroom of the Garden Spot High School, Route 23, New Holland. The featured speaker will be Dr. C. C. Calvert, research scientist with USDA's Research Center, Beltsville, Maryland. Dr. Calvert has been conducting entensive research ensiling poultry manure and feeding it to cattle.

LOWER ROUGHAGE COST IN 1978

Current market prices for hay have been in excess of $100.00 per ton. Paying these prices for roughage takes a serious cut into profits for dairymen. Higher cost of hay equipment and risky weather conditions make hay a necessary but expensive product. Take a good look at hay equivalent and corn silage ratio's. More corn silage in the dairy feed program will prove profitable due to high ton per acre yields. Even cost per ton if bought at harvest time is favorable. Less loss due to harvest and weather is definitely in favor of corn silage.

Fall market price of ear corn at harvest time did not show a profit - at best - break even. Storing the corn crop as high moisture ground ear corn provides excellent feed for beef or dairy. This single harvest operation has many advantages. Feed ready to use 365 days per year - eliminates weekly grinding costs - stop losses due to rodents - a more palatable feed - automated for barn or bunk feeding. Batch mixing of corn silage - haylage and high moisture ear corn with a balanced protein program is showing increases in milk and beef production. Major feed companies are strongly recommending pre-batch mixing of silage for even greater results

For more details call Ken Groff or Larry Hiestand at 717-299-3721. Adv.



Hoffman formulas are the modern, practical approach to getting bigger crops of high-quality forage. They combine and blend leading varieties of grasses and legumes to give you broad spectrum performance. Help you still make a good crop when adverse weather strikes . . . when soils or climate conditions are less than the best. Or when disease is a problem. And their built-in high yield potential really blossoms under good conditions.

Every one of the 14 Hoffman formulas is designed to produce top results for specific uses under northeastern conditions. See your Hoffman Seed Man, or write for a copy of our new catalog.

Farm strike has minimal effect on dealers

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff correspondent

YORK – Is the farmers' strike affecting area farm equipment dealers? Yes and no, but problems aren't necessarily being blamed on the strike.

"We have been affected," indicated George Smeltzer, who manages Neuhauses, Inc. of Loganville. "Farmers just aren't buying as much," he explained, adding that he felt the late Fall weather conditions, in conjunction with current low grain and livestock prices, may be a large part of the problem.

"I think a lot of it is due to the whole agriculture economic situation," Smeltzer said. "We could see it coming in early Summer already."

One of the targets of the current farm strike has been to stop purchases of machinery. Rapidly climbing costs of equipment have aggravated farmers, who hope to pressure Washington lawmakers through political clout wielded by large farm equipment manufacturing corporation.s

Most dealers contacted by Lancaster Farming agreed that the rising demands of organized labor is a prime factor behind machinery price increases. Another key reason is increased raw materials costs; and one dealership owner felt that the fast rising rates on all kinds of energy deserve a share of the blame.

Austin Strausbaugh, of Gus' Farm Equipment in Seven Valleys, agreed that sales of new machinery have been off, and worsening somewhat since the onset of the farm strike. He doesn't expect to see any machinery price declines, although companies are coming up with a variety of buying incentives, such as interest-free delayed payment periods and cash and trade-in rebates.

"I've never seen the cost of a complete machine come down; but I do remember when parts have been lowered in price," Strausbaugh recalled. "The company lowered parts prices after the price freeze was lifted the other year. They told us parts prices had been jumped because they were afraid they were going to be frozen at a level where they couldn't meet production costs."

Although he prefers not to work under governmentally controlled prices, Strausbaugh indicated that one of the "best" times he could remember was during the presidentially-imposed controls period, when farmers and dealers could figure on the cost of a certain item from one week to the next.

A spokesman for Airville Farm Service in Airville did not feel that the strike had affected their business in any way. However, inventory has been increasing with both new and used equipment sales falling off. Blaming the situation on the general trend of all costs going up, he felt that dealers need to be selling more machinery, while farmers must have higher prices to enable them to buy it.

Lancaster County equipment businesses contacted have not seen the strike affecting them in any way thus far.

"Farmers in our area haven't suffered quite as bad from the drought," figured Tom Yohe, sales manager at C.B. Hoober and Son of Intercourse. Like others, he cited labor and materials as the main villains in the cost increases.

"Business is only as bad or as good as you think it is," added Yohe. "It has definitely become much more competitive."

Customers are talking about the strike while visiting the dealership of M. M. Weaver and Sons of Leola, but that's as far as the subject has gotten yet, according to Ervin Weaver, manager.

"There's been no change in business. Our customers are quite diversified and most people just aren't going along with it," he noted. "There are a lot of incentives on buying new machinery now, and good late model tractors are always in demand."

Emerging now onto the farm machinery picture are growing numbers of imported tractors. As domestically-producted tractors continue to increase in price, dealers expect to see more of the overseas models. One dealer indicated that Deere and Company has a large installation in Germany where utility tractors are being made. The White tractor company also has two models being produced in Italy by the Fiat corporation, while all White and Massey-Ferguson combines are being manufactured in Candada, said another representative. Prices are competitive and workmanship is reported to be excellent.

"Farmers should have struck against George Meany when he interfered with grain shipments a few years ago," is one dealer's analysis of the current farm strike. Then maybe they'd be getting a decent price for their products."

Fruit winners named

HARRISBURG - The Franklin County Horticultural Society won the Gabriel Heister Award for the best collective exhibit in fruit classes at the 62nd Farm Show. The Franklin County Society has been a consistent winner at previous Farm Shows.

The State Horticultural Association Award for the best bushel of apples was won by Hausman Fruit Farm, of RD #2, Coopersburg, Lehigh County.

The best county exhibit of apples also was shown by the Franklin County Horticultural Society.

After only one visit to Farm Show last year, John Chapman came back this week to show a Dutch Valley Farm Duroc to the grand championship of that breed competition.

First time showman scores for Dutch Valley

By JOANNE SPAHR

HARRISBURG – For only having visited Farm Show once before in his entire life, John Chapman, 34, Manheim R5, did well for himself and his partner on Monday morning. That was the day Chapman navigated Dutch Valley Farms bred gilt to the championship of the Duroc breeding swine competition at Farm Show.

Chapman, who recently left behind a career as a Navy systems analyst to join forces with Mark Nestleroth on the respected Manheim-based Dutch Valley swine operation, had visited Farm Show only briefly for a sale last year. After that short contact, he came back this week and won a title Dutch Valley has been seeking for quite some time, but had been unable to attain until this year.

The champion gilt Chapman showed was a January gilt out of Hex, a $6000 boar bought by Dutch Valley from the National Duroc test station in Iowa.

The red gilt was then bred to Indy Champ, a $6400 boar which was champion at the Indiana State Fair in 1976. Dutch Valley owns Indy Champ in conjunction with William Sweigard & Son, Halifax, Pa.

According to enthusiastic swine judge Paul Parrish, Montpelier, Ohio, the champion gilt had good growth, was lean, and was well muscled with a good underline. She also was free moving.

Although he did Monday's showing, Chapman says Nestleroth is responsible for most of the breeding done on the farm. When it comes to showing, the two partners trade off, with Chapman doing the local shows and Nestleroth doing others in the West.

And, even though it wasn't that long ago that Chapman remembers working as a systems analyst, he now says that he's hooked on showing.

"I love it," he says with a good natured smile, "it's a lot of fun."

The reserve champion of the show went to Kenneth D. Fetterolf, Centre Hall R1, for his February gilt.

Lawrence Arnold, Myerstown, showed the first place March gilt.

WHAT'S NEW

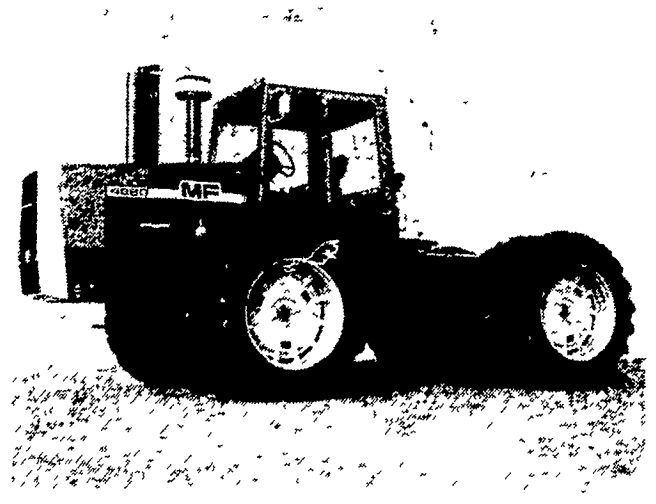
NEW FOUR-WHEEL-DRIVE TRACTORS INTRODUCED

DES MOINES, Iowa - To meet farmer demand for more powerful tractors, Massey-Ferguson will introduce a new generation of four-wheel-drive tractors in 1978. The new "4000 Series" consists of two models — the 265 engine horsepower MF 4840 and the 320 hp MF 4880.

The MF 4840 and MF 4880 tractors are powered by a Cummins 903 cu. inch V-8 diesel engine, naturally aspirated and turbocharged, respectively.

Both models offer a choice of 12-speed manual transmission or an 18-speed unit with three-speed, shift-on-the-go capability in six gear ranges. Both transmissions feature constant mesh gears for shifting ease. The tractors have an all-new four-plate, oil-cooled 14 in. clutch with an integral transmission brake.

The large cab provides high visibility, a deluxe fully adjustable swivel seat, convenient control console, instrument panel and tilt steering wheel, and full complement of malfunction warning lights. Air conditioning, heater, turn signals, and four-way flashers are standard equipment.



A new, exclusive, electronically controlled three-point-hitch will be available as an option. This new system gives positive position control, full draft control, or an infinitely variable intermix of both to allow more precise control of implements under varying field conditions. Massey-Ferguson is the first manufacturer to offer this electronic sensing system on farm tractors.

A three-spool auxiliary hydraulic valve is standard with a four-spool optional. Both valves feature pressure release detents, float position, individual spool flow controls, and single acting conversion capabilities.

Heavy duty 4-inch diameter axles with inboard planetaries permit adjustable wheel tread spacing. A long axle option allows use of axle-mounted dual wheels.

Other optional equipment includes an independent 1,000 rpm PTO and a wide swinging roller drawbar.

Routine servicing has been simplified by providing a hinged right-hand hood panel, hinged rear hood sides, and a convenient bank lubrication system for hard-to-reach fittings. Maintenance-free batteries eliminate battery servicing.

OUR BIGGEST SPREADERS ARE BIG TIME SAVERS

NEW IDEA 8½-TON SPREADER

This is a "big" spreader built to take the tremendous punishment of hauling huge loads. It's a real heavyweight . . . built to handle 8½ tons per trip. Pull it on rugged bogie axles or mount it on a truck chassis. It has all the quality features you need for spreading time-saving big loads.

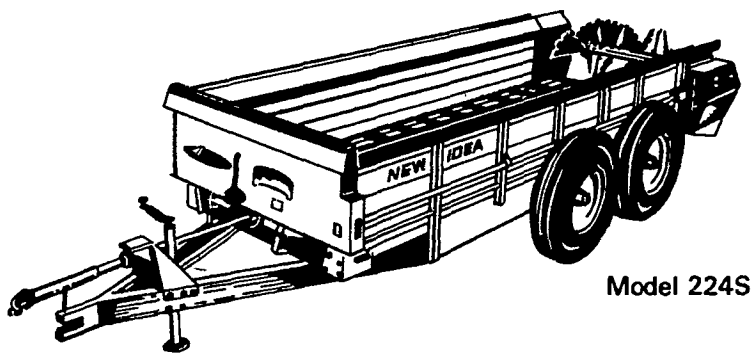
NEW IDEA 10-TON SPREADER

This giant has it all. It has all the heavyweight features it takes to handle 10 tons of manure. The conveyor chain has an exclusive "overload protection system" that automatically disconnects, then instantly resets itself so you don't have to leave the tractor seat. Options include a hydraulic endgate or pan attachment for sloppy loads, also an upper beater to level out those heaped loads.

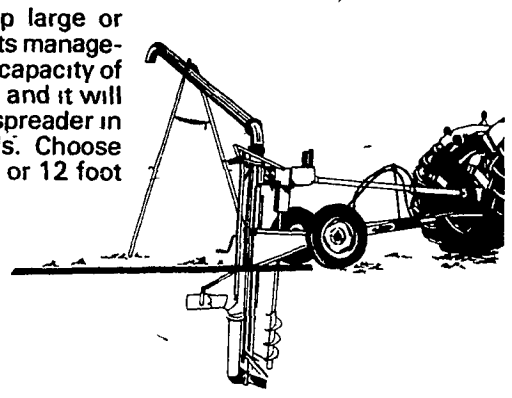


Model 224S

UNMATCHED AGITATION, NON-CLOG PERFORMANCE.

NEW IDEA AGITATOR-LOADER

It's a better way to keep large or heavily slurried manure pits manageable. It's got an agitation capacity of 3,000 gallons per minute and it will load a 1,500 gallon tank spreader in less than ninety seconds. Choose one of three sizes, 8, 10, or 12 foot to match your pit depth.



DEPENDABLE, REDUCES LABOR.

NEW IDEA MODEL 222T LIQUID SPREADER

Handle livestock manure the labor and pollution reducing way. This is the tank built like a tank for dependable service and long life.

Huff and Herrs take carcass lamb titles

David Huff, standing, showed the grand champion carcass lamb in the on-foot judging at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. Holding the lamb is David's father Carleton Huff.

By JOANNE SPAHR

HARRISBURG — In a show which puts pressure on the judge to correlate his placings both on-foot and on-rail, Judge Glenn Kean of Pennsylvania State University named a 100 pound Suffolk/Cheviot/Dorset cross-bred the grand champion carcass lamb, on-foot, of the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. That animal was exhibited by David Huff, age 11, the son of Carleton Huff, 5051 Flourtown Road, Lafayette Hill, Montgomery County.

Three days later, when on-rail judging of the same animals was completed, two sisters, Barbara and Margaret Herr, the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Herr, Narvon R2, emerged in the grand champion and reserve grand champion spotlights. Their champions had originally been placed third and fourth in the on-foot competition.

The on-foot champion was bred by Erdenheim Farm, Lafayette Hill, where young Huff's father and grandfather work as herdsman and shepherd. This was David's first grand champion carcass lamb, on-foot, although the family has shown on-foot reserve champions previously at Farm Show. In the on-rail competition, Huff's animal placed fifth.

Barbara Herr, on the other hand, moved up from third place on-foot judging with her 99 pound Suffolk to take the grand champion on-rail title. The carcass had .10 inches of fat thickness, 2.9 square inches of loin eye, area and had a 47.4 percentage of retail cuts.

Following close on her sister's heels, Margaret Herr watched as her fourth place on-foot Dorset was named reserve champion of the on-rail portion of the carcass show. Miss Herr's reserve champ recorded .12 fat thickness, 2.8 inches in loin eye area, and 46.9 per cent of retail cuts.

Keeping most of the carcass show winnings in the Herr family, 16-year-old brother Christian showed the reserve champion carcass lamb, on foot. The 105 pound Hampshire wether, fed on the Narvon R2 Nix Besser Farm, was disqualified from on-rail judging.

In the carcass lamb show, the Herrs, including one other sister, Elizabeth, collected half of the 10 ribbons awarded in the two-class on-foot show, and took the top honors in the on-rail division.

In the last seven years, the Herr family has had the champion or reserve champion, or both, in the on-rail part of the event, although they have won the on-foot classification only one year.

NFO meeting slated

QUAKERTOWN – The members of the Bucks Co. Unit of the National Farmers Organization will hold their annual banquet on Saturday, January 21, 1978 at 7:00 p.m., at the Milford Square Fire Hall, Milford Square, (two miles west of Quakertown, just off Rt. 663). The speaker of the evening will be Mrs. Anita Maxwell, Newport, N.Y.

Mrs. Maxwell and her husband own and operate a large dairy farm and are the parents of eleven children.

Mrs. Maxwell is the speaker and producer of a weekly farm news radio program. She is the editor of the New York state NFO newsletter, "The Farmers Freedom Press". The Governor of New York recently appointed her to his Commission on Agriculture. Mrs. Maxwell was the first woman to be elected to the National Board of Directors of NFO.

Tickets for the family-style dinner are $5 each, and can be purchased from any Bucks Co. NFO member, or by calling Bill Garges (348-5514); Raymond Gross (766-8785) or Web Singer (346-7749).

Photographers are welcome after 6:30 that evening or by appointment.

Top potato judges named

HARRISBURG – Lycoming County's 4-H potato judging team captured the championship in the 4-H Potato Grading and Identification Contest held at the 62nd Farm Show on Thursday. The team consisted of three sisters, Paula, Marian, and Susan Eck, of Muncy R3, and Lois Berger, of Muncy R4.

The Lycoming team was coached by Ralph Styer, also from Muncy, grandfather of the Eck sisters.

The contest's high individual judge was Phil Risser, of Leola R1, Lancaster County, which had the second place team. Lehigh County judges placed third.

Poultry disease prevention set

HARRISBURG -- In response to recent outbreaks of Laryngotracheitis (LT) throughout the state, Pennsylvania's Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer recently announced a recommended LT prevention program for poultrymen.

Shelhamer said that LT is a virus disease of poultry flocks which results in death losses of from five to 70 per cent. "It is essential that the Bureau of Animal Industry be notified of the occurrence of the disease so that we can take steps to prevent repeats and spread to other farms.

"Recent inquiries and examinations of the current outbreaks of LT in Pennsylvania have pointed to several important reasons for the continued spread of this disease," he said. "Much of the problems seem to be related to the existence of normal looking survivor LT carrier chickens in many small flocks. Other problems may be due to poor sanitary precaustions and poor control of rats, mice and wild birds."

Most of the recent cases have been in southeastern Pennsylvania, but scattered cases have been detected in northeastern and western regions of the state. All types of chicken flocks have been affected, large and small, meat and egg flocks.

As a final note, Shelhamer said, "LT carrier birds will be around in backyard flocks for many years to come. Stay security conscious and stick with the prevention program through 1979 and beyond."

John Arrell, Jr. showed the champion Cheviot ewe.

• York Countians top Angus show

By JOANNE SPAHR

HARRISBURG – York County Angus breeders swept their show on Wednesday morning in the Farm Show complex. For the second consecutive year,

Edlyn Rishel's Farm, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rishel, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. York, took the grand champion Angus female at the state Farm Show. Winning the grand champion [illegible] honors of the breeding stock show was South Branch Farms, York R8.

Rishel's champion, Edlyn's Black Jestress, was a junior heifer calf and the youngest animal in the show. Her sire, Ankonian Dynamo was a previous national champion who has sired numerous national champs.

Along with the grand champion, the Rishels also showed the intermediate and junior champion females. The intermediate champion was a maternal sister to Edlyn's Black Jestress, and the junior champ was sired by Northern Prospector 14, a syndicate-owned $42,000 bull held jointly with American Breeders Service. Reserve intermediate champion female went to Thomas Baum, Elizabethtown.

The grand champion Angus bull at show was "Sayre Dynamo 441G," also the show's senior champion. The bull's sire was Ankonian Dynamo from Sayre Farms, Phelps, N.Y. The same bull was shown at the York Fair where he was named last year's champion. According to William Holloway, farm manager, the grand champion is South Branch's main herd sire.

The other champion female slots in the Angus show went to "Minors Graham 17," a junior heifer calf shown by Mont L. Minor, Volant R2. This animal was named reserve grand champion. Cecil Teets, Freedom R1, exhibited the reserve junior champion female and the senior heifer calf champion. Minor showed the reserve senior heifer calf champion.

The reserve grand champion bull was "D. S. Marshall," exhibited by Devereux-Soliel Farm, Downingtown R1. The animal was junior calf champion.

Devereux-Soleil Farm also showed the reserve junior champion bull, "D.S. Marshall 766," and reserve calf champion, "D.S. Sport Marshall 1237."

The intermediate champion, "H.F. Marathon," was exhibited by Hunt: N and Stonylonesome Farms of Stahlstown RD1.

Erdenheim Farms of Lafayette Hill, Montgomery County, showed the reserve intermediate champion bull, "Erdenheim Lazy."

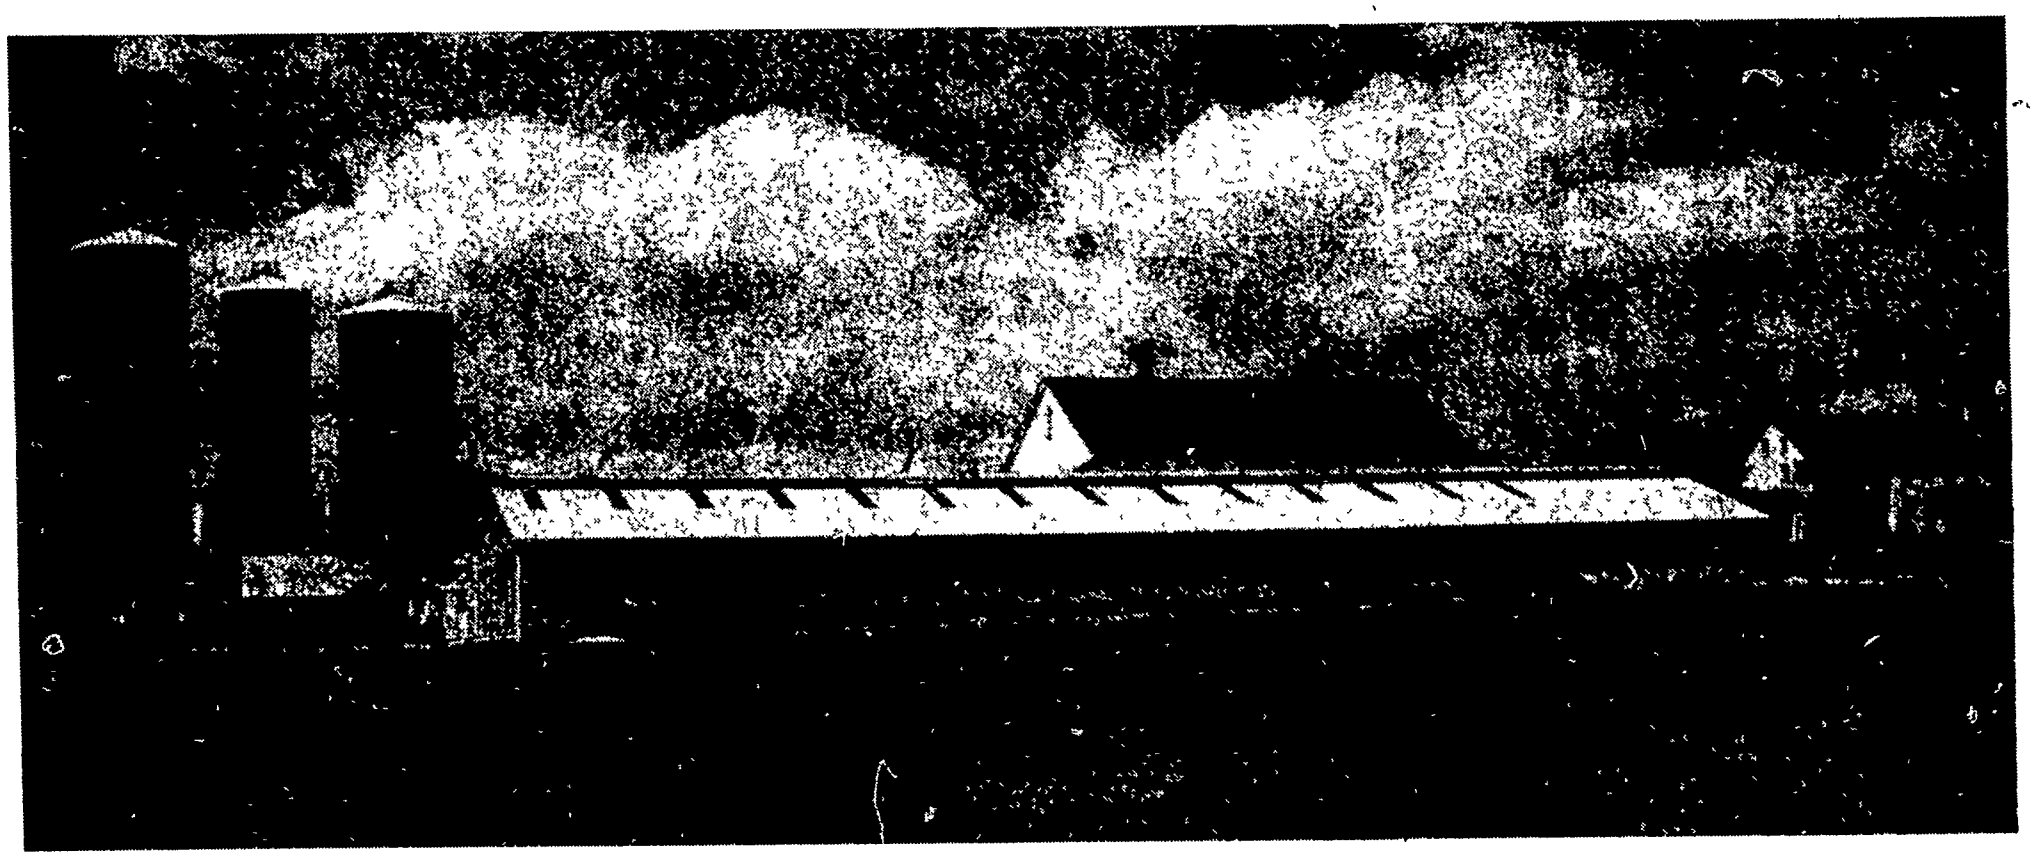
When your son comes home to farm...



you're ready

Expand up

You hoped it would work out this way. The family farm just added another family.

But, now it'll have to support two families. Maybe you can expand outward. But how easy is it going to be to buy or rent more land? And then farm it?

Or, you can expand up.

With a Harvestore® system, you expand by feeding more of what you grow. You fill at the top and feed from the bottom. There are no abrupt ration changes or unfermented feed. You harvest and store forage crops one right on top of the other.

With a Harvestore grain structure, you can expand up by harvesting earlier for reduced field losses. You go directly from the field to storage and avoid the high cost of drying, shrink and extra handling.

Read how other farm families are expanding up with the Harvestore system. Write for a new, free book...You're Ready.

Master Farmer wife says life 'not boring' on farm

By SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

"Life is not boring." Geraldine Hershey says with a smile as she discusses her family's activities in the kitchen of her home on Hossler Road just outside of Manheim.

Gerry is the wife of Donald L. Hershey, the 1978 Master Farmer from Lancaster County, one of just three in the state named to the honor. The Hersheys have three children, and to Gerry this is her most important job. She enjoys being home where she is needed, and likes putting her skills to work to make a comfortable home.

The Hersheys are farming on the farm where Gerry grew up, now called Hershvale Farms, and Gerry is quick to give credit for the honor they have received to their three children: Larry, 18; Steven, 16 and Patti, 12. It is truly a family operation and each family member has tasks which make the highly diversified farming operation click.

Gerry herself is very involved in the poultry end of the farm enterprise. It is her responsibility to "gather eggs twice a day." That may not seem like much, but with 31,000 layers that amounts to quite a few eggs. The job takes 2½ to three hours, and son Steven is the regular assistant. In the morning, Gerry says, "Steve and I do it from 6:00 to 7:00 a.m. In the evening everyone helps and we usually begin at 3:00. We have the eggs done before we start milking."

So, although Gerry does not hold down a job, she does acknowledge that the responsibility of packing the eggs is really a "part-time job."

While the eggs are her primary responsibility, Gerry says that when she and Don were first married nearly 20 years ago she began doing "anything and everything" until her children were old enough to take over some of the chores. She helped with field work and carried milk for years. Despite 20 years of being around cows, Gerry says, "To me a cow is still a cow." She said she cannot distinguish one from another, although now the milking chores are handled by Don and Larry, with Steve doing the feeding of the cows and Patti feeding the calves. Patti says, "I like to feed calves."

Gerry says she feels her family is fortunate because, "The children have always been willing to help out with the work." In fact, she feels Larry really liked the idea of taking on responsibility when he was first asked to take over some of the chores as Donald became active in many community activities. She says frankly, that without the help of the children Donald could never have attended the many meetings he has over the years.

The entire Hershey family is busy - Donald in the community; the children in FFA and 4-H. However, Gerry says she has no desire to join organizations "Donald enjoys it - I don't It's great that we're opposite." Another reason she doesn't feel a need to belong to clubs: "I have more to do than I get done as it is."

As she talks about her family, however, a few involvements do begin to come forth. The family belongs to the Congregational Bible Church of Marietta. Gerry enjoys playing the piano for her own enjoyment, but adds that she plays for the Good News Club, which is an interdenominational Bible study group at Patti's school.

Her one constant joy and interest is sewing, and this summer she shared her knowledge of sewing by being a leader in the Mount Joy Community 4-H club. She said she decided to offer to help instead of just taking Patti to and from the meetings. She enjoyed working with the 4-H'ers and found that she often had more patience in explaining techniques to them than she finds at home.

Gerry has been sewing for a long time, but said she probably accomplishes more in sewing than she once did, since the children are older and her work on the farm is less demanding. She said, "I sew anything - anything, that is, that I can use a pattern for. My sewing machine is always open."

Although she has taken a course in tailoring, she said that her knowledge of sewing came mostly on her own with some encouragement from an aunt. "It comes easily to me." Gerry sews for the whole family, including her trio of men. She said she has made three leisure suits for her husband, and several for her sons. She added that she will be sorry to see leisure suits become less fashionable because she has enjoyed making them. She, of course, sews for daughter Patti, and added, "I sew most of the shirts for the family, but now I get everything approved before I make it."

Aside from her sense of accomplishment in sewing, Gerry said, "There is no doubt that it is a savings. I just won't pay the price for ready-made clothing in the store." She added that she also doesn't pay full price for the fabric she uses. She shops fabric outlets and sales, and when she sees something she likes she gets it and then figures out a use for it. Her ingenuity always comes up with something suitable for the fabric.

Donald once served as president of the Manheim Farm Show, and Gerry likes to enter her sewing in the Show. She laughingly says, "I've taken jellies," but indicates that sewing is really a more successful area for her.

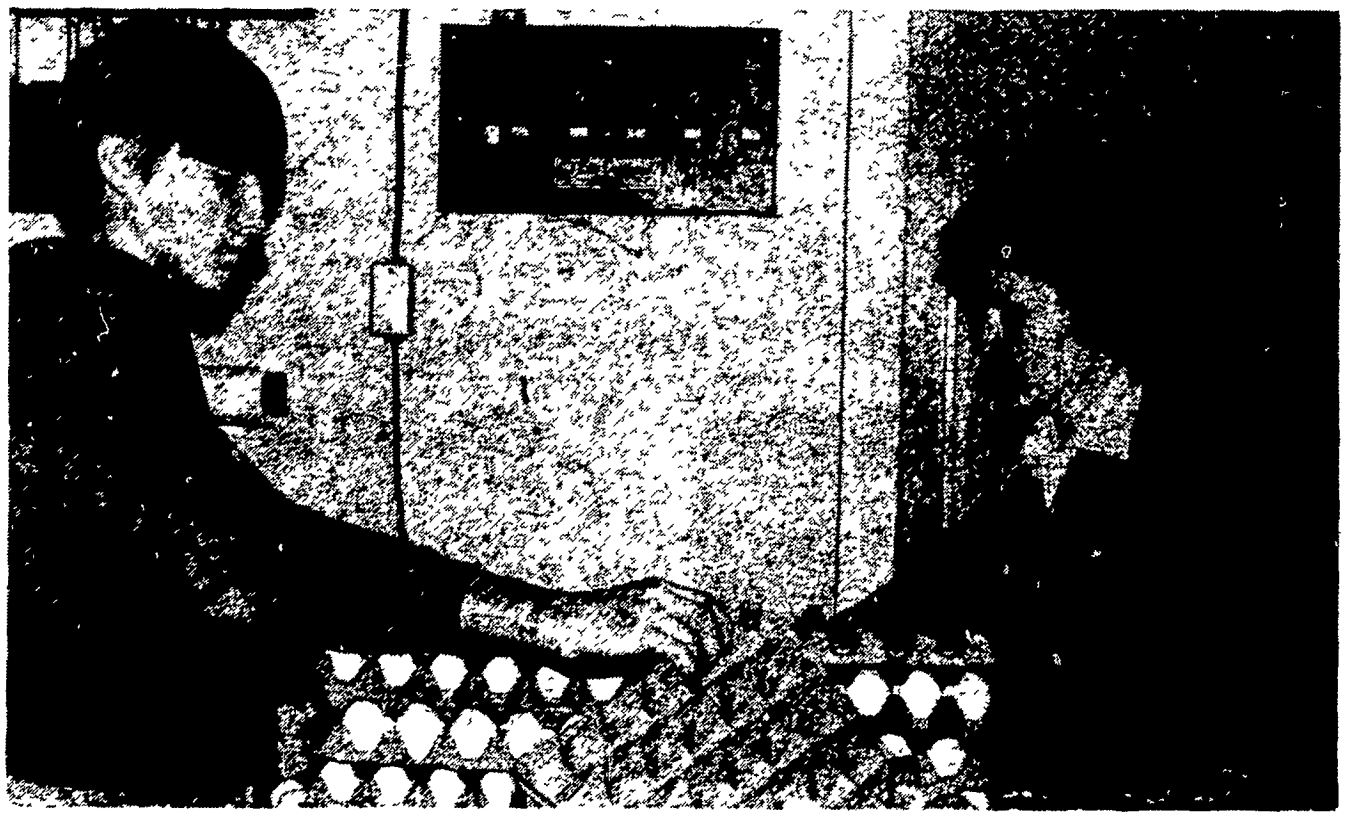
She has a large garden in the summer and does the usual canning and freezing for a large family. She recalls a new experience she had this past summer whe

(Turn to Page 43)

Finding Gerry at the sewing machine is very common. She said she sews whenever she finds the time, and makes garments for the whole family.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Gerry Hershey puts the topping on Moravian sugar cakes in the remodeled kitchen of her farm home.



Steve, 16, and Gerry pack the eggs every morning from 6:00 - 7:00, and then again in the afternoon. Gerry says she enjoys the help and the company.

Life not boring

she grew squash. "I never knew how much they produced." she said with a shake of her head. She has a lot of the squash still stored in the cool egg room, and is still finding people to share it with.

Gerry and Donald are on the committee for registration for the state Young Farmers Convention which will be held in Lancaster County. Reservations haven't yet started coming in, but Gerry says she imagines it will be a big job. "He gets me into these things," she says.

In addition to the work of being a farm wife, which in Gerry's case involves coordinating many busy schedules, Gerry also made many of the decisions about how she wanted her house remodeled. She said, "I know what I want, and each room is different."

Family activities are important to the Hersheys, and one they have been enjoying together this winter is skating on the large pond which is just outside their home. They also enjoy spending time at their Perry County cabin, but usually must take turns so someone is home to do the chores.

The whole family likes Phillies baseball games, and Gerry said that sometimes they can all go together to daytime games by pushing back milking time just a little.

Cooking and baking are fun for Gerry and she said she enjoys her plants. She has lots of healthy plants attesting to her interest and ability with them.

Despite what may still seem like a lot of activities, Gerry says, "Donald has slowed down considerably." That should make life easier around the farm but with active teenagers, schedules are still hectic. Gerry says, "We've encouraged them to be in activities. We think it is important."

It is easy to see that Gerry Hershey finds contentment in her life as a farm woman and the success her family shares is in large part due to her support.

Home on The Range

Chicken, that versatile low calorie meat, can be prepared in hundreds of delicious taste-tempting ways. Too often, however, homemakers choose to simply cook, roast, or fry it.

This week, "Home on the Range" is offering nine new ways to prepare this meat, including five international recipes. Hope you enjoy them.

And, don't forget to look at the new recipe calendar this week. If you have any contributions you would like to make to this column, send them to Lancaster Farming, "Home on the Range," Box 266, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

"Roasted Chicken Feast," above, a whole bird roasted with vegetables in the cavity, is typical of British cookery which relies on basic ingredients for flavor.

ROASTED CHICKEN FEAST

1 large broiler-fryer chicken, whole
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon pepper
4 small potatoes, quartered
4 small onions, quartered
4 carrots, quartered
4 cups water

Sprinkle outside and inside of chicken with salt and lemon pepper. Stuff vegetables in cavity of chicken, lace or pin cavity shut. Place on rack in roasting pan, breast side down. Pour two cups water in bottom of roaster. (Do not allow water to touch broiler-fryer.) Roast at 325°F. for 45 minutes. Turn breast side up, add 2 cups water to roasting pan and continue to roast for additional 45 minutes. Serves four to six.

xxx

CHICKEN 'N MUFFINS

1 broiler-fryer chicken, stewed
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup onions, chopped
2 cups fresh mushrooms, sliced
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 can (10 ounces) cream of chicken soup
6 sour dough English muffins split, buttered and heated
3 large tomatoes, sliced (12 slices)
¼ cup Parmesan cheese, grated

Remove skin and bones from stewed chicken, chop meat (three cups approximately). Melt butter in large skillet. Saute onions and mushrooms. Stir in chopped

Americans like the flavor, the economy and preparation-ease of Italian dishes, such as this colorful and delicious Italian Chicken With Mushrooms (above), served on vermicelli.

ITALIAN CHICKEN WITH MUSHROOMS

8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs
½ cup white wine
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
¼ cup celery, chopped
¼ cup onions, chopped
¼ cup green pepper, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup olive oil
½ teaspoon basil
¼ cup butter
4 tablespoons tomato paste
½ pound fresh mushrooms, finely sliced
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Mix wine, vinegar, celery onions, green pepper, garlic, olive oil and basil. Pour over chicken thighs and marinate in refrigerator overnight. Melt butter in large skillet. Remove chicken thighs from marinade and brown in hot butter. Place chicken in two quart baking dish. Stir tomato paste into marinade. Gently stir in mushrooms. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper and pour marinade over chicken thighs. Cover and bake at 350°F. for one hour. Serve on cooked vermicelli or thin spaghetti. Serves four to five.

xxx

CHICKEN MANICOTTI

8-10 broiler-fryer chicken thighs
⅓ cup olive oil
1½ cups onions, finely chopped
½ cup green pepper, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 28 oz can pear shaped tomatoes
1 6 oz. can tomato paste
2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
1½ tablespoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon oregano
1½ cups chicken broth
16 manicotti noodles
¼ cup Parmesan cheese, grated
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons sour cream
2 cups small curd cottage cheese
8 oz. Mozzarella cheese, cubed
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
Parmesan cheese

Cut thighs into one-inch cubes. Brown cubes in oil about five minutes. Remove half of the chicken and drain on paper towels. Add onion, green pepper, and garlic to remaining chicken in skillet. Saute five minutes. Press each tomato with fork. Add tomatoes with juice, tomato paste, parsley, one tablespoon salt, oregano, basil, broth and ¼ teaspoon pepper to skillet. Stir, cover and simmer one hour. Boil manicotti according to package instructions. Mix drained browned chicken cubes, ¼ cup Parmesan cheese, eggs, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, sour cream, cottage cheese and Mozzarella cheese. When manicotti is done, drain and stuff with chicken-cottage cheese mixture. To the tomato sauce, add sliced mushrooms for last five minutes of cooking. Arrange eight stuffed manicotti noodles to an oblong baking dish, spoon 1½ cups of sauce over each. Sprinkle each dish generously with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Serves 12 to 16.

Marinated in a tasty peanut butter-tomato sauce, African Barbecued Chicken (above) is oven cooked -- an Americanized version of a typical African dish.

AFRICAN BARBECUED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving parts
1 (6-ounce) can tomato paste
½ cup water
½ cup vinegar
1 small onion, minced
2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
3 tablespoons peanut butter
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
2 hard cooked eggs, sliced

Mix tomato paste, water, vinegar and minced onion. Stir in Worchestershire sauce, peanut butter, mustard, salt and cayenne pepper. Roll chicken parts in sauce, then place in two-quart casserole dish. Pour remaining sauce over chicken, cover and marinate in refrigerator at least eight hours or overnight. Bake at 325°F. for 1½ hours. Prior to serving, arrange egg slices over chicken. Serves four to six.

xxx

CHICKEN SUPERBA

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
¼ cup corn oil
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon flavor enhancer
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
3 cloves garlic, minced
3 cans (6 ounces each) tomato paste
2 cups water
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon poppy seed
1 package (8 ounces) egg noodles, cooked by package directions
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Heat corn oil in Dutch oven over medium heat. Add chicken and brown on all sides. As chicken is browning, sprinkle with salt, flavor enhancer and black pepper. Remove chicken; drain off all but 2 tablespoons pan drippings. Add garlic and saute lightly. Put chicken back in pan. Add tomato paste and water. Stir to mix well. Add parsley, bay leaf, oregano. Stir. Add mushrooms; cover and simmer about 30 minutes or until fork can be inserted

WILD RICE 'N' SUNFLOWER SEED CHICKEN BREASTS

4 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved
½ cup corn oil, divided
1 teaspoon flavor enhancer
¾ teaspoon salt
1 package (6 ounces) chicken flavored stuffing mix
½ cup wild rice
¾ cup hulled sunflower seed
1 cup water
¼ cup instant minced onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 teaspoons parsley flakes
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
¼ cup milk
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley

Pour ¼ cup of the corn oil in large shallow baking pan. Place chicken in single layer skin side up in pan; turn to coat with corn oil. Sprinkle with flavor enhancer and salt. Bake at 375°F. oven, uncovered, 15 minutes. Turn; push chicken to center of pan. Mix together remaining ¼ cup corn oil, stuffing mix, wild rice, sunflower seed, water, onion, celery and parsley flakes. Spread around chicken. Cover with foil and bake an additional ½ hour. Mix soup and milk. Pour over chicken. Place pimiento and chopped parsley around chicken but not over stuffing. Re-cover with foil. Reduce heat to 350°F. and continue to bake about 20 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Makes eight servings.

CHICKEN BREASTS A LA GENOA

2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, skinned, boned and flattened
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 eggs, well beaten
¾ cup plain bread crumbs
½ cup corn oil
1 teaspoon flavor enhancer
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
¾ cup white wine
4 slices Monterey Jack type cheese

In three separate bowls place Parmesan cheese, eggs and bread crumbs. Press chicken into cheese covering both sides. Remove and dip in egg and then into bread crumbs. Heat corn oil in fry pan over medium heat. Add chicken, sprinkle with flavor enhancer, and brown on all sides. Remove and place in single layer in baking pan. To the hot fry pan add mushrooms and wine. Saute about five minutes. Place slice of Monterey Jack type cheese on top of each chicken breast and spoon mushrooms over chicken. Add pan juices to baking pan. Bake in 325°F. oven, covered, about 30 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Garnish with lemon slices and parsley. Makes four servings.

TANZANIAN CHICKEN

1 small broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving parts
½ cup plain flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups peanut oil
2 cups chicken broth
1 cup raw white rice
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup flaked coconut
½ cup raisins
½ cup roasted salted peanuts, chopped

Heat peanut oil in large skillet over high setting. Mix flour, one teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Coat chicken completely with flour. Fry chicken parts in hot oil, turning to brown evenly for approximately 30 minutes. While chicken is frying, bring chicken broth to boiling. Stir in rice, ½ teaspoon each of salt and pepper. Cook rice approximately 20 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Stir coconut and raisins into rice and recover for five minutes over low setting. When chicken is done, remove from skillet. Drain off all peanut oil but reserve drippings. Stir cooked rice mixture into skillet with drippings, mixing ingredients thoroughly. To serve, arrange cooked rice on large platter, sprinkle with chopped peanuts, place fried chicken parts on top of rice. Garnish with fresh orange or mango slices. Serves four to six.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Co. Society 3

The Berks County Farm Women Society 3 held their annual Christmas party at Stahl's Restaurant recently. During the meeting, Mrs. Harvey Moyer, sushine chairman, announced that 15 families in the community were aided.

It was reported that Mrs. Ernest Hartline, Mrs. Mary Herzog, Mrs. Mary Hill, and Mrs. Joseph Bartholomew will attend the state Farm Women Convention.

The following officers were installed for the 1978-80 term: Mrs. LaVerne Richard, president; Mrs. Harvey Moyer, vice president; Mrs. Mary Hill, secretary; Mrs. William Renninger, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Richard Loeb, treasurer.

The next meeting of the group is January 24 at the home of Mrs. Lydia Cleaver.

Lancaster Co. Society 6

Lancaster County Farm Women Society 6 met in the home of Mrs. Harry Shonk on January 7. Twenty members attended the meeting.

Volunteers from the group are planning to entertain guests at the Conestoga View Home on February 17.

Program was presented by Twila Brubaker, dairy princess of Lancaster County, who spoke on milk products and recipes.

The next meeting of the group will be held February 4 at the home of Mrs. Emory Wolgemuth.

Lancaster Co. Society 13

A family Christmas party was held at the Ronks Fire Hall recently by Lancaster County Farm Women Society 13. New books for 1978 were handed out and new committee chairmen announced.

The following officers will assume office at the January meeting: Mrs. Gordon Reitzel, president; Mrs. Claude Miller, vice president; Mrs. William Schroeder, recording secretary; Mrs. John Denlinger, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Bomberger, Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Phares Leed, Mrs. Ben Landis, Mrs. John Denlinger, Mrs. Irvin Leaman, committee chairmen; and Mrs. Raymond Denlinger, newsreporter.

Lancaster Co. Society 14

A Christmas party was recently held by Lancaster County Farm Women Society 14 at the Hershey Farms Restaurant. Mittens and socks were brought to give to the Water Street Rescue Mission and the Salvation Army.

Ken Hussar presented the program, "A Christmas Package."

The next meeting will be January 18 at the home of Mrs. Thelma Mylin. Cancer pads will be sewn from 9:30 a.m. until noon. The afternoon will be devoted to Farm Show and State Convention reports and a presentation by Nancy Henkle, the 1977 4-H Youth Exchange student to Belgium.

York Co. Society 31

York County Farm Women Society 31 recently held their Christmas party at the Chalet Restaurant. Program for the event was Jean Yohn, from the Hitching Post, who spoke on Christmas decorations.

The next meeting of the group will be January 16, 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Cora Keefer, Dillsburg R2.

My Thoughts . . . . .

And welcome to them

By JOANNE SPAHR
Assistant Editor

Now that it's all over, I have a few thoughts to impart concerning Farm Show. My first question is, why hasn't someone invented Farm Show collision insurance for the human body? Of course, it would have to be "no fault" since you could never begin to catch the millions of culprits who ram you black and blue every second you perilously navigate through the lemming-like crowd during that infamous week in Harrisburg.

And, too, there ought to be spill insurance, ketchup insurance, and chocolate ice cream insurance so that you would feel compensated every time a total stranger uses you as a Handy Wipe for all his excess, overflowing cups and cones.

And, too, I definitely feel that there should be a major health insurance plan which all the susceptible "sickies" like myself could cash in on for that flu-infected drafty, dusty week.

And, one more thing. During lunch hour I strongly affirm that Farm Show officials should take a lesson from all regulatory bodies and use the social security number system to determine at which time each individual could buy his or her food. Or, even simpler than that, why not go by the alphabet? Anyone with a last name beginning with "A" through "C" could buy French fries at 10:30 a.m.; "D" through "G" at 10:45, and so on all the way down through the alphabet. Order. What it takes is a little order. (I decided that as I shoved and butted my way through the crowd for a milk shake the other day.)

Yes, well, it's over for another year, but the question remains — What am I going to do for frustration next week?

A. R. WOOD'S REVERSE CAGE: YOUR KEY TO HIGHER PROFIT!

THE 4-DECK REVERSE CAGE SLANT BACK SYSTEM FROM A. R. WOOD IS BUILT TO DELIVER

EXTRA NET PROFIT: UP TO 50¢ EXTRA NET PROFIT PER HEN PER YEAR!

Research has confirmed that less competition at the feed trough is one key to more eggs and more net profit. With proper management, The Northco® 4-Deck Reverse Cage Slant Back System from A. R. Wood will deliver extra net profit from the day it's installed:

Here's Why . . .

- The extra equipment costs are offset by savings in building costs (in new construction).
- There's no increase in operating cost, no extra feed.
- The Reverse Cage delivers fewer cracked eggs.
- Slant back design eliminates the need for dropping boards and dropping board scrapers.
- The Northco® Core Auger mixes the feed as it moves, to prevent feed separation.
- There's only a 2" setback per tier, so there's easy access to all levels.

Kendy's Kollumn

by Kendace Borry

This past Christmas I received a floppy blue knitted wool hat that I instantly fell in love with The result is that it rarely leaves my head but is constantly jammed on to keep the cold winter air off my ears

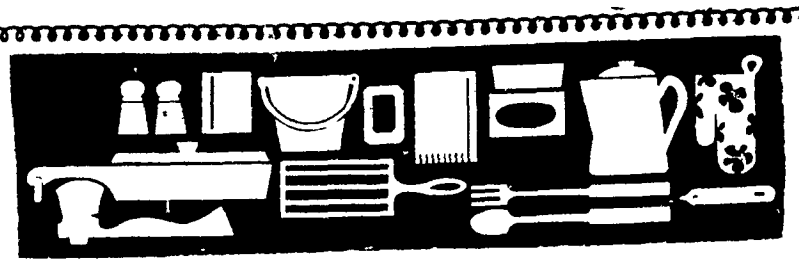
The only problem with that is that it is one of those hats that people can't seem to refuse commenting on Everybody notices the new addition to my head, checks it critically, and announces their judgement

Oh, I get the usual comments of "Where'd you get that silly thing" to "I like your hat" but it seems most people come up with something more original I have had to put up with such cracks as "What's the matter, your brains freeze?" to "Does your mother know you're outside with that thing on your head?" The worst of it is, that after I put my woolie blue headgear on, I promptly forget it's up there, so when I get these comments, it usually takes me a few minutes to figure out what they're talking about

I've always been a pushover for hats and I have a collection of them at home that ranges to my good old cowboy hat to a wide lacy bonnet I once wore in a wedding and am hoping someday I will have the opportunity to wear again I have a suede floppy hat I wear to go hiking, a scarf I wear when working in the fields, a ski cap for swooshing down the icy slopes (usually I "schplatch" more than "swoosh" down the ski trails), a feed company cap I wear when I want to feel like a professional farmer, a beret I picked up in Ireland and an odd assortment of other headgear that fills the moments when I feel the urge to wear a cap

I feel cheated that caps and hats aren't more popular and if I wasn't the self-conscious type I'd probably always be sporting one. I always notice people wearing them, and I have to admire all the ones I see in stores.

But right now, it's my blue woolie's turn to ride high on my head, and there it usually stays until I remember to take it off So if you see a girl in a restaurant, or at a meeting, or even wearing a full length evening gown, with her fuzzy blue hat on, please come over, tap me on the shoulder, and tell me it's time to take it off Otherwise it would probably be there till Spring arrives



Junior Cooking Edition

This week recipes included feature such things as pink fluff and taffy candy, as the junior cookers have sent these special food directions in to share with other cooks.

More recipes are needed for the Junior Cooking Edition so why don't you copy one of your favorite recipes and send it to: Lancaster Farming, Junior Cooking Edition, Box 266, Lititz, Pa., 17543. Be sure to list all the ingredients and include complete directions.

Coggins test provided

HARRISBURG – Kent Shelhamer, Secretary of Agriculture, has announced that personnel of the Department's Bureau of Animal Industry are conducting (cost free) Coggins tests on all exposed York County horses in response to a confirmed active case of Equine Infectious Anemia.

By testing exposed horses the Department is attempting to locate horses that may have been infected by this exposure.

"We want to use the Coggins test to trace the sources of EIA and, subsequently, to control the spread of this disease," Shelhamer declared.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We've received several seed catalogs in the mail recently and they certainly are colorful. Especially so, when one looks out the window and across snow covered fields to a woods beyond. The tendency in new plants seems to lean toward dwarf varieties in flowers and bush varieties in vegetables. The convenience of this is easily understood, as I well remember four and five foot zinnias leaning against the meadow fence.

Nowadays, you not only can buy any kind of plants but also "animals" from a garden catalog. What I mean is advertisements for earthworms — "which can be released directly into the garden without handling," or praying mantis egg cases or even ladybugs to eat other destructive insects. Each year we try new and different plants and this year will be no exception.

I've just refreshed my memory of the early years of our farming venture. And it really was a venture as there was danger of loss as well as chance for profit. You see, the first year that we began to farm with one cow, one heifer, one tractor, one plow and one wagon, we lost our barn in a fire. So in the middle of summer, we planted some cash crops. These included a field of sweetcorn, one of cabbage and another of cauliflower. There also was a patch of watermelons and canteloupes to weed and spray.

When it was time to sell these back-breaking crops, my husband attended several markets each week and got very little sleep. We also peddled potatoes and celery. Besides helping to prepare these crops for sale, I also was tending a new baby and making butter to sell.

In looking back on this busy, busy life of near poverty, I wonder how we ever managed. But gradually our herd grew and a new barn was built to house a dairy. Machinery was added over the years and sons and daughters grew strong and helped in the farm operation. However, now after almost 30 years, we are back again to having two people struggle to run a farm.

Dauphin Co. FHA take top window display

HARRISBURG -- Harrisburg High School FHA Chapter, Harrisburg, placed first and received a cash prize of $75 for their window exhibit entitled, "Help your Child Get Hooked on Books," in last week's school window exhibit contest held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The top ranking exhibit suggested ideas to help preschool children learn to enjoy and respect books.

Second prize with a stipend of $65 went to Red Lion Senior High School, Red Lion, York County. The exhibit entitled, "Beautify Homes With House Plants", showed a variety of common, easy to grow houseplants, various potting materials, and the procedure for using them in potting plants.

On exhibit entitled, "A Cornicopia of Goodies", featuring drying as a method of food preservation, placed third and received a cash prize of $55. Students of Garden Spot High School, New Holland, entered the exhibit which showed a variety of home dried foods, and the steps to follow in preparing them for processing.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

Do you ever get the feeling you've been "kept in the dark" about something?

That oft-used phrase took on new meaning for me the other day as I attended an agronomy meeting. I went, all prepared to learn about alfalfa so that someday I can helpfully tell the big farmer what he's doing wrong when supposedly green fields turn golden with dandelion and yellow rocket, or develop chronic cases of leaf-munching creepy-crawlies.

There I sat amidst the gathering of interested, knowledgable farmers, my ears forward, pen poised and a brand-spanking new tablet on which to record my newly gained learning.

But then, the speaker made an announcement that left me feeling like the fox who just lost her rabbit: "And now I have a few slides to show you..."

The whole world went pitch black. Where was my pen? Where was my carefully lined new tablet? How was I going to write down all this deluge of details? What were they trying to do to me, anyway?

Boy–I needed a "bright" idea–and fast. Maybe a flick of my Bic would help. Except that I don't smoke. And I've never owned a lighter. So much for that possibility. I did have a camera flash, but my pen wouldn't write that fast. One of those miners' hats, or the kind that cave explorers' use, might do it. Even a trouble light would be appropriate–I certainly was having trouble.

Suddenly, a bright-background slide came on the screen, shedding just enough glow on the paper to show me where I had blindly scribbled the last sentence. If enough of those kept flipping onto the screen, maybe I could at least avoid accidentally taking notes across the tabletop.

Fate was on my side. When the lights finally came back on, what appeared to be a crossbreed between shorthand and chicken scratchings was faintly readable, with a hard-working imagination. I snitched an Agronomy Guide as I left and hoped I could fake it.

Please don't let me get put in the dark again. Won't someone hurry and invent a pen with a headlight?

Nutrena Controlled Release CLS— so different, it's patented

Your cattle will like Nutrena Controlled Release CLS and you'll like the benefits behind this new development in liquid supplements. The patented process controls the release of protein-building ammonia nitrogen in the rumen compared with a conventional urea-based liquid supplement. This improves the feeding efficiency of the urea. And, the slow-down means an extra margin of safety from urea toxicity—that's important when self-feeding liquid supplement.

Nutrena Controlled Release CLS liquid supplement—a product of Cargill research. It's great for dairy herds as well as beef cattle on range, pasture, stalks, stubble or in the feedlot.

Winners named in State Sheep Breeds Show

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG — Southdowns, Hampshires, and Suffolk sheep showers from the Lancaster Farming area were the big winners at the Pa. Farm Sheep Show in Harrisburg this week. Three exhibitors, David Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brubaker, and Milton and Elizabeth Morgan each won championships within their breed.

In the Hampshire breed, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brubaker, Lancaster, took three of four of the top spots in the show, having the champion and reserve champion ewe and the reserve champion ram. They also placed first in all but one class that they entered.

Milton and Elizabeth Morgan, Lancaster, took the same honors in the Suffolk sheep breed, having the champion and reserve champion ewe, and the reserve champion ram. They also placed first in every class they entered except one.

David Huff, an 11-year old from Lafayette Hill, Montgomery County, showed the champion Southdown ram in the show. The young shower also had the champion in the carcass lamb class.

Judge for the show was Ron Guenther, Ohio State University. Commenting on the classes he judged, he related that he found the classes good, and thought it interesting to see the flocks within the state. He believes that a state farm show is a good idea, for it stimulates interest in the industry.

More results from the sheep judging follow:

Ice-free water for thirsty cows.

Your cows need to drink up to 35 gallons of water every day to keep their production up. That's why you need a reliable, rugged Ritchie Fountain.

Even in sub-zero weather, a reliable Ritchie heating system keeps water ice-free ... for pennies a day. Fountains are fully insulated to keep energy usage minimal. Big-throated, non-stick valves keep clean water flowing. Have your supplier install the size and model of Ritchie Fountain that's right for your operation.

Dear Friends,

These cold winter months make it just impossible to do any outside work. That just has to wait til spring. We know that these cold days make you want to work indoors and we don't blame you. There are probably quite a few repair jobs that you should be doing indoors anyway.

That's where we can help.

We rent all kinds of equipment for all kinds of projects. You can rent just about anything from us. Air compressors and jack hammers for ripping out concrete floors, floor grinders for removing rough spots, and many other concrete tools. We rent scaffolding and ladders, saws and drills, and just about anything else.

So, when you want to start that indoor project and need some equipment, think of us.

Roger Grout honored by dairy assn.

CAMP HILL – A. Roger Grout, professor of agricultural engineering Extension at the Pennsylvania State University, has been named recipient of the 1977 Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association Cooperative Extension Service Award of $100 and plaque "for valuable and noteworthy contributions to the state's dairy industry."

The award was presented to Grout on January 10 at the association's 107th annual meeting in Harrisburg as part of the 62nd Farm Show.

As Extension agricultural engineer, Professor Grout initiated and developed numerous educational programs for dairy farmers throughout the state. These include livestock housing, barn ventilation, farm drainage, machinery adjustment and crop drying.

One of his significant activities has involved the planning and engineering design of dairy barns, milking centers, and livestock management facilities.

During the award winner's professional career in Pennsylvania, he has provided individual assistance to over 5,600 farmers who were remodeling old barns or constructing new facilities. The estimated value of the completed structures exceeds $40 million.

In charge of the Pennsylvania Extension Plan Service, Professor Grout is responsible for the preparation of acquisition and distribution of hundreds of plans for farm structures and livestock management facilities.

Four of his plans relating to dairy herd management have been used nationwide. He served as chairman of the Northeast Plan Exchange Committee.

Currently he is working with an ad hoc group representing farm organizations, state and federal agencies to develop a better understanding of the environmental issues affecting farmers and regulatory agencies.

A native of Kennedy, N.Y., he has been a member of the Penn State Extension Service staff for 29 years. He received a bachelor of science degree from Cornell University and master of science degree from Penn State.

David Roth, president of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association, presents a distinguished service award to Penn State agricultural enginer A. Roger Grout, right. The presentation was made at the Penn Harris Motor Inn on Tuesday night.

Trees picked

HARRISBURG – In the Chrsitmas tree competition at the Pa. Farm Show, there were two Lancaster Farming area winners.

In the Colorado Blue Spruce class, Rush Shanahan, Honeybrook R2, of Chester Co., won first prize. And Gay Fad Nursery, Mohnton R1, in Berks Co., placed in two divisions, taking a second in White Spruce, and a third in Douglas Fir.

WE BUY USED EQUIPMENT

LET OUR 30 YEARS EXPERIENCE WORK FOR YOU

The Tractor Specialist sells more "up-time"

case

When the land is ready a farmer's tractor had better be ready to go That s why a Case dealer franchise just makes good common sense

As a Case dealer you re a tractor specialist Everything you do — selling servicing, parts — has one target the best in farm power You and your tractors are backed by an industry "first a sound marketing program Assured Availability It tells your customers that if, for any reason during warranty the tractor they bought from you isn't ready to go, they'll have a free replacement And Case backs you up!

Case backs you up with other strong marketing help including the Demo/Rental and Commitment to Quality programs

If the franchise is open in your territory you may also be eligible to sell and service light construction power For information on the full potential of a Case franchise in your area write or call

LLOYD GRUBB, TRACTOR SERVICE FOREMAN SAYS:

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION— IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE!

We have heard the above phrase many times and all have had the sad occasion to regret not heeding its important advice.

Frankly, in these next few weeks we have a lot of shop time available — time that in season will be at a premium.

NOW — we need work — you need your equipment in prime condition for the season —

We've got a deal for you!!

1) A Special Pre-Season check-up of your Tractor or Machinery by factory-trained service people.

2) All parts and labor at a 10% discount.

AND...3) Free pick-up and return of your Tractors or Machinery.

Offer applies to work scheduled by February 28, 1978. Won't you contact us now to schedule your tractors or machinery for this important preventive medicine?

Call (717) 733-2283 — ask for me.

WHY NOT DO IT NOW?

Farmix appealed to a supreme court, and won.

More than 10,000 hogs served on the court. And the trial lasted over four years. The verdict. Farmix swine feed concentrate was proved far superior on all counts swine performance carcass leanness cost of gain

What clinched the case for Farmix? In brief, research probed far beyond the measure of crude protein levels used by most swine feed manufacturers Rather, Master Mix Research redefined the requirements of swine for essential amino acids The objective was to proportion amino acid intake according to the hog's needs for fast efficient daily gains

Next, Master Mix evaluated the various feedstuffs to identify amino acid availability and the lowest cost combination that would deliver the required amino acid pattern

The country's highest court—market hogs themselves—bore witness to faster rates of gain Improved feed conversions Lower feed cost

Then all last year, leading swine producers weighed the evidence, and came to a unanimous decision Farmix really works It's inexpensive and versatile And helps build healthier bottom-line profits

Why not be the final judge. Give Farmix a fair trial on any grounds you choose See your Master Mix representative Or write Central Soya Domestic Feed Division, Fort Wayne, Indiana 46802

Farm museum exhibit

Farming's come a long way since 1840

By KENDACE BORRY

LANCASTER - The Pennsylvania Farm Museum of Landis Valley, Lancaster, Pa., took another exhibit to the Farm Show this year. Making the annual trek to Harrisburg has become almost a tradition, according to John Brooks, Curator of Crafts and Education, with the museum taking different themes to the agricultural show as long as anyone can remember.

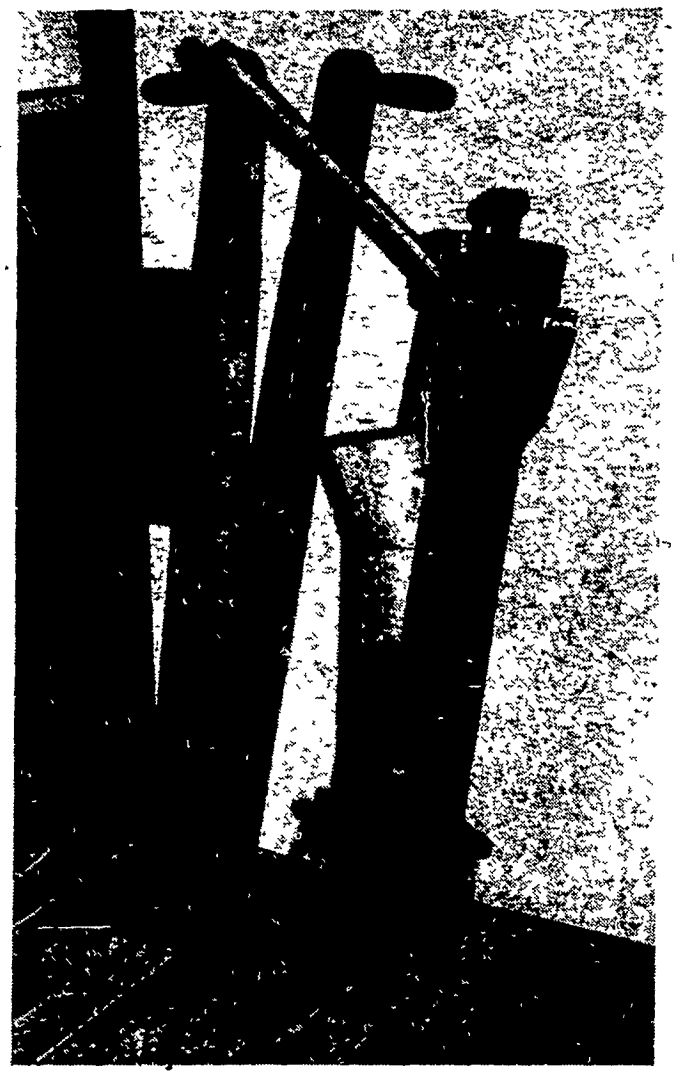
This year the theme was "planting implements", with a variety of equipment from the time period of 1840 to 1900 exhibited. Such things as a simple broadcast seeder to an early grain drill drawn by horses were at the museum's exhibit, along with several other examples the time, photographs and other items. There were also guides present to answer any questions by interested viewers. All the implements were from the collection of the Landis Valley museum.

The years from 1840 to 1900 were a significant time for agriculture, Brooks explained. The transition from the old traditional completely by hand method were slowly replaced by the simple mechanicized systems. From 1840 to 1860 was particularly important as agriculture was caught up in part of the Industrial Revolution.

There were several reasons for the changes to the mechanical from the by-hand methods in farming. There was an increased demand for food, as farmers were pressured to have bigger harvests. During this time period, there was also an increased technological capability that was applied to agriculture. The changes in farming were part of the overall change in the American economy.

Brooks believes that the museum's exhibit is popular because of the public's interest in contrasting the old implements to the modern ones. "Old-timers" respond to the display because they are reminded of memories in the past. For them, it is a kind of personal nostalgia.

Young people, only familiar with modern farm equipment, can be fascinated by the old implements, amazed at the methods used to farm 100 years ago. Each labor saving devise can be studied and the ingenuity of the inventors admired.



Two variations of single row hand corn planters are shown here. The one on the left is the older, simpler model, while the one on the right shows how technology improved the model.

The 500 foot square display was located on the concourse around the main arena on the bottom floor, near the main entrance to the Farm show. Before the Farm Show, museum personnel loaded up a truck to make the two trips necessary to have all display items and the backdrop arrive in Harrisburg. Then four or five people spent almost an entire day setting up the backdrop materials, and a good part of a second day arranging the display. Then the exhibit was ready for the 500,000 people expected the week of the Farm Show.

The rotation type broadcaster seeder which was on display was used for grains and grasses. Dating from the 1850's, it has changable discs which vary the size of the openings which the seeds fall through.

The small tobacco seeder, which dates from 1876, was the actual size used for planting that fine seed of that crop. The planter was pushed by hand, through a handle attached to the seeder.

Hand corn planters, which were used both in gardens and fields varied from a simple wooden model dating from the 1850's to a more advanced model with technical improvements. The later model on exhibit at the Farm Show was made in Florin, Pa.

The double-row corn planter seen at the display dates from the 1860's. According to an advertisement from that time, the planter was supposed to allow the farmer to plant corn as fast as he could walk.

Grain drills revoluntionized the grain industry, according to Brooks, and there was an 1869 model of one made in Lancaster at the exhibit. Mechanicized grain seeding equipment resulted in an important savings in the amount of labor required to plant crops. The drill saved labor mainly because it eliminated the need to harrow the seed. A comparison of the amount of work done by hand braodcasting to drilling shows that a farmer could hand

This more modern grain drill, dating from the 1890's, is the walking type, and shows various improvements over earlier models.

John Brooks demonstrates a double row corn planter made around 1860 which was advertised to be able to plant as fast as a farmer could walk.

Running farm show is monumental task

By DIETER KRIEG

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Farm Show, the largest event of its kind n the country, is operated on a budget of around $160,000. Unlike some other activities held at the gigantic complex, the Farm Show pays its own way. The rental and entry fees provide the money. According to Wellington Smith, Farm Show director; the huge agricultural show took in $144,000 last year for exhibit space, $25,000 for entry fees, $4,000 for poultry and livestock entry fees and a net $25,000 for parking.

It takes a lot of money and effort to run the Farm Show.

Wellington Smith

This year, for example, close to $100,000 is earmarked for prize money. More than 130 employees are directly involved in the Farm Show's operations, and dozens more pitch in the help with the production. It's a monumental task, requiring the coordinated efforts of a small army of people.

A month or so before the Farm Show opens its doors to the public, crews are busy setting up stalls and displays. A fresh coat of paint is usually in order too and preparations for food, feed, water, manure disposal, etc. have to be made.

Coordinating all these tasks are Wellington Smith and his assistant Charles Itle, who's also known as show manager throughout the year.

At the other end of the show, the city of Harrisburg has a big event to fit into its way of life. Many hotel rooms are booked a year in advance. "An awful lot of business comes to central Pennsylvania as a result of the Farm Show," says Smith, who has had previous experience as a farmer, Crawford County Fair Board treasurer, county commissioner, and real estate salesman. He joined the Farm Show staff in May of 1972.

Itle, a former county agent, joined the Farm Show in 1974, bringing with him experience in livestock and organization.

Charles Itle

Smith says the Farm Show hasn't grown in size since 1938. But that's the event's most severe problem. It can't expand because of a critical lack of space. "We have a file of about 200 commercial exhibitors who can't come; we could double our space and still have it filled," says Smith.

On the livestock and poultry side, Itle says he'd like room for 200 more head of cattle, 100 sheep, 150 horses, and 250 hogs. But there's no space. Some consideration is being given to the construction of a second beef barn, but financing it is the big question.

Penn State's College of Agriculture and the Extension Staff play a big role in the operation of the Farm Show. Most of the clerking is done by them. The Bureau of Animal Industries is also involved to check all health papers.

Judges for the Farm Show are hired after the Farm Show Commission has received a recommendation for them from cattle associations. The Commission makes final selections and contacts.

All things in order, the Farm Show provides Pennsylvania agriculturalists with a place where they can take a glance at all the latest in technology while competing for honors with their animals or produce. The shows also further education.

If there's something happening in agriculture that farmers should know about, chances are they can learn about it at the Farm Show.

Beekeepers have sweet victory

HARRISBURG — The Lancaster County Beekeepers Association placed first in the collective county honey exhibit at the 62nd Farm Show.

Earl V. Miller, of Dover, captured the top award in two divisions: best exhibit of extracted honey and specialty pack.

The individual exhibit of honey was exhibited by Ellis A. Schmidt, of Landenburg.

Winner in the molded or designed exhibit was Harold B. Greene, of 600 Franklin Street, Palmerton.

Ben Dagastin, of Sugarloaf, Luzerne County, Exhibited the best extracted honey display.

In 4-H honey displays, Brian Werkheiser, of 533 East 9th Street, Bath, showed the best extra light amber exhibit. Tim Ray, of Cranberry, placed first in the light amber division. Nathaniel Miller, Dover, exhibited the best amber honey display.

Steven Hockenberry of Richfield, displayed the first place light amber and amber extracted exhibits, among vocational honey exhibits.

New corn variety introduced

ELIZABETHTOWN — Farmers in the southeastern Pennsylvania area, will be viewing several new and unique hybrid corn varieties during the upcoming growing season, according to Luther Little, Jr., corn specialist with Wilstar Seeds of West Columbia, S.C.

Wilstar's straight single-cross hybrids reflect a new concept in growing corn. Unlike conventional hybrids whose leaves bend downward with maturing growth, these varieties have been bred so their leaves stretch upward to capture more sunlight. This physiological difference allows for mature ears, while the leaves and stalk are still green. Low moisture ears with green leaves and stalks can be a special boon to silage growers.

Careful breeding for disease and insect tolerance has shown successful results in these new hybrids. Of special significance is that seed specialist working for Wilstar have introduced a gene "HT" into the hybrids for increased tolerance to northern leaf blight.

These unique hybrids underwent three years of extensive testing in university yield check plots across the U.S. before being offered to farmers in 1975.

In a 1976 Delmarva yield test conducted in Dorchester County, Maryland, Wilstar's new variety "6663" was the top-yielding corn variety in comparison with similar maturing varieties. The test was conducted by the County Cooperative Extension Service.

Farm field trials for the past three years have also shown quality corn and high yields possible with the Wilstar hybrids.

Wilstar is a seasoned producer of quality seed, and is a division of Helena Chemical Company, a distributor of ag chemicals in the area.

Farmer's Fertilizer Works, Inc., of Elizabethtown, Pa., has been chosen as the sole distributor of the new Wilstar seed corn for the Lancaster County area. Farmer's Fertilizer will be handling two varieties of the hybrids. Both varieties "5555" a medium maturing variety, and "6663" a medium full season variety, have been especially selected for the growing conditions of this area.

During the growing season, local test plots will be available for viewing a full-range of the Wilstar hybrids.

For further information on the new hybrid seed, contact Farmer's Fertilizer at 717-367-1211.

AEB sponsors co-op egg ads

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — Through a special cooperative promotion, American Egg Board (AEB) will attempt to capitalize on the increased demand for eggs at Easter and combat the usual post-Easter slump.

The two-pronged program is targeted to both consumers and retailers and will involve cooperation with both Swift and Sara Lee.

Full page, four-color ads announcing the promotion with the slogan, "This year the eggs are free!", will break in March in Ladies' Home Journal, McCall's and Woman's Day.

Consumers who return one label each from Swift Premium Brown 'n' Serve Sausage, Sara Lee All Butter Coffee Cake and a dozen eggs will receive a coupon for a dozen eggs free.

The coupon, which will be returned four to six weeks later, will include information about egg preparation. Consumers will be using another dozen eggs and learning new uses for eggs during the post-Easter season when egg consumption is traditionally at its lowest.

A significant retailing effort will support the consumer promotion. Sara Lee and Swift sales forces will be urging retailers to place point of purchase materials in areas of the store where all three products are sold. The materials include posters announcing the promotion, tear-off pads detailing the promotion and railstrips.

This is the first of AEB's 1978 cooperative advertising ventures.

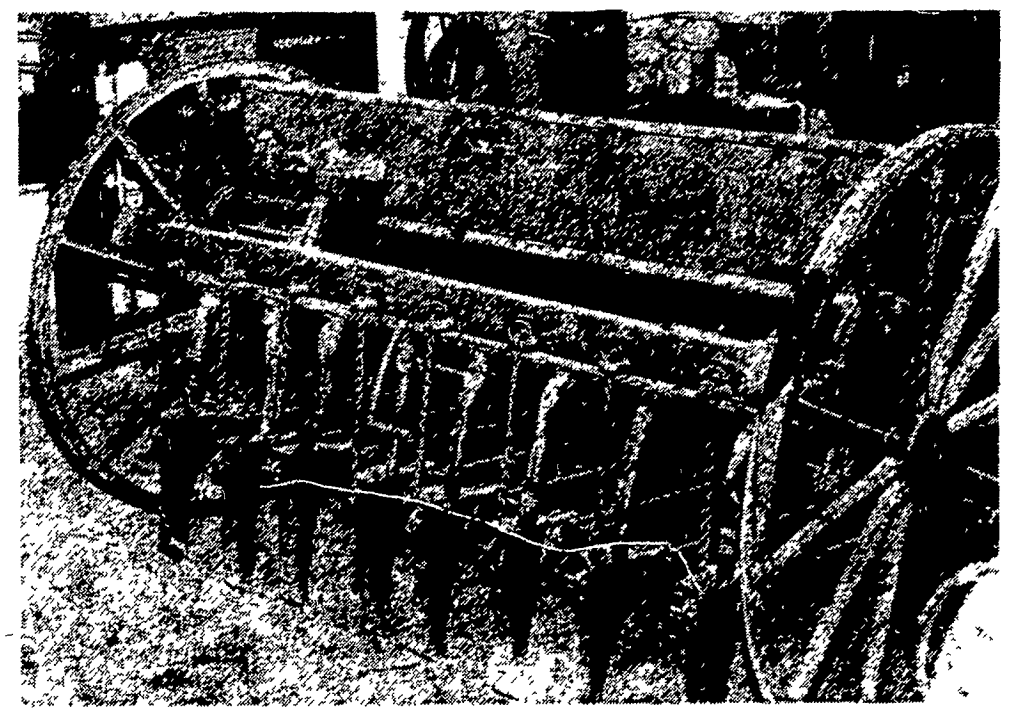
was included in the display is one from the 1890's, a walking type, used for planting in standing corn crops. The drill has five shoes, and can also fertilize. It was made in Wisconsin.

An 1840 corn planter was at the exhibit which is a recent acquisition to the Farm Museum. It is considered an early, experimental model of corn planter, being heavier than the later ones, and made entirely of wood. It is believed to have been locally made.

These plus other implements were all included in this year's display of the Pennsylvania Farm Museum exhibit at the Farm Show. Next year the Farm Museum will pick another agricultural theme and again make the trip to Harrisburg to show farming of yesteryear.

An early model of a horse drawn corn planter dates from the 1840's. Believed to be an experimental model, this all wood planter was heavier than most.



This 1860 grain drill made in Lancaster, Pa., was one of the models which helped revolutionize the grain industry.

Some Carter policies threaten rural areas, congressman says

HOUSTON, Tex. – House Minority Leader John Rhodes warned Tuesday that the water and land policies of the Carter Administration constitute "one of the great threats to prosperity in rural areas."

"It is sheer folly to destroy 75 years of water development progress in the face of a drought cycle," Rhodes said in a speech here to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The efforts to revive the 1902 law limiting interest in farms supplied by federally funded water projects to 160 acres "smacks of Big Brother government," the Arizona Congressman said. "Reality tells us that 160 acres is no longer a feasible farm size in a technological, high-production economy."

But, Rhodes saw these actions as "only the first move in a series of harassments of our farm economy" by the Carter administration. "Public lands grazing fees and restrictions are being increased. The long tradition of multiple use of public domain is being eroded by a government infested with hyper-environmentalists."

Rhodes added that, "The radicals have become the establishment" and the nation's farmers will "suffer the consequences" unless they take action.

Rhodes also noted that "while farm produce, after inflation is cranked in, is selling for depression prices," union wage demands at the processing stages are causing "consumer anguish" at the supermarket.

Noting that a loaf of bread selling for about 65 cents contains four cents worth of wheat, Rhodes said, "The price of bread rises because unions that handle its contents demand, and get, a bigger cut of its price," adding, "the middleman that everyone talks about is not just someone speculating on the Chicago commodities market."

However, the House Republican leader cautioned the farm group not to expect any relief from the 95th Congress, saying, "It was bought and paid for by Mr. (George) Meany's millons, and minions."

Observing that most members are from urban areas, Rhodes said, "it is politically popular to rail against the farmer, a convenient smoke screen to shroud the impact of incessant union benefit increases."

Rhodes said "no one begrudges workers a decent wage." But, he asked, "How long can the farmer subsidize organized unionism before our farm economy collapses?"

Techniques of alfalfa management explained

By JOYCE BUTT
Staff Correspondent

BAIR – With top-quality alfalfa hay selling at prices well over the hundred dollar mark per ton, farmers are taking a second look at the popular forage as a cash crop.

Informing growers of the latest techniques in alfalfa management and pest control was one of the purposes of the January 3 York-Adams Alfalfa and Small Grains meeting, held at the York County 4-H Center.

Penn State forage specialist, Dr. John Baylor, emphasized the importance of establishing good stands of alfalfa through the use of certified seed, liming and fertilizing according to soil tests. To maintain yield persistence over several years, the control of weeds, he stressed that insects and diseases must be carefully managed.

Dr. Baylor, as well as others on the program, noted that it is critical to avoid harvesting alfalfa stands from late August through late September. During that period, the plant is preparing the buds and rihzomes that will determine the following year's crop, as well as feed the plant through the winter dormancy stage. Studies at the University have shown that plants not distrubed during that early fall feed storage period develop larger numbers of longer and heavier buds.

In reviewing the most common disease threats to alfalfa stands, Dr. Baylor noted that bacterial wilt, once a serious problem with the forage crop, has been brought under control through improved genetic varieties carrying an imbred resistance to the wilt.

Anthracnose, a fungus infestation, becomes a problem when weather becomes hot and humid, usually about the second or third cutting stage. The disease will attack new seedlings and is characterized by dark lesions on the plant stems, straw colored stalks, and drooping necks.

Also known as Wet Foot Disease, Phytophthora Root Rot is another fungus most often seen on heavy wet soils. A blackened and rotted root system and yellowed, stunted plants are symptoms of the fungus.

Another alfalfa problem is caused by Fusarium Rott Rot, termed by Dr. Baylor as "old age disease." Most frequently seen on stands at least two to three years old, the bacteria enters the plant through physical damage to the above ground stalks, such as breakage from equipment passing over the plants.

Varieties of alfalfa seed that are anthracnose resistant, while giving good yields and stand persistence, include Saranac AR, Arc, WL311, Conestoga, Olympic and Vanguard, sometimes called Victor. Two varieties, Apollo and WL 318, have a resistance to Phytophthora, but not to anthracnose.

Dr. Baylor spoke during the afternoon session on using preservatives in forage harvesting factors that affect the quality.

According to studies, an alfalfa/grass mixture results in a better-quality feed than either red clover/grass or timothy. Proper handling of the forage is important, with Dr. Baylor stressing that no artificial drying or preservative technique can make top grade hay from old, toughened fibrous material.

Research by Penn State has shown that the chemicals are best added by nozzle at the throat of the baler, sprayed on the hay as it begins to move through the machine, for the most practical mixing through the mass.

Experimentally preserved hays were fed through ewes and received higher acceptance than did the field-cured forages. Acid threated hays compared favorably with heat-treated in quality, and dry matter losses were reduced. The acid-treatment method also resulted in about a quarter-ton greater yield recovery per acre. Dr. Baylor warned that acid treated hay does lose some color after treatment, indicating the loss of carotene from the forage. Distribution of the chemical is critical, and uniform windrows are a must for the method's best performance.

Extension agents John Swartz, Adams County, and John Smith, York County, hosts for the meeting, gave recommendations on controlling insects on alfalfa.

Stressing management as the key to alfalfa production, Smith warned growers that pesticides should not be used as a crutch, but as a carefully timed tool.

Potato leaf hopper is the insect causing the most problems in area fields, according to the agriculture agents.

The hoppers sting the plants, infecting them with a stunting virus. Once the insect has attacked, sprays are of no use, so early control of infestations is the only answer.

One recommended way to examine the alfalfa stands is through the use of a sweep net. One leaf hopper per sweep in established fields and one per two sweeps in newly-planted acreage is an indication to apply sprays. Critical insect buildup time is mid-June to early July.

Swartz noted that new stands should be carefully protected, with sprays applied at four to six inches of growth. While some new varieties of alfalfa will hold their color when infected with the virus, they still lose TDN, protein and height.

New 1978 ASCS cost sharing practices were announced, and special emphasis on vegetative cover crops. Approximately 80 per cent of the cost of lime, seed and fertilizer will be shared for establishing new cover crops that will remain for a five-year life span, plus the year of planting. Cost sharing on improvement of cover areas is also 80 per cent of the charges for lime and fertilizer on areas retained in the cover planting for five years.

Entomology winners named

HARRISBURG – Sylvia Royer of Lebanon R4, captured the championship in first-year 4-H entomology classes at the 62nd Farm Show.

Winner for second-year members was Kevin Shope of Duncansville, Blair County. Third-year winner was Julie Bower of Danville, Montour County. Nancy Mays of 1212 Nissley Road, Lancaster, captured the title for fourth-year members.

Potato honors recorded

HARRISBURG – Two Lehigh County potato exhibitors made their marks at the 62nd annual Pennsylvania State Farm Show last week.

Timothy Geiger, Schnecksville R1, won the championship in the 4-H division with the Superior variety. And, Charles Koenig, New Tripoli R1, exhibited the heaviest potato for 1978.

Don Seipt wins Cowan Award

Donald V. Seipt of Easton, Tuesday night received the 1977 Charles E. Cowan Memorial Award from the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association during ceremonies at the 62nd Farm Show.

The award, "for leadership contributing to the improvement and promotion of the Pennsylvania dairy industry," was presented to Seipt at the 107th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association. Seipt received a trophy.

The award winner has an outstanding Holstein herd that has consistently made top-notch records in Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association production testing. His current rolling herd average for 73 cows is 19,006 pounds of milk and 764 pounds of butterfat.

Seipt has bred and developed 84 - 100,000 pound cows and 17 Gold Medal Dams. He won 19 Progressive Breeders Registry Awards.

Currently he is a national director of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, and he is also a past president of the Dairy Shrine Club, Pennsylvania Holstein Association, and Pennsylvania Purebred Dairy Cattle Association, and past director of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association and Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Seipt is an approved dairy cattle judge and served as chairman of the state delegation to the National Holstein Convention.

The Charles E. Cowan Memorial Award, established three years ago, recognizes dairy farmers who have made outstanding contributions to the state's dairy industry.

Henley wins Ayrshire show

HARRISBURG – William Henley of Cochranville showing "Towerview Kellys Heather," a 3 year old, captured the grand championship in Ayrshire open class judging competition at the 62nd Farm Show. The animal also was judged the show's senior champion, and was earlier judged champion of the junior show. Young Henley captured both major banners in that event.

Reserve champion, "Lyonsville BB Bridget K." a 3 year old, was exhibited by William and Wilda Kline, of Mars, Butler County, the same cow was reserve senior champion.

The Klines showed the junior champion "K. F. Mars Amy J," a heifer calf.

J. Garrett Hunter, of West Alexander showed the reserve junior champion, "Tourgate Ayr Victorys Vickie," a heifer calf.

Towerview Farms, owned by Kennard Henley, of Cochranville won both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards.

Twelve-year old William Henley was the ringleader this year for the ribbon-winning dairy farm family from Chester County. As winner of both the junior and open Ayrshire shows, the young man continues a champion tradition which all members of the family have shared in for years. William is reported to have been seen at the end of a showhalter at the tender age of two, and he's made regular trips to the Farm Show since 1973.

Showing Ayrshires comes natural to Bill, since it's been a family affair for as long as he can remember. Bill's father, Kennard, has spent a couple decades of his life around cows and has gained national recognition with his show string.

Following are results of the open and youth classes of the Ayrshire show.

Heifer Calf

1. William and Wilda Kline, 2. Diane Maulfair, Jonestown; 3. Delaware Valley College, Doylestown; 4. Lois Mark, West Grove; 5. Delaware Valley College. Miss Maulfair won the youth class, with Miss Mark placing second.

Junior Yearling

1. Dale Maulfair, Jonestown; 2. William and Wilda Kline, 3. Michael Martin, Honey Brook. Martin won in youth competition followed by Shirley Jones of Mars.

Senior Yearling

1. Garrett Hunter, West Alexander; 2. Pattie Maulfair, Jonestown. Lois Mark won the youth class.

3 or 4 Year Old Dry Cow

1. Dale Maulfair, 2. Sharon Henley.

Aged Dry Cow

1. William and Wilda Kline, 2. Sharon Henley, In youth competition, William Henley took first place honors.

Two Year Olds

1. Kennard Henley, 2. Brenda Maulfair, 3. Diane Maulfair. In the youth class, Kennard Henley III took first, followed by Brenda Maulfair.

Three Year Olds

1. William Henley, 2. Kennard Henley. Bill Henley won the junior class.

Four Year Olds

1. Delaware Valley College, 2. Kennard Henley. Henley won in the youth class.

Aged Cow

1. William and Wilda Kline, 2. Dale Maulfair.

Bill Henley, Cochranville, got an extra prize at the Farm Show -- a calf, born in mid-week and attracting lots of curious visitors. Henley captured nearly all the blue ribbons in the Ayrshire show.

Order 4 milk $11.65 for Feb.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. – Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine recently announced a Class I milk price of $11.65 per hundredweight for February 1978. Mr. Shine said that the price is up eight cents for January and is 62 cents higher than the February 1977 price. Order No. 4 prices are announced for milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat, F.O.B. plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia, Pa. and also within 75 miles from the nearer of Washington, D.C. or Baltimore, Md. There is also a six cent direct-delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia.

Mr. Shine announced a Class II milk price of $8.95 per hundredweight for December 1977 and a butterfat differential of 11.7 cents. The Class II price is also up eight cents from the previous month.

These class prices are based on the December 1977 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $8.87 per hundredweight adjusted to a 3.5 per cent butterfat content.

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for December was $1.0154 per pound and the nonfat dry milk price was $.6794 per pound f.o.b. plants in the Chicago area.

Saucy Secrets: Avoid a floury taste in your white sauce by cooking the sauce for at least a minute after you've blended all the ingredients together. For a smooth white sauce, scald the milk beforehand and remove the four-butter mixture from direct heat while blending in the milk.

Two girls exhibited top Holsteins

By DIETER KRIEG

HARRISBURG — Two young ladies with more than a few years of show ring experiences walked off with the top honors of the Farm Show Holstein Show despite stiff competition from some of the state's best known Holstein breeders.

Christine Gitt of Littlestown and Linda Kauffman of Elizabethtown competed against their fathers and other top breeders such as J. Mowery Frey of Willow Street and Tom Schaeffer of Carlisle, as well as scores of other competitors on Tuesday, but the girls and their animals prevailed.

Winning the big prize was Christine, the 16-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gitt. Her champion in both 4-H and open competition was Amply Rag Apple Ormsby Nellie, an aged cow whose show circuit performance has been hard to beat. She has stood first at a number of shows, including the Pennsylvania Junior All-American held last Fall. She was nominated as a Junior All-Pennsylvania cow for 1977, while Miss Gitt's Junior Holstein record books have earned her distinction among junior members of the association.

Twenty-year old Linda Kauffman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kauffman, came closest to beating Adams Countian Christine Gitt. An accomplished showman and at the halter of one of the winningest cows in the state, Miss Kauffman earned the distinction of having the reserve grand champion Holstein at the Farm Show.

Miss Kauffman's prized cow is Sunapee Astronaut Ruth, an All-Pennsylvania 4-year old last year. The same cow was chosen as having the best udder in the show. She has won at county and

AFBF wants regulatory reform, farm rights

HOUSTON, Tex. -- American Farm Bureau Federation President Allan Grant Monday dramatically illustrated the need for federal regulatory reform by comparing two stacks of federal regulations.

Addressing the 59th AFBF annual meeting in Houston, Grant proposed a Farm Bureau "declaration of objectives," including a call for regulatory reform.

"Just 15 years ago, in 1963, the total output of the Federal Register for that year was about 15,000 pages. This past year, during 1977, the Federal Register published about 65,000 pages. This is more than four times as much as 15 years ago," the AFBF president emphasized.

Grant noted that every state and many municipalities have regulatory powers which also contribute to the spread of the "regulatory disease."

Congress, state legislatures and municipal bodies are to blame. "They are responsible for regulatory overkill," he said.

The AFBF president said he's convinced that the general public is more concerned about energy, deficit federal spending, labor monopoly, regulatory excesses and the need for a strong business economy – than is Congress.

The average American is worried about inflation, Grant stressed, and is more supportive of the market system than are members of Congress.

"It's time to call Congress back to where the people are," he said.

In addition to the need for regulatory reform, the AFBF president suggested several other priority objectives for Farm Bureau, including:

*Programs of public information spotlighting labor costs in getting food to consumers...

*Defense of U.S. agriculture from federal control through nationalization of water rights and other land reform proposals by EPA, OSHA, FDA, HUD, HEW, IRS, the Bureau of Reclamation and the Bureau of Land Management...

*Aggressive campaigns of citizen and member political education; member registration and member-voting in the fall House and Senate elections...

*A year-long campaign of candidate contact, stressing the need for a balanced federal budget and the need for Congress to take Washington agencies and departments in hand to assure rational environmental priorities and guidelines...

*Defeat of the proposed rewrite of the National Labor Relations Act outlined in the Senate Bill 1883...

*Full support of state right-to-work laws and campaigns to extend this right to workers not now protected...

*Consumer enlistment in an anti-inflation campaign opposing new federal spending for an unneeded Consumer "Protection" Agency... and

Wool support prices set

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of agriculture, Bob Bergland, has announced that support prices for 1977 marketings of shorn wool and mohair have been increased. The incentive price for shorn wool is increased from 72 to 99 cents per pound and the support price for mohair is changed from 80.2 cents to $1.49 per pound. Support prices for 1978 of $1.08 per pound for wool and $1.65 per pound for mohair were also announced.

The higher support prices were authorized by the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 through an amendment of the National Wool Act. The former support levels had been in effect from 1970 through 1976.

Pulled wool will continue to be supported at a level comparable to the support price for shorn wool through payments on unshorn lambs. As in the past year, shorn wool payments will be based on a percentage of each producer's returns for sales. The percentage will be that required to raise the national average price received by all producers for shorn wool up to the support price of 99 cents a pound for 1977 and $1.08 for 1978. Currently shorn wool prices are averaging 70 to 75 cents per pound.

Producers of wool and unshorn lambs should apply for 1977 incentive payments immediately. ASCS prefers to have all 1977 requests for payment filed by January 31, 1978.

Christmas trees judged

HARRISBURG – Leiden's Nursery of Patton, Cambria County, captured four first places in Christmas tree judging competition at the 62nd Farm Show. Leiden's entries won the Scotch Pine, Douglas Fir, Norway Spruce and White Spruce divisions.

Rush Shanahan, of Honey Brook, Chester County, exhibited the first place Colorado Blue Spruce; Eric Sundback of 7898 Green Twig Road, Bethesda, Md., who has a nursery in Crawford County, showed the first place tree in the general Spruce category; and Carroll's nursery of Cochranton R4, Crawford County, showed the champion Fir.

Carino Nurseries of Indiana won in the Austria Pine and White Pine competition.

Awards handed out at convention

Arnold wins top state FFA honors

HARRISBURG – Patrick Arnold, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Arnold, Schaefferstown, received the FFA State Star Agribusinessman award for 1978 – the highest agribusiness honor possible through the Pennsylvania Association of the Future Farmers of America. The award was presented at the State FFA mid-Winter convention held on Wednesday in conjunction with the 62nd annual Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Arnold is a graduate of Eastern Lebanon County High School, Myerstown. A milk tester working with his father, he tests 40 herds a month. In addition, he assists another dairy farmer with his herd.

The star agribusiness award puts Patrick in the running for additional honors later this year. He will represent Pennsylvania in September in competition for the title of star agribusinessman of the North Atlantic Region, against similar winners from the 14 northeastern states.

Winning the State Star Farmer honor for 1978 was Leon Dell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Dell, Martinsburg R2, Blair County.

Other honors handed out to individuals in Lancaster Farming's coverage area on Wednesday afternoon included the 1977 proficiency awards.

In agricultural electrification, Dean E. Weiler, Garden Spot High School, New Holland, took the top award; in agriculture mechanics, Jay H. Oberholtzer, Ephrata Area High School, Ephrata took honors; in agricultural processing, Michael E. Shelley, Middleburg High School, Middleburg; agriculture sales and service, Ronald R. Flecker, Kutztown Area High School, Kutztown; beef production, Gary Eberly, Ephrata Area High School, Ephrata; crop production, Harvey Bitler, Twin Valley High School, Elverson,; dairy production, Kevin S. Holtzinger, Bermudian Springs High School, York Springs; home and farmstead improvement, A. Kevin Kilheffer, Penn Manor High School, Millersville; livestock production, Earl E. Geib, Manheim Central High School, Manheim; soil and water management, Kerry E. Boyd, Ephrata High School; swine production, Ronald Zimmerman, Ephrata Area High School; and placement in agriculture production, David C. Nolan, Owen J. Roberts High School, Pottstown.

Patrick Arnold

For parents with three or more Keystone Farmer sons or daughters, special awards were also handed out. These Honorary Parent Awards went to Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. Bollinger, Lititz R4; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strauss, Ephrata R1; Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Nolt, New Holland R3; Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hoover, Lebanon R4; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hushon, Delta R1; and Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison, Wrightsville R1.

The parents of the 1977-1978 state officers were also honored Wednesday by a special officer parent award. From Lancaster Farming's coverage area Victor C. and Anna E. Bomgardner, Annville R3, the parents of Jay Bomgardner, eastern region vice president, were recognized, and Walter H. and Ruth A. Wenger, Jonestown R2, parents of Dennis Wenger, state sentinel, were honored.

And, from Coatesville, Pa., Buck and Doe Run Valley Farms, Inc., was given a citation for service to the Oxford FFA chapter.

Now employed as a secretary by Via Pax, the international firm which specializes in embryo transfers, Miss Kauffman purchased her champion in Vermont a little over two years ago. She has spent 10 years in 4-H and has been winning blue ribbons for most of those years. Her plans for the future are definitely inclusive of the dairy business, she told Lancaster Farming during an interview on Tuesday afternoon.

The reserve champion honor in the youth division of the Holstein show went to Paul Knight, 17, of Airville. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Knight, who, like the Gitts and Kauffmans and Freys, have quite a tradition of honors in the show ring.

Paul's entry into the show was Northcroft Ella Elevation, a beautiful animal which stood first in the 3-year old class at the Central National Holstein Show in Madison, Wis. last Fall. She was also grand champion at the Maryland State Fair. She has a 305-day first lactation record of 28,661 pounds of milk and 946 of fat. But the judge on Tuesday saw her as a reserve grand champion in the youth division only.

Despite this, young Knight

Tim Wessner, New Tripoli, showed this Landrace gilt to the championship of the Landrace breed competition.

Several competitors repeat '77 championships

By JOANNE SPAHR

HARRISBURG — Several breeding swine exhibitors kept 1977 grand championship titles in their respective family names last Monday during the various breed competitions at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Charles Bomgardner, Annville, preserved the family's winnings in Hampshire competition when his January gilt was named this year's grand champion Hampshire breeding animal. Last year his younger brother Jay earned that same title while Charles, himself, took the reserve championship.

In Landrace competition, Tim Wessner, the son of Harlan Wessner, New Tripoli, repeated his sister's 1977 performance by taking this year's grand champion with his January gilt.

And, in a duplication of last year's honors, Lazarus Brothers of Germansville R1, came back to show the grand champion Spotted Swine.

Hampshires

According to Charles Bomgardner, who operates Blue Mountain View Farms with his two brothers, Hamps do "real good" in market classes. For this reason and several other preferences, the Bomgardners raise only this breed of hog.

Their 1977 show record included the Farm Show championships, the champion market hog at the Lebanon Fair, and the reserve champion market hog at the Lebanon County 4-H roundup.

And, recently, they sent 12 animals to a South American mission farm through a conservative Mennonite Church group.

Bomgardner's top ranking gilt was "Blue Mountain Girl," sired by "Dutchman," and pasture bred to J. J. Thor. The reserve championship in the

Hampshire breed went to Earl Rabenold, Kutztown R2, for his March gilt.

Landrace

Tim Wessner's grand champion January gilt was his FFA project. Sired by RA Jack II, the animal was bred to RA Donnie I.

Wessner's 1978 gilt has a real connection to Farm Show. Several years ago, the family bought a bred gilt, raised the piglets and kept RA Jack from the litter. That boar has now returned a champion gilt to the Farm Show cycle.

The Wessner's also raised the dam of the champion gilt.

At 16 years of age, Tim has been showing for six years, after getting his start through 4-H. Last year his sister Cheryl won the top title, but this year he emerged victorious for the first time in his showing career. Although the Wessner's show mainly Landrace, they began with Poland Chinas last year.

Enthusiastic competitors, the Wessners closely watch the trends at shows, and breed for certain outstanding characteristics. They strongly believe that a gilt should have a good underline with the capacity to raise at least 12 to 14 pigs on an average.

They like the Landrace breed because of its ability to raise large litters.

Spotted Swine

Although they have only been raising Spotted Swine for the past three years, the Lazarus brothers from Germansville have an impressive track record, taking the grand championship each time they have shown for the past two years. Last year they had both the champion and reserve champion in Spotted Swine although they relinguished the reserve championship this year to Wendell McKissick, Slippery Rock R3, for his January gilt. The four Lehigh County brothers also raise Yorkshires and Durocs, taking the York championship four years ago, and the Duroc, three years ago.

In Monday's competition, their grand champion February gilt was sired by Amtrack and bred to R.V. 38-1. They also had the first place March gilt.

In other breed competitions, the four brothers, who farm 800 acres, came up with a first in Yorkshire March gilts.

At its peak, the partnership raises 1000 hogs in the three breeds. They will be having their own sale on February 25.

Although it was not a repeat performance, Tim Blatt, Annville R2, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay D. Blatt, showed the reserve champion Landrace animal. Although relatively young for a competitor, Blatt has been showing for at least four years now. He only began showing his own pigs two years ago, however.

Blatt's reserve champion gilt was sired by Circle H. Bruiser and was bred to B.C.Champion. The animal was one of Blatt's six hogs.

Although pleased with his winnings, Blatt pointed out that this wasn't his first major title, having taken the champion gilt at the 1977 Landrace show and sale held at the Lebanon Fairgrounds last year.

TROY, Mich. - Ford Tractor Operations built more tractors during 1977 than in any year since becoming a worldwide operation of Ford Motor Company in 1964.

The new yearly production record is 125,075 units, up 4.3 per cent from the 1976 total of 119,918, the previous modern record.

Ford's Romeo (Michigan) Tractor and Equipment Plant, one of four major assembly plants worldwide, built a record 36,168 farm and industrial tractors and wheel loaders during 1977, a 4.9 per cent increase over the 34,474 built during 1976, the plant's former record year.

Production at the Company's Basildon, England, plant totaled 47,825 in 1977, compared with 51,252 in 1976. The Antwerp, Belgium, plant produced 27,832 tractors, versus 24,781 in 1976, and the Sao Paulo, Brazil plant 8,818 units, compared with 5,172 in 1976.

The 1977 production record also includes 3,300 tractors assembled in Mexico, compared with 3,047 in 1976, and 1,132 wheel loaders and excavators built at Charleville, France, versus 1,192 in 1976.

During 1977 Ford Motor Company observed the 60th anniversary of Ford tractor production. More than 4,600,000 Ford tractors have been built since 1917 for farm, industrial and construction use.

The former Ford Tractor Division's all-time production record was set in 1948, when 154,023 units were produced, including 103,462 built in Highland Park, Mich., and 50,561 in Dagenham, England. All units produced then were small agriculture tractors. Ford now builds a broad range of farm and industrial tractors, wheel loaders and hydraulic excavators.

Rohrer takes tobacco honors for second year

HARRISBURG - Repeating last year's performance, Donald M. Rohrer, 1428 Lime Valley Road, Lancaster, took the wrapper and filler championships of the Pennsylvania State Farm Show tobacco competition on Sunday of this week. Rohrer, who exhibited all Pennlan variety leaf, had taken the same titles at the Lancaster County tobacco show four days previous.

Although the bulk of the tobacco entries at Farm Show are traditionally from Lancaster County, there is a slight difference in the judging — at Farm Show a burn test is administered whereas in Lancaster it is not.

This year judge John Yocum of Pennsylvania State University's Southeastern Field Research Laboratory near Landisville, noted that the samples did not burn as long as they had in past years with the longest lasting only about 10 seconds.

Yocum also commented that the quality of the 181 entries was good despite some evidence of shed burn and moldy tips. In comparison with the other four years he has judged, he found that this year it was "tougher to judge the upper five or six samples," since they were much closer in quality.

Yocum also said that he chose Rohrer's champion hand of 15 filler tobacco leaves mainly because of its uniform color, leaf size, good stretch, and other qualities such as resistance to disease. That hand was from the short filler class, and at the Lancaster show had placed in its division.

The grand champion wrapper came from the long wrapper class.

Rohrer, who farms about 12 acres of Pennlan and Improved Narrow Leaf varieties, also had first places in the long binder and long filler classes and fourths in short wrapper and short binder categories.

In the vocational tobacco classes, Donald Dohner of Elizabethtown R1 showed the top wrapper exhibit, a hand of Pennbel 69.

Kerry Boyd of Ephrata R5, exhibited the top hand of vocational filler tobacco, and in the 4-H Club classes, the best wrapper leaf.

Beverly Buckwalter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Buckwalter, Lititz R3, who turned 14 Saturday, had the best hand of filler in the 4-H Club event.

No championship is determined for binder tobacco.

Blair Countian wins Star Farmer award

HARRISBURG – A 17-year old Blair County youth was named FFA State Star Farmer for 1978, the highest agriculture award possible through the Pennsylvania Association of FFA. The award was presented at the State FFA Association's meeting held Wednesday in conjunction with the 62nd Annual Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Leon Dell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Dell, Martinsburg R2, received the award at the Pennsylvania FFA Association's 49th Mid-Winter Convention in the Forum of the Education Building.

Leon is a senior at Central High School. He farms 102 acres of alfalfa, corn and oats. He also has 25 Holstein cows and 20 dairy calves. While managing his farming operation, Leon finds time to keep up his other school work and takes an active part in FFA activities. He is serving as president of his local FFA Chapter.

The Star Farmer Award puts Leon in the running for additional honors later this year. He will represent Pennsylvania in September in competition for the title of Star Farmer of the North Atlantic Region against similar winners from the fourteen Northeastern States.

Competing against Leon this year for the FFA State Star Farmer title were: David B. Kraeer from Washington County, Miss Candy Barker, Potter County, and Alan Hostetter, from Lebanon County.

The Yoders win entire show

HARRISBURG -- Pinesedge Farms, of Shoemakersville, Berks County, owned by Samuel Yoder and family, captured all championships in Milking Shorthorn judging competition at the 62nd Farm Show.

Frederick Yoder, showing "Pinesedge Ceasar's Coed," a 5 year old, won the grand and senior championships.

"Pinesedge Melody," a 7 year old, exhibited by Nedra Yoder, won the reserve grand and reserve senior championships.

Wendy Yoder exhibited the reserve junior champion, "C.H. Gay Irma," a junior yearling. It all added up to Pinesedge Farms winning the premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards.

They are both members of the Northern Berks 4-H Club.

Sam Yoder, Shoemakersville, checks out a few of the 17 show animals the family brought to the Farm Show.

Fritz named superior DHIA tester

CAMP HILL – Harry Fritz, Mercersburg R4, received the 1977 Superior Supervisor Award from the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association during ceremonies at the 62nd Farm Show on Tuesday night.

The award, "for outstanding service as a DHIA supervisor in the Commonwealth," was presented to Fritz at the 107th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association. Fritz received $100 and a plaque.

Fritz, a supervisor for 29 years, currently tests 39 herds - 25 regular DHIA, eight am-pm, and six owner-sampler. Although not designated head supervisor in the county, he essentially has been serving in this capacity for a number of years.

The award recipient assisted the Franklin County DHIA board of directors in developing new fee schedules, by-laws revision, and other association activites. He served as chairman of the Central District DHIA Supervisors' Association and as vice-president of the State DHIA Association.

Fritz serves as vice-president of the Edward Parnell Ruritan Club and as elder in the United Church of Christ in Mercersburg. He is serving his first term as Peters Township tax collector.

Harry Fritz

The Superior Supervisor Award each year recognizes the accomplishments of DHIA personnel who supervise the 240,000 cows enrolled in the statewide testing program. The award was given to him during the annual meeting and banquet of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association, held here at the Penn Harris Motor Inn on Tuesday night.

WHY DON'T SOME COWS CONCEIVE?

Why do they get sick? The solution "FOLLOW NATURE" is being proven by our customers. Fortunately we have good instruction in Genesis. It doesn't say "eat drugs and chemicals". A sign in the bank says "When everything else fails, follow directions." We say Amen. Ex. 15:26.

Natural Development Co. makes some wonderful products-premixes and fertilizer. They are proving our point of following nature, putting chemicals to shame in drought areas, getting cows bred, more milk, meat and eggs on less feed and keeping calves alive. You'll hear a lot about our good Fertrell line for all livestock. In the mean time don't waste time not using them and regret later. A well bred non-breeding cow loses much money.

ALSO

Organically grown fresh corn and wheat flour. Can grind it while we talk about getting back to nature. Extra sweet carrots and juicier. In our business we learn about new, sensational and economical health products for humans, livestock, and soil. Come and learn.

Fertrell fertilizer sales triple each year. Why? One brand produces huge crops of healthy clean alfalfa without spraying which is safe to feed to high priced cows. Why chemicalize and spray and make non-breeding sick cows when the answer is simple and easy - in the Bible? By going back we'll go forward.

Foreign farm equipment examined at Farm Show

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG -- Throughout the main exhibition area of the Pa. Farm Show, there were many models of various pieces of farm equipment that farmers could closely examine and compare. Not only were American firms represented but farm equipment manufactured from foreign companies was also on hand.

With these companies in mind, Lancaster Farming surveyed farmers interested in equipment, especially tractors, in reference to comparing American companies to those across the seas.

One farmer questioned said that he liked the air cooled diesel engines offered by one import. Another important feature, he stressed was the interchangeability of parts that that line of tractors offered.

Another farmer chimed in on the conversation to add that a very big consideration in buying tractors and other equipment from outside the country is the price. He found that such equipment could be less expensive to buy. The man, who farms 200 acres, also noted that he thought such a tractor would also be cheaper to fuel.

Liking the looks of one model, one practical minded person noted that he considered maintenance a factor when buying a tractor, and he thought that the tractor he saw would be easier to fix and he could do more of the repairs himself. He also noted that these tractors seemed well-made, as if there was pride in their workmanship.

A man who was interested in buying a tractor stressed that before he would buy an imported model would consider the accessability of parts available and the closeness of a dealership. This, he believed would influence his decision greatly.

On the other hand, there were some farmers who when asked about buying imports strongly stressed that they would only buy from American name dealers. They related that they believed that there was too much foreign equipment flooding the market and that this was part of the problem with the American economy. Not only with farm equipment, they reasoned, but with all items, including cars, clothes, etc., should this be the policy.

Upon hearing these comments, though, another farmer spoke up about the fact that a lot of tractors and farm equipment pieces that are sold under the American name are actually partically or completely made in foreign ports. So, he reasoned, what really makes any difference in what a person buys? He believed that each person should examine all the choices of farm equipment available and decide which best suits his needs, then buy that machinery, no matter where it came from.

Grate bits and pieces of natural cheese to add to shredded Swiss or Cheddar to make up the amount called for in the fondue. Serve as a snack or dessert with holiday gift fruits.

Checking out the pros and cons of an imported tractor over an American model is this farmer whose son is checking out the features in the cab.

With this advice in mind, could there be a better place than the Farm Show to examine the choices in the market? That it was the place to do so, was one item that all farmers questioned could readily agree.

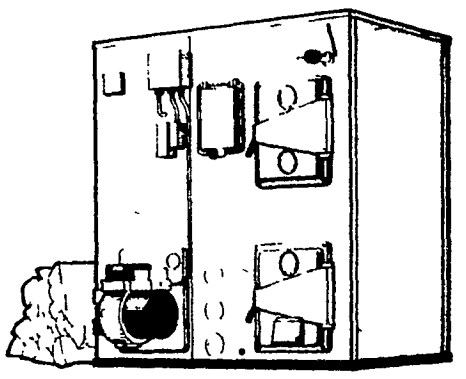
Two ways to reduce fuel costs.

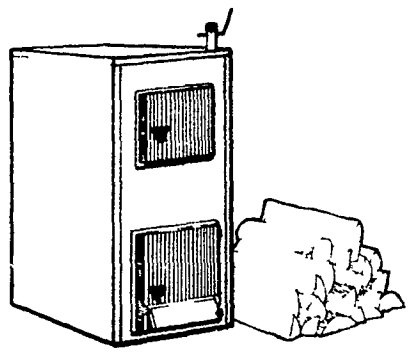
The HS Tarm Type OT is a modern, efficient multi-fuel boiler for central hot water heating systems. It's a unit which allows you to use low-cost wood in addition to electricity and oil or gas as your source of heat. When fueled with wood, it warms your home and provides plenty of hot tap water as well. Should the wood fire go untended, automatic controls will switch to another fuel, and the boiler will continue to supply all your heating and hot water needs

The Tasso A-3 is a cast iron wood-burning boiler made to work in combination with existing oil- or gas-fired hot water heating systems to give you multi-fuel economy. Used with your present boiler, it allows you to heat your whole house with wood all the time, or merely supplement your present fuel by burning wood Like the HS boiler, the Tasso A-3 offers convenient operation if the wood fire dies out, your oil or gas burner will take over automatically



The HS-Tarm Type OT

The Tasso A-3



Either the HS Tarm Type OT or the Tasso A-3 will give you reliable service while helping to protect you from fuel shortages and the high cost of commercial fuels. Choose the boiler that's right for you!

Former Russian KGB agent addresses Guernsey breeders

B. Lehman wins Sewickley Trophy

By DIETER KRIEG

CAMP HILL — A large trophy which stands nearly as tall as its recipient was given to 11-year old Barry Lehman on Tuesday. The young Guernsey showman received the prestigious honor for having had the grand champion of his breed at the Farm Show.

Known as the Sewickley Trophy, the coveted prize was the creation of a now defunct Guernsey Club that existed near Pittsburgh earlier in this century.

Barry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Lehman, York R11, will have his name inscribed on the trophy and is allowed to keep it for the next 12 months, after which it will be awarded to the next recipient. That doesn't mean that it couldn't stay in the family, however, since Barry and the other three Lehman children would be eligible for it. Last year and the year before the high honor went to Alisa Marie Fava of Scenery Hill, Washington County.

The 11-year old Lehman is thought to be the youngest recipient of the award in the trophy's 38 year history.

In addition to the big and beautiful Sewickley Trophy, Lehman was given the George W. Snyder Award, a sparkling bowl which is annually given to the champion of the Guernsey Show at the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show. That event was held at the Farm Show Complex last Fall.

Both awards were given Tuesday during the 47th annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association held at Schindler's Restaurant, here.

The banquet was the occasion for the presentation of numerous awards to Guernsey enthusiasts, but Barry is the young man who came away with the most. Like many a dairy farm boy his age, he's very much involved with the work at home. A sixth grader at Kreutz Creek Elementary School, he owns more than half a dozen Guernseys. His chores include helping with the milking, feeding dry cows and heifers, and cleaning up.

Barry's champion cow at the Farm Show and at last year's Junior Dairy Show was Honeycrest Falcon Constance, a daughter of Spring Ridge G Falcon. She won the aged cow classes in both shows and went on to become grand champion.

The Pennsylvania Junior Guernsey Breeders Association named June Beatty of Indiana and H. Thomas Kirk of Peach Bottom as the Outstanding Girl and Outstanding Boy, respectively, for 1977. Both have been very active in showing and promoting their breed.

K. D. and Else Linde, Oxford R1, were cited for the second year in a row for having had the high producing herd. The family's 1977 herd average was 14,204 pounds of milk with 663 pounds of butterfat on 48 cows. Linde, who has been recognized as an

WHY SHOULD YOU CONSIDER AGRI-SOIL CONDITIONER?

Farm Observations Show:

1. Crumbly, More Porous Soil
2. Elimination of Wet Spots in Gumbo-like Soil
3. Increased Effectiveness of Tile
4. Reduction in Amount of Water Runoff
5. Easier Tillage of Soil
6. More Uniformity in Growth and Maturity
7. Higher Yield Potential

Agri-SC soil conditioner works on the soil by breaking down its plasticity 20 per cent and increasing the permability and penetration of the water by 100 per cent. Tests to prove these results have been done by the Geological Service of Omaha, Nebraska. By using Agri-SC, the farmer should be able to save on his equipment wear, his fuel use, and the fertilizer needed on his fields.

Agri-SC soil conditioner loosens the soil so air and water can move down into the ground. Farmers across the nation are using Agri-SC to eliminate wet spots and reduce run off. Agri-SC will also increase the effectiveness of existing tile.

Linda Kauffman added yet one more laurel to her vast collection of show circuit honors. A graduate of the 4-H program, she maintains active interest in Holstein dairy cattle and is currently employed by an embryo transfer firm.

Two Girls

believes that the competition at the Farm Show wasn't as keen this year as it has been in some other years. He and his family, owners of Woodbine Holsteins, have been to numerous shows around the country. He has 16 Holsteins of his own. The family owns a total of 120.

After graduation from high school, the youth will consider studying dairy science at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, a noted school for that and other agricultural courses. A partnership in the family's diary business may be considered after that. All in all, Knight considers dairying to be a fine way of life and he looks to the future with optimism. "I think it's pretty nice," he commented.

Knight is a member of the Milk and Money 4-H Club, Airville, of which Paul and Kathy King are the leaders. The Kings are another Holstein family which is instantly recognized for their accomplishments with Holstein cattle. Paul has been a 4-H club member for nine years and says he likes everything about showing cattle. He's come to Harrisburg on numerous occasions, but Tuesday marked the first time that he had a champion at the Farm Show. One of the things he likes best about coming here is that he can "Learn a lot from the older fellows."

Others to win championship ribbons in the Holstein contest were M.T. and C.L. Sheaffer of Carlisle, exhibitors of the junior champion in the open show. They won with Huntsdale Mamie Elevation, a senior yearling. The reserve junior champion winner was Tim Hackenburg of Muncy, exhibiting Lar-Y-Don Marquis J Peach, a heifer calf.

Robert Kauffman of Elizabethtown won the premier exhibitor banner on the strength of his show string. Harvey Stoltzfus of Morgantown captured the premier breeder banner.

Group Classes

In county group competition, Lancaster County won both the open and junior shows, edging Adams County in the youth division, and York with the adults.

Bob Kauffman's Holsteins were judged as best dairy herd of the breed, edging groups from Gordon and Dorothy Wood, Ken Mowry, and Creedin Cornman. Wood and Company was on top in the best three females class, beating Cornman and Harvey Stoltzfus for the honor.

In produce of dam selections, Wood came up first again followed by Bob Kauffman of Penn Springs Farm and Harvey Stoltzfus.

COWAMP meeting set

HARRISBURG – The Study Advisory Committee of the Department of Environmental Resources' (DER) Comprehensive Water Quality Management Plan (COWAMP) for Study Area 3, will meet Wednesday, January 18, 1978, at 7:00 p.m. in the Holiday East Motor Hotel, Highspire. This is a public meeting and all interested citizens are invited to attend.

Topics to be discussed at the January 18th meeting include identification of goals and objectives for the study area and environmental analysis of wastewater treatment methods. This is an opportunity for the public to ask questions and express opinions on these issues.

This is a regularly scheduled meeting of the ongoing public participation process for the COWAMP study. The guidance of the public is an integral item in DER's work to improve the water quality of the Commonwealth.

Capitol Region Planning and Development Agency (CRPDA) is holding this meeting as part of its responsibility to involve citizens of Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Perry, Schuylkill, and York counties in the COWAMP process.

Further information on this meeting and COWAMP are available from CRPDA, Harrisburg Host Inn, Suite 124, Harrisburg, Pa., 17111 or call 939-7827.

York Countians win junior Guernsey show

HARRISBURG — Two brothers from the York area made it a family affair in the youth division of the Farm Show's Guernsey Show by winning the grand champion and reserve grand champion titles.

The prize-winning boys are Barry and Brian Lehman, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Lehman, York R11.

A third York County youth who came close to winning it all in the 4-H show was Timy Rutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rutter, York. However, a technicality of the rules kept Rutter's animal out of the youth show, despite the fact that he is a 4-H member. The young man ended up with the reserve champion banner in the open show.

The Lehman boys and Rutter combined with Cindy Rutter (Timy's sister) and Darryl Rohrbaugh of New Freedom to win the county title. Rutter had the first-place senior yearling, in both 4-H and the open show, which stood as the junior champion of the open show. Rohrbaugh was at the halter of the top 2-year old in 4-H, Cindy had the second-place 2-year old, Brian had the first-place 4-year old, and Barry had the grand champion. Barry was awarded the highly prized Sewickley Trophy for his efforts, which signifies Guernsey supremacy at the Farm Show.

Brian's 4-year old stood second in the open show, being beaten by an entry exhibited by Pat McMurray of Bentleyville. In 4-H competition, Brian's cow won best udder and reserve grand champion honors.

Following are the placings of the youth classes.

Heifer Calf

1. Kevin Callihan, Imler; 2. David Briggs, Burgettstown.

Junior Yearling

2. April Lafferty, Lykens; 2. Alisa Marie Fava, Scenery Hill.

Ice-damaged trees need care

MEDIA - Ice storms can do considerable tree damage. Should one hit this winter knowing what to do and how to do it will mean the difference between saving favorite trees or chopping them up for firewood. Greatest storm injury is likely to occur on the faster growing trees. These include poplars, maples, willows, black locust, and Chinese and Siberian elms. Stronger species are oak, sycamore, and honeylocust.

If one is faced with the job of straightening a toppled tree or mending the wounds of broken or split branches experts suggest the following first-aid treatment. One should remove all broken branches. All cutting should be done with sharp tools. Saws, knives, and wood chisels may be needed. A person can make cuts either at a good side branch or nearly flush with the mother branch. This avoids leaving "dead end" stubs. One should make smooth, fast-draining wound surfaces, and remove splintered, rough, or loose wood from all parts of any wound with a wood chisel or sharp knife. All bark not solidly attached to the wood should be trimmed. Using a sharp knife, one can expose uninjured bark on all edges of the wound. After the wood has thawed, one should lift, straighten, and support trees, shrubs, or evergreen trees with wire encased in a hose whereever it touches the bark.

Some sheep get fleeced for Farm Show

By JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Reporter

MANCHESTER - With a gentle, but firm, maneuver, a ewe is flipped on her back and within moments has been shorn of her heavy Winter coat. As she jumps to her feet and runs to rejoin her worried lambs waiting nearby, the shearer bundles the thick fleece.

One man who annually repeats that procedure about 1200 times is Richard M. Coons, York R5. In addition to serving as a Dover Area School vocational agriculture teacher, Coons has built a reputation for excellance as a sheep shearer.

For the first time, Coons ntered fleeces into Farm Show competition this year. A regular exhibitor at the York Fair, he captured five first places, as well as the grand reserve championships there this year.

Fleeces entered at Farm Show by Coons were among the approximately 60 bundles exhibited yearly. Each breed has certain fleece characteristics, ranging from the extreme curliness of Merinos to some types with almost goat-like straightness. Because of decades of crossbreeding of sheep, categories are classified by bloodline percentages, largely determined by breed "wooliness." Coons' Dorset fleeces, for example were entered in the half-blood percentage division. Categories are also broken down into both ram and ewe divisions.

Although his flock of 20 ewes keep him occupied year round, the busiest time begins in late February when custom shearing gets underway. Every weekend from then through May is devoted to visits to about 100 regular customers in southcentral Pennsylvania and northern Maryland.

Rams generally yield the very nicest fleeces, because their systems do not have the protein drain experienced by ewes carrying and nurturing lambs. Since wool is protein, the quality of the fleece is determined by the amount of that nutrient available in the animal's body. Well-fed sheep yield fleeces normally weighing between six and 10 pounds each.

"Alfalfa is the best feed for sheep," insists Coons. "It makes the fleece twice as long and heavy as when timothy or similar grass hays are fed. Alfalfa-fed sheep also have would that's oily with lanolin, while other feeds just grease and 'gum up' the hairs. Oats are also good, and alfalfa or soybean meal."

Fleeces are marketed through both the Pennsylvania and Maryland Wool Pools. The Coons also sell some choice bundles to The Mannings at East Berlin, an arts and crafts center where classes are taught in spinning and weaving with natural wool. The Mannings sponsors an annual June crafts exhibit, where Coons demonstrates his sheep shearing talents.

Craftsmen demand the longest and cleanest fleeces, and pay top price for them. A high-quality white fleece often sells to hobbyists for $1.50 per pound, compared to the Wool Pool pound price of 60 to 70 cents. Especially valuable to home spinners and weavers are the scarce black and grey fleeces, which may bring $2 per pound.

Showing Holsteins is a joy for Arlen Keener

By DIETER KRIEG

RHEEMS – If it weren't for the Robert Kauffman family, 16-year old Arlen Keener may never have become interested in Holstein dairy cattle and the show circuit. Placing a show halter on one of the two animals he was preparing for the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Keener announced he wanted to first of all publically thank the Kauffmans for the opportunities they have given him.

Young Keener positioned the halter and began to brush his heifer's head for a picture. "The Kauffmans gave me my first heifer a couple of years ago," Keener began, "they've really been good to me." Although that first heifer died just a day before it was due to go to one of the major shows in the area, the enthusiastic young dairyman is building a herd. He has three Holsteins – none of them milking yet – but two thirds of them are show circuit stock.

Keener's heifer stood well for the pictures despite the blinding flash. She appeared ready for the excitement and distractions of the arena in Harrisburg. Keener removed the halter, turned off the barn lights, and we headed back to the comfort of the Kauffmans' kitchen.

"My parents farmed for about 25 years and sold out seven years ago," the young man explained as we stepped into the dark night. "I've kept close to farms anyway – working for several farmers in the area, including the man who bought the home farm" he continued.

Keener's relationship with the Kauffmans and Holsteins began shortly after his family moved within walking distance of the Kauffman farm. The Kauffmans' son, Steve, and Keener became friends, and before long the transplanted farm boy was spending much time in his adopted family's home, barn, and fields.

Although he has no set work schedule with the Kauffmans, he helps out when needed and as his schedule permits. This past Tuesday he helped clip the family's show string, including three of his own.

Showing top quality Holsteins is something of a tradition for the Kauffmans, whose championship ribbons and trophies would easily number into dozens. The winning formula is being shared with Keener, as he is making a mark for himself among young Holstein enthusiasts in Lancaster County and neighboring areas.

"Arlen is very interested in Holsteins and their pedigrees," offered Mrs. Kauffman from the far side of the table. Keener confirmed the comment by revealing his plans for the future. "I'd like to be a herdsman on a dairy farm and have the opportunity to keep a couple Holsteins of my own," he said. He's presently a member of the county, state and national junior Holstein associations, the Lancaster County 4-H club, and the Elizabethtown FFA Chapter.

Keener regards his present showing experiences as being valuable stepping stones to the future he has in mind. Also, he believes that show ring honors will help him merchandise his own animals once that time comes. Beyond that, he likes the fun of meeting people and learning how to fit dairy animals properly.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keener, Elizabethtown R3, the young man believes halter training and leading an animal are the most difficult tasks of show preparation. But these same duties can also be the most enjoyable once the animal's confidence is won, he adds.

Both of Keener's Farm Show entries for 1978 have won All-Pennsylvania honorable mention distinction. The younger of the two is a junior yearling out of the Robert Young herd, Elizabethtown R3. The other is a 2-year old purchased from Tom Scheaffer at Carlisle.

This week, Keener tried for the ribbons which the Kauffmans have inspired him to win. He came away with two second place ribbons and a fourth, competing both in the youth division and against the seasoned veterans.

Agronomists trying no-till alfalfa

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff correspondent

BAIR – If your no-till corn planter sits in the shed eleven months of the year, why not consider putting it to another use?

Penn State agronomists are reserching legume planting using no-till corn planters with favorable results, according to Dr. Bill McClellan, agronomist with the University. McClellan advised farmers attending the January 3 York-Adams alfalfa and small grains meeting on methods of establishing the no-till legumes.

Alfalfa in test plots was sowed in 19 inch rows, using a 38 inch no-till planter, and doubling back one time. Production checks on forage legumes sowed in the wider rows showed yields equal to conventional seven-inch rows. Planter depth must be adjusted for the finer seed. While some commercial no-till legume seeders are coming on the market, the researchers have found nothing during the experiments that did a better job than the conventional no-till planter.

Soil tests are a must for no-till legume seeding. If soil acidity is below 6.2, McClellan suggested that red clover, rather than alfalfa, might be a better choice for a forage crop.

New alfalfa stands can be established in old fields by killing the old plants with 2, 4-D. Harvest the grass remaining and then reestablish the forage crop by no-tilling.

The agronomist also spoke on controlling weed problems in alfalfa and small grains.

"Some weeds in alfalfa can be controlled with the cutter bar," suggested McClellan. Pests like pigweed, Canada thistle and horse nettle will not stand severe defoliation and careful management with regular harvesting should keep these weeds from getting established. Controlling insects in alfalfa stands will also help keep weed problems to a minimum, because the stronger and healthier stalks are more able to choke out weed seedlings.

Neither nutsedge nor fall panicum grass can tolerate much shade. Getting seedling stands of alfalfa off to a good early start will give them time to grow out and keep these two unwanted grasses from getting started.

Total weed control in alfalfa is almost impossible, McClellan warned, but many fields can be stretched for extra production years with careful management. Fall spraying after taking off the last crop will help control winter weeds like pepgrass and chickweed.

Banvel and 2,4-D were recommended for weed problems in small grain fields, but they must be applied with almost split-second timing. A too-early or too late appliation may do more harm to the crop than the weed infestation. Only during a brief period, between the time that small grain crown growth stops and seed heading starts, is spraying recommended.

Elwood Hately, a Penn State grain agronomist, gave recommendations during the meeting on varieties and management of small grain crops.

Causing concern to wheat growers is the virus disease, Wheat Spindle Streak Mosaic. Yellowed lower leaves are a symptom of the virus infestation, although other plant conditions will also cause leaf discoloration A new wheat variety, Hart, is reported to be more resistant to the virus. Other varieties suggested for use in this growing area are Abe, Redcoat, Ruler and Potomac, a new variety with only limited test data to date.

A relatively new barley, Maury, is coming through test results with high scores, showing excellent winter hardiness, but lacking the extreme early maturing of some other popular varieties.

Dal, a type of Spring oats, shows promise of being a "new breed of oats," in Dr. Hately's opinion. The newcomer has the ability to accumulate more nitrogen, but has not given the high yields currently produced by other available varieties

Complete planting data on a wide range of field crops is available in the 1978 Agronomy Guide, available to growers through the Pennsylvania State University Extension Service.

Some sheep

sheep and wool products, Linda and Rich Coons stock their freezer with lamb and mutton several times each year.

"Lamb can be made so many ways," emphasizes Linda, mother of three and full-time college student. It's especially good in crock-pot recipes, which I use frequently."

Even the sheep hides get put to use, with Rich occasionally tanning a few for use around the farm, on tractor seats, for instance. His shortcut technique does not render the hides as soft as some lengthier methods, but does preserve them.

First, the fat is scraped off the hide with a skinning knife. Then the hide is washed in warm water and a mild liquid soap. While wet, the underside of the hide is thoroughly coated with a mixture of one-half alum and one-half salt. After about five days, kneading of the hide begins, working it over the end of a sawhorse or wood chair arm. This kneading to soften the hide should be continued daily for at least a week. Finishing is done by rubbing glycerine or neatsfoot oil into the hide.

One favorite food of the Coons family is "Sheep Bologna." It's a delicious home-style recipe which Linda Coons consented to share:

Sheep Bologna

20 pounds lamb or mutton, ground twice
1¾ cups salt
1 tablespoon black pepper
5 teaspoons salt petre
2 pounds light brown sugar
2 cups dark molasses
2 cups honey

Mix all ingredients together and pack very tightly into three-inch diameter muslin bologna bags. Smoke as for any home-style bologna. Freeze, unsliced, if desired.

FFA Band performs

The "FFA Mail Order Band" performed at the Farm Show on Tuesday and Wednesday, as part of the Show's evening festivities and the Annual Mid-Winter Convention of the FFA. Practicing together since the Sunday before the Farm Show started, the band members were recruited through the mail by application forms mailed to the chairman from FFA members throughout the state. The applications were then sent to Dr. Ned Diehl, Professor of Music at Penn State and director of music of the Penn State Blue Band. This is his third year as director.

The band entertains its audience with marches, show tunes, movie themes, and other good music. Each year the FFA band is formed at Farm Show time as an entirely new band. Each member that participates in January is then automatically entered in the state FFA band for the summer convention of the FFA in June at Penn State.

outstanding dairyman and conservationist, also had the high producing cow. She was Lindenhof Nance Nanette, a home-bred cow with production credits of 19,206 pounds of milk and 731 of fat.

The award for high cow for fat went to Harold Ealy of Sharpsville whose 7-year old bovine, produced 16,128 pounds of milk and 856 of fat.

Additional production awards were given to junior members, beginning with Mary Ann Wilmer of Willow Street whose 2-year old produced 14,558 and 689 pounds of milk and butterfat, respectively. The award for 3-year olds went to William Romberger's Carsals Command Dot, who produced 12,924 pounds of milk and 556 of butterfat.

Jeff Harding of Brookville had the top 4-year old - Aukema Dairy Nance Magna - who produced 13,964 pounds of milk and 575 pounds of butterfat in 283 days. James Harding captured the honor for aged cows on the strength of the 15,416 pounds of milk and 629 pounds of butterfat produced by his Beaufort Felicia.

The speaker for the event was Alexander Contract, a native of the Soviet Union who served in the Kremlin under dictator Joseph Stalin. Telling his audience about his experiences and life in the Soviet Union in general, Contract warned the Guernsey breeders that the Soviets cannot be trusted and that the communist system is evil. A former agent for the dreaded KGB, of secret police, Contract came to the United States in 1949 and will soon publish a revealing book about the scheming and crimes that go on in the Kremlin.

Noting that nearly all staffers at Soviet embassies around the world are KGB agents, Contract acknowledged that his revealing messages could someday cost him his life. He had remained quiet about his knowledge until a few years ago, when he decided to tell all. Official information coming out of Russia, he says, is nothing more than propaganda, and even the film footage brought out by Western cameramen is subject to cutting by communist censors.

Contract was present at numerous high-level World War II meetings, speaks 11 languages, and is convinced that history books aren't telling what really happened at places such as Yalta. His forthcoming book, he hopes, will set some records straight.

First aid named for snagged knits

DOVER, Del. - There is help for knits that snag, according to Extension clothing specialists. One should look for a "knit fixer" in the notions section of fabric stores. It's a tiny metal hook that's inserted in the wrong side of the fabric so one can pull the snag to the back. A person can accomplish the same thing with a very fine crochet hook.

The tightness of the twisted yarn affects the snagging potential of a fabric. Tight knits snag less than loose, open knits.

A smooth "hard" knit will not snag as readily as a puffy or rough-textured knit. Also, snags show more on solid colors, but may not be noticeable on a print.

Pilling is an entirely different matter. Balled-up fibers that appear on the surface of clothing may occur from wear, from cleaning, or both, say specialists. Yarns made of synthetic fibers tend to pill more than wool, they add.

In some cases pilling can be removed by brushing, but it must be done carefully so as not to damage the fabric. It's also possible to clip the balled-up fibers from the surface of the knit. One should keep in mind, though, that brushing or clipping will leave new exposed fibers which will also be subject to pilling.

Auctioneer's Directory

Why whip dairy sour cream? If you want it smoother and fluffier than the way it comes from a carton, especially as a topper for fruits or chocolate brownies, then whip it. Use a chilled bowl and beaters just as you do for whipped cream.

FEED LESS HAY?

YES — You can feed your cows less hay when you feed PURINA GOLDEN BULKY

WHAT IS GOLDEN BULKY?

Purina Golden Bulky has long been a favorite of profit-minded dairymen because this bulky, nutritious feed can be used so many different ways to help increase milk production and add income to dairy operations throughout America.

Golden Bulky was first fed to cows and heifers in the early 1900's. Since its introduction, Purina Dairy scientists have made many improvements which have added to its versatility and milk-making qualities.

It is a bulky, nutritious, easy-to-feed 10% protein ration containing molasses. Cows really love its sweet, succulent flavor! It is a versatile ration, which fits well into feeding programs for milk cows, heifers or dry cows. With its fortification of minerals and Vitamins A and D it makes an excellent supplement in roughage programs with hay, pastures or corn silage.

Because of its versatile qualities it has often been called "A dairyman's best friend."

GOLDEN BULKY HAS MANY USES

- Top Feed 2 gallons per day to stretch hay supply 2 gal. = 6 lbs. of Hay
- Helps fussy, high producing cows produce even more milk when top fed with regular milking ration.
- Mix 50-50 with grain for dry cow and heifer ration.
- Replaces molasses in home mix rations.
- Very palatable for use with Show cows, Cows in Transit, sick cows.

BECAUSE PURINA GOLDEN BULKY IS VERY PALATABLE
YOU CAN TOP FEED IT TO YOUR HIGH PRODUCING COWS AND HELP THEM PRODUCE EVEN MORE MILK
